Crowded Church Watched by Police

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Elegantly attired friends, local businessmen, plainclothes police and pretty Neapolitan girls packed the church today for the funeral of Charles (Lucky) Luciano, the Italian emigrant who became a New York vice lord.

Joe (Cock-eyed John) Raimondi, Nick di Marzio and Joe di Giorgio were there. U.S. Narcotics Bureau agents spotted them among friends who, like Luciano, had been deported by the United States to their homeland.

Had to Stay Away

"So Long, Pal" said the inscription on a floral piece from Joe Adonis, former New Jersey gambling king who chose to return to Italy in 1956 rather than serve a term in prison.

Adonis himself could not get to the church for the funeral. Authorities won't let him leave his little home town of Avellino, 25 miles away, without special permission.

Luciano's mahogany casket lay in the Roman Catholic church with six wreaths on it as the local pastor sang a Requiem Mass for him.

Every Fifth an Officer

A U.S. agent said one of every five persons in the church was a plainclothesman, either Italian or American. Three American agents recorded on movie film the faces of everyone who walked in.

Flashbulbs popped steadily during the service, as they had while the mourners were arriving. They didn't seem to bother Luciano's brother, Bartolo, or Bartolo's son, Salvatore.

The two New York Lucianias—Luciano's real family name—paid no attention. But relatives of a 24-year-old Neapolitan girl said to have been a close friend of Luciano slapped one news photographer and tried to grab another's camera.

Luciano's casket was placed in an ornately carved silver-and-black funeral carriage, with huge silver lanterns mounted near the doors. It was drawn by eight coal-black horses.

Regular Salute Given

The cortege moved away slowly under a dreary overcast for the four-mile trip to the English cemetery at Poggioreale.

Policemen at every intersection along the way snapped to attention and saluted the horse-drawn carriage, as they do whenever a funeral party passes.

Luciano's casket was put inside the cemetery chapel. It is to stay there until the Lucianias know whether burial will be in Italy or if authorities will permit them to take the body back to the United States.

JFK to Send 2 Major Messages This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sends two important messages to Congress this week: his new farm proposals and a plan to establish a Cabinet-level department of urban affairs.

In his farm message Tuesday Kennedy is expected to endorse broader control programs with a view to bringing stability to all farm commodities.

Farm legislation usually engenders political controversy and Kennedy's proposals are not expected to be an exception.

More Political Dynamite

Also laden with political dynamite is Kennedy's message on urban affairs, which is expected to go to Capitol Hill Tuesday.

Kennedy is expected to hammer again on the theme that a new federal office is essential to coordinate plans for solving transit, traffic, slum and utility problems of metropolitan areas.

Last week, Republicans and Southern Democrats combined in the House Rules Committee to kill the administration's urban affairs bill. Kennedy promptly announced he would attempt to upset that action by proposing the department in a government reorganization plan.

Kennedy has confirmed that he intends to appoint Robert C. Weaver, a Negro who now heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency, as head of the new department.

Both the House and Senate plan to debate this week a major administration proposal—federal aid for colleges—with chances of passage rated good in each branch.

The Senate version is much broader than the one before the House, so there may be difficulty in adjusting the differences in conference.

Salinger Refers To Soviet Talks As Just Routine

PARIS (AP) — White House press secretary Pierre Salinger met with his Soviet counterpart today but declined to say whether they discussed an exchange of television appearances by President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev.

Asked about his talks with Soviet press chief Mikhail Kharlamov, Salinger said: "They were just routine and informal."

Salinger met with Kharlamov at the Soviet Embassy. They first got together Sunday night at a cocktail party given by Pierre Baracuc, French Foreign Ministry press spokesman.

Salinger said earlier the purpose of the meeting was to discuss questions, of communications between the two nations.

Salinger said his main reason for coming to Paris was to meet with Murrow and U.S. Embassy public affairs officers from Paris, Bonn and London.

Murrow also declined to discuss the talks with the Soviet press chief. He said he has just returned from an inspection tour of West Africa and decided to meet with the public affairs officers on the way back to the United States.

Before meeting with Kharlamov, Salinger told reporters the question of a face-to-face meeting between Kennedy and Khrushchev would not be brought up.

Thursday Seems Day For Glenn

He'll Be Back Is Word to Preacher

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Project Mercury officals say the next attempt to rocket astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. three times around the world will come no earlier than Thursday.

Thus, today may have dawned T minus 73 hours for the Marine lieutenant colonel who sat more than five hours in the waiting spacecraft Saturday before weather forced a postponement.

Keeps Busy

Otherwise Glenn was busy with preparations for his trip. Before church he attended an evaluation session. In the afternoon he donned his space suit and went through an hour-long practice mission in the space trainer.

Rocket and spacecraft crews worked on the Atlas booster rocket and the Friendship 7 atop it. They also went through a dress rehearsal of the last critical hours of the launch-day countdown. All systems were reported checking out well.

The critical problem at this stage again seemed to be the weather. Will clouds or winds over this missile base prevent the Atlas from being launched by limiting the visibility or making the few unsteady moments of the rocket's liftoff dangerous?

Will heavy seas, primarily in the Atlantic Ocean, put in doubt a safe recovery of Glenn and his capsule after the earth has been orbited?

Area Is Clouded

On Saturday, a concentrated bank of clouds, nearly 1,000 feet thick, spread over central Florida. The countdown was halted with only 20 minutes to go. Later in the afternoon the skies cleared.

In Arlington, Va., the astronaut's family went about Sunday as usual, though Mrs. Glenn admitted the waiting was making it difficult to keep family life normal.

The pretty brunette took her two teen-age children to Sunday school in the family station wagon and joined them later for church.

March of Dimes Show Set Tonight At HS Auditorium

The annual March of Dimes variety show will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

A variety of acts by local and Broadway talent will be featured. Peg Leg Bates, well-known television and nightclub performer, will take part as well as direct the show. Music will be by Harry Maisenhelder's Orchestra.

13 Die in Traffic And 4 in Fires On Past Weekend

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A two-car collision and a fire in which three children died helped swell the weekend accident death toll in New York State.

Traffic accidents once again claimed the most lives, 13. Fires killed four persons.

A husband and wife and another woman died in the two-car crash Sunday near Sidney, Delaware County. They had been returning to their homes in Binghamton from a square dance. It was snowing at the time.

The fire Sunday destroyed a farm house near Brushton, in Northern New York, killing Lloyd Jock Jr., 5, and his brother and sister, Larry, 3, and Candy, 2.

Their father, their pregnant mother and two other men fled in nightclothing into temperature 8 degrees below zero.

Other accidental deaths, by community, between 6 p.m. Friday and last midnight:

Rochester—Daniel Mykins, 19, Rochester, rifle discharged Saturday.

Nyack—James E. Mitchell, 37, Valley Cottage, two-car crash Saturday night, died Sunday.

Two P'keepsie Stores Damaged By Flames Today

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Firemen battled a fire in two downtown stores today in temperatures that dipped below 10 degrees.

The fire spread from the basement of the Up-To-Date Fashion Shop into the adjoining J.J. Newberry Store.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

There was no estimate of damage.

ENDING AN ERA—Street car moves along historic Pennsylvania Avenue near the Capitol on final day of trolley service in Washington, D. C., Jan. 27. January 28 buses started to serve all the city's public transit routes, ending an era that began with horse-drawn vehicles 100 years ago. (AP Wirephoto).

Efforts on CR Seem Destined for Block

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's efforts to get congressional action on civil rights legislation appear headed toward the usual roadblock—a Southern Democratic filibuster in the Senate.

There are no current signs that Democrats and Republicans who support the administration bill can muster the strength to kill a filibuster.

How It Looks

In the months that lie between now and next November's congressional elections, Kennedy stands to gain politically by having asked for action. But on some hot summer day, if not before, there will be a count of noses on the issue of limiting debate.

Under the Senate's rules, two-thirds of those voting would have to approve in order to invoke debate-limiting cloture and kill a filibuster. If history repeats, a solid phalanx of Dixie Democrats—aided by a handful of Northern party members and some Republicans—will prevent any action.

Thus, in the end, the Republicans will be able to say they provided a majority for action on civil rights but Democrats balked.

Begins Today

A great deal of political marching forth and back will proceed this showdown. It begins today with the issue of whether an administration bill should be sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a proponent of civil rights legislation, has said Mansfield's bill

McCormack's Kin To Seek Senate Seat Next Fall

BOSTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey has bumped head on into a touchy political rivalry between the younger brother of President Kennedy and House Speaker John W. McCormack's nephew.

Bailey walked into it when he began a question and answer session at Saturday night's meeting of the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee.

Came a question from Committeeman Edward J. McCormack, whose son, Edward Jr., the Massachusetts attorney general, is expected to run for the U.S. Senate seat vacated a year ago by President Kennedy. The President's brother, Edward M., is expected to be another candidate, although neither one has made any announcement yet.

Questions Bailey

The question to Bailey from the senior McCormack was this:

"Do you think the chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic Committee should take sides or be neutral in the Democratic Senate primary?"

"That's a question I think the chairman would have to decide for himself," said Bailey, "and I'm sure Mr. Lynch (John M. Lynch, elected chairman by pro-

Argentina And Chile Shift View

Speculates 17-18 Votes Back U.S.

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The foreign ministers of the American states agreed in principle today to "suspend" Fidel Castro's Cuban regime from hemisphere family councils.

A U.S. delegation source disclosed the breakthrough on this toughest issue of the conference, which has prolonged its deliberations here beyond the scheduled closing today. It came when Argentina and Chile — members of the so-called soft seven bloc led by Brazil and Mexico—accepted the majority view on the suspension procedure.

May Get 18 Votes

The U.S. informant speculated that the United States would get 17 to 18 of the 20 available votes for a policy statement that the Castro regime is unfit to sit in hemisphere councils so long as it embraces the Communist philosophy. The Council of the Organization of American States will be instructed by this conference to decide "without delay" just how Cuba can be suspended.

Reach General Accord

Agreeing not to disagree, the Western Hemisphere foreign ministers reached a general accord that there should be a series of at least six resolutions embodied in a final declaration so that those who wanted to vote against certain aspects could do so.

Drafting of the declaration is expected to be completed today, with a vote Tuesday to wind the conference up by Tuesday night.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk appeared to have achieved limited success to this extent:

Most, if not all, of the 19 Latin-American republics judging Cuba agree the Havana regime should be declared incompatible with the American system. Most are agreed the government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro should be suspended or expelled from OAS agencies. Most are agreed there should be no arms trade betwen their countries and Cuba. They hold Castro's representatives should not sit on the Inter-American Defense Board and they feel a vigilance committee should be created to keep watch against subversion.

Opinions Differ

There were great differences of opinion here on just what all this added up to.

Mothers' March Slated Tuesday

Mothers of the Kingston area will be on the march Tuesday night for the New March of Dimes.

Mrs. Lincoln Crosby, Mothers' March city chairman, said the sounding of the fire alarm horns will signal the start of the march at 7 p. m., Tuesday.

"Please turn on your porch lights to welcome these neighbors and remember you will be giving to help prevent arthritis, the great crippler, and tragic birth defects, targets for the 1962 New March of Dimes", she said. "Your dimes helped develop the vaccines against polio. Your dimes will do it again," Mrs. Crosby stressed.

Action Is Due Tonight On 2 Major Programs

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature will act tonight on two of Gov. Rockefeller's major program bills as he finished work on the 1962-63 state budget of $2.6 billion.

The governor's $54-million deficiency budget and his proposal for increasing workmen's compensation benefits by $5 weekly, to $55, are considered assured of final legislative passage in the Senate and Assembly, respectively.

The budget, for the fiscal year beginning April 1, will be submitted to the Legislature Wednesday, along with the traditional message explaining the state's financial condition.

It has been apparent for some time that appropriations will rise at least $200 million over the present $2.4-billion budget. Most of the increase will be spent for education.

The budget will be the fourth submitted by Rockefeller and the last during his present term of office. He will seek re-election in November.

The governor has said that he will recommend neither tax relief nor tax increases in his new spending program.

In other developments:

Deficiency Budget—The budget is expected to draw Democratic opposition in the Senate, as it did in the Assembly, but probably will win approval from the Senate's Republican majority. The Democrats complain that a $20-million item to purchase office-building sites in downtown Albany constitutes a new program that should be put in the new, main budget. Republicans have been unhappy about spending the money in heavily-Democratic Albany but have agreed to their leaders' wishes.

Workmen's Compensation — The governor's proposal to increase the maximum weekly benefits apparently was designed to win him votes from organized labor this year. Democrats contend the $5 increase the governor requested is too small. But the measure passed the Senate unanimously last week.

Medical Care — The Republican governor and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, a Democrat and possible opponent for Rockefeller in the forthcoming election, exchanged sharp statements over the weekend. Wagner argued the state's program of medical care for the aged was inadequate. The governor accusing Wagner of playing politics, said New York City had saved $20 million through higher state and federal aid for the program.

Newburgh — The State Social Welfare Department said it would investigate cases in which applicants for aid have been denied help by the city of Newburgh, the center of a nationwide controversy because of its efforts to cut its relief rolls through steps

Sarnoff Tells FCC Networks Regulation Would Be Unwise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert W. Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co., said today government regulation of networks would be unnecesssary, unwise and unworkable.

"We cannot accept the premise that the public interest demands the regulation of networks, and that all that remains is to decide just how they should be regulated," said Sarnoff in testimony for the opening of the second week of hearings by the Federal Communications Commission.

The hearings are designed to measure the extent networks control U.S. television fare and to determine what type of regulation may be necessary.

Columbia Broadcasting System officials testified last week. American Broadcasting Co. executives will appear next week after NBC completes its testimony.

Sarnoff said network television has been shaped largely by its three principal characteristics—"as an advertiser-supported service, an intensely competitive enterprise, and the most broadly based mass medium in history."

It was no accident that created the broadcasting system on its present economic basis, he said. "For by its very structure, a commerically based system, dependent for success on public favor and spurred by economic competition, would have to be continuously responsive to the tastes and desires of our national public," Sarnoff said.

"This was to be its primary regulating force, rather than the personal tastes and desires of private managements, subsidizers or government officials."

The television dial, he said, is America's most frequently used voting machine.

"Every day, millions of viewers are making scores of millions of choices among the programs offered to them, accepting some and rejecting others. Broadcast schedules are continously changed in accordance with the tally of votes the viewers have cast."

TELEPHONE GROUPS HONOR MAYOR SCHWENK—Some 150 employes of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the New York Telephone Co. paid tribute to Mayor John J. Schwenk, who recently retired as a Bell System employe after 36 years of service. Among those attending the retirement dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday night (l-r rear) were: Eugene McNeely, AT & T Co. president; Glen Watts, assistant to the president of the Communications Workers of America; Mayor Schwenk, and John Vines, local central office A T & T chief. Schwenk Is Lauded By Phone President

Mayor John J. Schwenk, honored in retirement as an employe of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. after 36 years of service, heard Eugene McNeely, president of A T & T, praise him for his long interest in civic affairs, and he received praise from other company officials and employes at the dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday night.

This, said McNeely, "is the first time I have had the opportunity to attend a retirement party for a man who is retiring early to become mayor of a large city." That, he felt, "Didn't just happen, I am sure, because, we have been in this community as part-time residents (he and family) for nine years," during which, he said, "I never met Mr. Schwenk, but I have heard repeatedly from my friends about what a great job he has done in civic activities."

Several others paid tribute to the mayor's years of service including Girard Terry, Albany A T & T plant superintendent; John Vines, central office chief at the Kingston A T & T office where Schwenk has been employed; William Sill, chairman of the Life Members Club, Kingston Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America, who is also retired; Glen Watts, assistant to the president of The Communications Workers of America and Sidney Dunston, vice-president of the Albany Local CWA.

Mayor Schwenk said he was honored by the presence of the A T & T president and his wife along with the attendance of the assistant to the president of CWA.

Southern U Has Resumed Classes Despite Threats

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Southern University, the nation's largest state school for Negroes, reopened today with hundreds of students heading for classes despite earlier threats of classroom boycotts.

Some students said they thought the call by a student leader for the boycott would fall through.

The signers said they were opposed to segregation and discrimination. They said they regretted the action taken against demonstrating students.

"We affirm the sacred right of every American citizen to hold and express opinions on public issues," they said.

Southern President Felton Clark ordered the university closed 10 days ago following student demonstrations against racial segregation. When the school reopened for registration it turned down 45 students.

'Corpse' Reported In Fair Condition

A relative said a doctor pronounced the dentist dead at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Two men came from a funeral home to take the body. As they wheeled Streem into the preparations room at the funeral home, Larry Miller shouted: "My God, he's breathing!" That was at 12:15 p.m.

Schwenk Lauded

A T & T and New York Telephone Company attended.

"I am overwhelmed," said Schwenk, "by the expression of warmth which you have shown me here tonight. Although this is one of the happy moments in my life, it also has some elements of sadness with it. For a person to leave those with whom he has worked in close cooperation for many years is quite difficult. I have shared some wonderful memories with you."

They were, he said, "Memories of accomplishments, of which we are all proud, and of the problems we were able to solve, and the day-by-day working together in harmony. These memories are not easily forgotten, and I have no intention of letting them vanish."

"To take on new duties and responsibilities," he said, "will present problems, but I look forward to it with a great deal of enthusiam. There is one thing I would like to say at a time like this:

Enjoyed the Years

"As I look back over the years in which I have been with the telephone company, I feel grateful. My associations with the company have provided me with work that I have found very enjoyable, and with the help of my wife, I was able to build and pay for my own home, raise and educate my children, and also to make some worthwhile contributions to my community. I consider that these are worth while in life, and it is for that reason I am happy to have been an employe of the American Telephone Company.

"I also want to extend to you my sincere gratitude for the honors you have shown me tonight, for the gifts you have presented to me, and for the pleasures of having been associated with you over these many years. Thank you."

Real Tribute, He Says

Those in the Bell System, said the A T & T president, are concerned with devoting time to civic affairs, because "as citizens we have a duty," but he thought that the way it has turned out in Kingston was "a wonderful tribute."

"It was no surprise to me," he said, "when I learned he (Schwenk) had become Mayor of Kingston. All over the country the telephone people are fine people. I have wondered about this and asked why. I think it is primarily because we are dedicated to service. And you wives and ladies in the telephone business probably give up more in this dedication to service than we do. And that applies all up and down the line."

Mrs. Schwenk, he felt, deserved as much or perhaps more credit for the success of her husband, but, he said "it is always a team job." It was pleasure, he said, to live in a community where "a telephone employe" is a mayor.

Similar praise came from Girard Terry, Albany district plant superintendent, who presented a gift, Glen Watts, assistant to the CWA president, who was impressed with Schwenk's past civic record, and said the CWA encourages interest in public office.

John Vines, as the local central office chief, in introducing Eugene McNeeley, as president of A T & T emphasized that he "is a resident of Stone Ridge, and of Schwenk, he said that although "we now lose you as an employe of the Bell System, we are honored to give you to the people of the City of Kingston."

Receives Gifts

William Sill, as president of the Life Members Club, Telephone Pioneers of America, notified Mayor Schwenk, of his membership with words of welcome, and Sidney Dunston, vice-president of Albany Local 1151, CWA, presented a "small token" from the local "for your past years of service to the union cause." Thomas Nilsen, of the Kingston postal system, presented a gift and wished him luck as mayor.

Stanley Petro, of the local office also presented a gift, and Miss Carolyn Newkirk, of the A. T. & T., Cooperstown, in presenting a gift to Mrs. Schwenk, said it was "to one, who unassumingly and effectively has contributed so much to the popularity and success of her husband in the telephone company, and in the community."

In prajsing Schwenk for his years of telephone work, Albany District Plant Superintendent Terry said that he had been "one of the most reliable communications men we have had anywhere in upstate New York."

On the committee making arrangements for the dinner were Stanley Petro, James Van Buren and William Whitney.

Kennedy forces in 1956) will make the right decision."

"Well, we want him to keep his hands off," stormed McCormack. "Let the Kennedys and the McCormacks fight it out in the convention and in the primary, and let Pat Lynch mind his own business."

McCormack Will Run

To leave no doubt where he stands, the elder McCormack added: "I'm determined that Eddie will go to the Senate. He's earned it. He's come up through the ranks and if we are going to talk about party loyalty, Eddie should get the nomination."

The Senate seat now is held by Benjamin A. Smith II, a Harvard classmate of the President who was appointed by the then Gov. Foster Furcolo. Smith hasn't talked about his political ambitions.

The Republicans have two announced candidates—George Cabot Lodge, an assistant secretary of labor in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, and Rep. Laurence Curtis. Lodge is the son of former United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Curtis' present congressional district is being wiped out in redistricting.

Agree on Ousting

get all countries—even Mexico, which voted with Cuba against holding this conference—to proclaim collectively that communism is bad for the hemisphere and that Castroism is incompatible with the Inter-American system if it remains in the embrace of the Soviet bloc.

Most agree in principle that the Castro regime does not belong in OAS agencies. The big stumbling block is how to get Cuba out.

The bloc of seven go-slow nations led by Brazil and Mexico wanted to toss the issue to the OAS Council in Washington, where the matter would come under the OAS charter and not the Rio de Janeiro treaty for inter-American defense.

Case of Needed Machinery

There is no machinery under the OAS charter, by which the council is bound, to oust any member from its agencies. There is machinery under the Rio treaty.

Since a mass diplomatic break with Cuba was ruled out at the beginning of this conference, little punitive action is envisioned under the six-part declaration. An economic break is made entirely voluntary. Nations which have broken diplomatic relations with Cuba have no trade with the Castro regime except in nonstrategic items.

Funeral Services Set Tuesday for Rondout Teacher

The funeral of William Avery Thurston, 48, of West Shokan, ninth grade English teacher at Rondout Valley Central School, killed Saturday morning in a motor vehicle accident on Route 28 in the Town of Ulster, will be held Tuesday at the Bennett-Brown Funeral Home, Delaware, Ohio.

Death, according to Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston, was accidental, due to a ruptured heart caused by fractured ribs and a fractured sternum. The body was shipped to Ohio Sunday for funeral and burial. Thurston's father, George N. Thurston resides in Ashley, Ohio, and burial will be in that community in Ashley Union Cemetery.

Valley School Is Given Honors in Science Contest

The Tri Valley Central School at Grahamsville has been listed as an honor school in the twenty-first annual Science Talent Search conducted by the Science Clubs of America. The school officials have been notified of the designation by Dr. Watson Davis, director of Science Clubs of America.

The honor was bestowed by virtue of the placement of senior Ira Rubenzahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rubenzahl of Neversink, in the top 10 per cent of the 3,560 students in the nation who entered this highly competitive science contest. Of the 356 finalists, 40 of the students will be selected for one of the four-year Westinghouse College scholarships. These scholarships have a total value of $34,250.

Ira, also active in sports and other extracurricular activities at Tri Valley Central School, presented as his science project in the contest his experiments and findings as to the effect of light on trichoderma. During the preceding summer, he conducted experiments on plant enzymes at Cornell University in a special program for outstanding high school students in New York state. He hopes to become a biochemist and plans to enter either Princeton University or Swarthmore College for his studies, next fall.

He is also a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition, and is eligible for one of the 159 National Honor Society scholarships or awards.

Efforts on CR

should go to the Rules Committee which handles election legislation. Javits said he might try to force this action today by a vote.

Sponsors know very well they will never get the bill out of Eastland's committee.

Mansfield is resigned to this, but he said he hopes to be able to obtain some hearings on the proposal before he moves to offer it as a rider to some other legislation.

Such a move—in which Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois could be expected to join—would have the effect of bypassing the committee. But it would bump immediately into a Southern filibuster.

State Teachers Name President

Piddock, of Williamson Central School, was elected Saturday to succeed Dr. Emery Will of the State University College at Oneonta.

Other officers named during the annual winter meeting included Glen Hall of Carthage, second vice president; Miss Ann Muehleck of Colonie Central High School, near Albany, secretary; and Mrs. Marion McIntosh of Madrid - Waddington Central School, Madrid, treasurer.

Moon Shot That Missed Is To Spend Eternity Flying

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ranger 3, the moon shot that missed its target by nearly 23,000 miles, is doomed to spend the rest of eternity in futile flight—an accidental satellite of the sun.

Of its four objectives, the $7-million space craft apparently accomplished only one.

The biggest disappointment was that it missed the moon by 22,862 miles. This happened because it was hurled into its trajectory at excessive speed after it was launched Friday from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

That failure brought on others. For one thing, the 727-pound space craft was unable to bounce radar signals off the moon. And, since it did not land its capsule on the moon, it was unable to bring its seismomoter into play and measure moonquakes.

It also failed to get close-up pictures of the moon. The long-range shots it got as it sped past apparently will be of little value, if any.

The one thing Ranger 3 did was collect gamma radiation data. These data already are being analyzed.

Ranger 3 raced by the moon and into oblivion Sunday afternoon, beginning to tumble as it went into solar orbit. Only one of its transmitters was working. During periods when that transmitter's antenna was pointed toward earth, scientists were able to pick up the signal and chart Ranger's progress.

An official of the Jet Propulsion Labratory, operated here for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Ranger 3 will remain in orbit "for the duration of the solar system's life."

The television cameras aboard Ranger 3 were supposed to operate for 40 minutes, as the space craft descended slowly toward the moon in its final maneuver. Had the operation gone smoothly, the pictures would have shown the moon in detail never before achieved.

When the camera was turned on Sunday as Ranger 3 sped by the moon, the space craft failed to keep its antenna pointed toward earth. The signal received at Goldstone tracking station in the California desert was weaker than it should have been and was masked by noise.

Scientists said they would try to unmask the signal and evaluate it. A jet propulsion laboratory spokesman said this may take several weeks. He added: "There is little hope that it will produce any beneficial results."

Integration Is Quiet at School

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — School integration came quietly to Lynchburg today.

At 8:53 a.m. a sedan pulled to the snowbanked curve before the colonnaded entrance of E. C. Glass High School, and two Negro teen-agers got out.

One was a tall, slender youth—Owen C. Cardwell Jr. The other was a neat, dark-eyed girl in a red carcoat—Linda D. Woodruff. Both are 14 years old and well aware that they are the first Negroes to attend a white school in this city of 55,000 persons.

Judge Thomas J. Michie of Charlottesville ordered the Lynchburg School Board last Nov. 15 to admit the two pupils to the white high school.

Two Men Killed In Street Brawl

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men stabbed each other to death with the same knife Sunday.

Vehicle Recovered

A station wagon stolen from its parking place at the home of John A. Kovacs of Esopus early last Thursday morning was found Sunday abandoned at Greenkill Park. The sheriff's office reported that the vehicle was discovered by Jerald Bush of Route 3, Kingston, while he was hunting in the area. The vehicle was undamaged, according to Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone, who investigated.

Hub Caps Stolen

Police received two reports Sunday of the theft of hub caps. One at 11:41 a. m. said four had been taken from the car of Lawrence Godgry, Box 190-A, High Falls, while it was parked on Crown Street, and the other at 2:34 p. m. said four were taken Saturday from the car of William Weaver, of 43 Sterling Street, while it was parked on Cornell Street.

Fire Damages Ceiling

Sophomore Found Shot to Death in Mother's Vehicle

According to state police, Robinson Timrud, 19, had been discharged Saturday from a Hartford, Conn. Hospital where he had been undergoing psychiatric treatment for a suicide attempt at Harvard University on Thursday, Jan. 18 by an overdose of sleeping pills, police said. Timrud had been treated at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston and later transferred to the Hartford hospital.

He went to the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Langton, with whom he lived at 38 Tom-Lin Road, Newington, Conn. and borrowed her automobile, driving to the home of his father, Dr. David H. Timrud in Zena. Dr. and Mrs. Timrud said they last saw David about midnight. He was playing records in the living room when they retired. Upon finding all lights on Sunday morning, the doctor investigated and discovered his son dead in the automobile in the yard.

A verdict of suicide by massive hemorraghe of the brain incurred by a bullet was issued by Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston.

Investigators Frank Steinkamp and Joseph Franke who investigated, said the rifle was the property of the dead youth's brother, Eric, who is now touring in Spain.

Held as Reckless After Porch Hit

Melvin R. Baker, 18, of 31 Oak Street, was charged with reckless driving after the car he drove allegedly struck a porch and front corner of the Theodore Letus house, 159 Wilbur Avenue, early Sunday.

Officers John Crespino and Sheldon O'Rourke, who investigated, said the car was headed north on Wilbur Avenue when the driver "lost control" and it struck the house at the corner of South Wall Street and Wilbur Avenue.

Baker is due for city court hearing Tuesday night.

Dog License Deadline

City Clerk Walter S. Foster today issued notice that Feb. 10 is the deadline for obtaining 1962 dog licenses without penalty. If not paid by that date delinquent dog owners are subject to payment of fines along with court costs.

Princess Margaret Severely Criticized by Daily Mirror

LONDON (AP)—The womanly whims of Princess Margaret—once the darling of the nation—today came in for some of the frankest criticism she has ever had to face.

The Daily Mirror called her occasionally perverse and petulant and said her future was a problem.

It was the latest, and the toughest, round in a bout of scattered sniping at the princess whose actions lately seem to have disenchanted some people.

There was disapproving head-shaking when she and her husband, Lord Snowdon, took off from London's icy winter a few weeks ago for the Caribbean sun, leaving their two-month-old son David behind.

Then a businessman publicly complained that the royal party had hogged all the first-class seats in the plane taking Margaret and her husband to Antigua.

While they were away a row broke out over the cost of giving a $230,000 facelift to their new home at Kensington Palace.

What annoyed some people was that the government was prepared to spend the money on a couple well heeled anyway while other folks were homeless and the government was banning wage rises.

When they flew off to the Caribbean sun, said the Mirror, "eyebrows were raised among the public, for 1961 was not exactly an exhausting year for either of them."

Then it added: "But the princess is a lady with a mind of her own. Charming, but occasionally perverse. Those who can influence her can be counted on one finger, for perversity means "disposed to go contrary to what is reasonable or required."

The Antigua vacation was a refresher for Snowdon before he starts his job as artistic adviser with the Sunday Times—cause of more public discontent.

But the Mirror declared it was all in favor of Snowdon taking a worthwhile job instead of "walking the regulation number of paces behind his wife or sister-in-law (Queen Elizabeth) on state occasions."

Said the Mirror: "If anybody is worried about Tony joining the Sunday Times, the whole business can be balanced by Princess Margaret joining the Mirror as women's editor, though this offer cannot remain open indefinitely."

Then it added gravely: "The problem is not the future of the photographer, but the future of the princess.

"Her critics may be too severe in saying that she performs the minimum of work at the maximum level of public expenditure, but her petulant decisions and personal insistencies are bound to raise the question sooner or later whether she should retire into private life."

Believe B47 Wreckage Is Buried in Snow

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Most of the wreckage of a B47 jet bomber that crashed in the Adirondacks Jan. 16 is believed buried beneath 10 to 18 feet of snow, an Air Force spokesman says.

The bomber, carrying a crew of four, crashed near the top of 4,585-foot Wright Peak. The fliers are presumed to have died.

About 25 men climbed the mountain in bitter cold Sunday but found nothing.

Planet Grouping Watched Closely By Astronomers

NEW YORK (AP)—If you believe in astrology, don't make any plans for next Monday. There may not be a next Monday.

Even if there is a next Monday, the astrologers say, it won't be much fun. Storms, tidal waves, earthquakes, the sinking of continents, financial panic and the outbreak of World War III are liable to make the day hectic.

All these dire predictions, and more, are being made by astrologers the world over who expect the advent of catastrophe some time Sunday. They base their prophesies on an inauspicious combination of the planets in the constellation of Capricorn.

Astronomers — serious students of the heavenly bodies — agree that the five visible planets of Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn will be grouped along with the sun and the moon around the constellations of Capricorn and Aquarius. Beyond this point, the astronomers and the astrologers go separate ways.

"Nonsense" is the way James S. Pickering, assistant astronomer of the Hayden Planetarium in New York, describes the prophecies of doom. "It's the same kind of gobbledegook astrologers have been handing out for centuries."

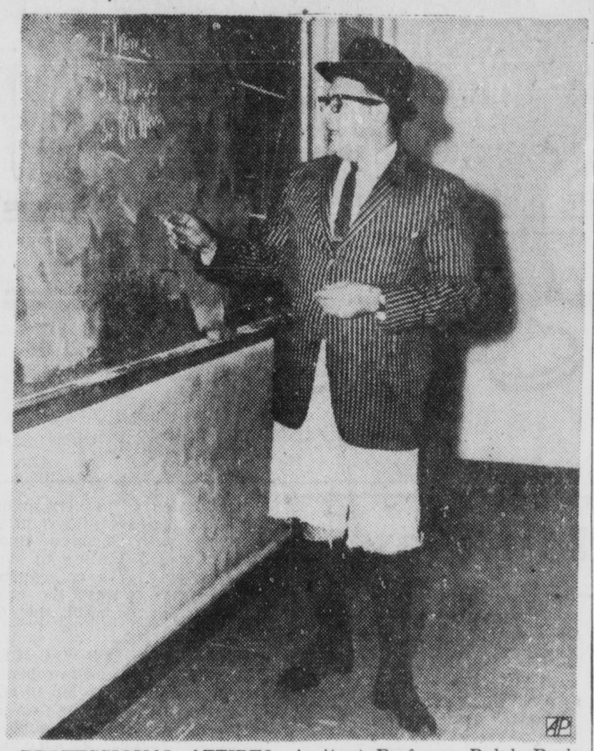

Astrologers—who try to tell the future by the movements of the planets—don't see it that way. They are preparing for the worst.

In India, millions of Hindus and Moslems are fervently praying to ward off the end of the world. Many believers have fled their homes in Calcutta, Bombay, Madras and New Delhi and are seeking refuge in the holy city of Benares on the banks of the sacred Ganges.

In Nepal, hundreds have taken to the hills to await an expected earthquake. Many Easterners have postponed marriages and betrothals until the danger period passes.

Nor is the panic confined to the Orient. In this country, 22 Californians, members of Understanding Inc., have taken refuge in the Arizona mountain town of Cleator. They believe Cleator will escape the impending destruction.

Astronomers, who pooh-pooh the fears of the astrologers, note that a close grouping of the five visible planets takes place about once every 100 years.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If your symptoms indicate that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. This is all the more remarkable in light of the fact that the great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are 18 scalp disorders that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to act.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them information to help them analyze your problem. This information should include how long your hair has been thinning, and whether or not you now have or ever have had any of the following conditions: Do you have dandruff? is it dry or oily? whether your scalp erupts in pimples or other irritations, does your forehead become oily or greasy? does your scalp itch and how often? and any other information you feel might be helpful. All letters will be answered promptly. Send the above information, and your name and address to Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Box 66001, Houston 6, Texas.—Adv.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 29, 1962

A VOLUNTARY TASK

It is worth noting that President Kennedy's advisory council on business ethics and the head of the New York Stock Exchange have independently arrived at much the same view on how to impose ethical standards on business. In both cases, the voluntary exercise of responsibility is championed.

The President's advisory group noted that any code of conduct aimed at all business would have to be too generalized to touch individual firms very closely. It called, instead, for "soul-searching discussions in which company policy makers and managers participate." The resultant code of ethics, said the council in its report, must "deal concretely" with actual company problems and "must contain adequate internal devices for enforcement."

Now comes Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, declaring in a speech to member firms that securities markets can best be policed through "tough self-regulation." The likelihood that Funston's remarks were occasioned by the troubles of the rival American Stock Exchange does not make his point any less trenchant. When he says that his exchange is "aggressively seeking out" abuses of regulations and moving decisively to correct them, one can only applaud.

The applause will naturally be limited by the extent to which these brave words are carried out. The same limitation applies to the establishment of codes of ethics by individual firms, as the advisory council recommends. The proof of this pudding, as of others, is in the eating. Whether in securities exchanges or in individual businesses, the value of codes of conduct is determined by the efficacy of self-policing. When the policing is weak, the government has both right and obligation to intervene in the public interest.

There's a move afoot to "normalize" relations among the four powers in Berlin. This can be good or bad, depending on who says what is "normal."

SCANT COMFORT

Here we are in a country where women outnumber men, where they bulk larger and larger every year in the labor force, where one of them has just broken into that exclusive club, the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

So, increasingly, men have to find their consolation in small ways. Perhaps there's a little in the report that a Virginia traffic court judge has just consigned a woman driver to the back seat for the next six months.

The judge, noting her involvement in two accidents in half a year, said her husband should handle the wheel for a while.

Women, however, are endlessly resourceful. The late comedian W. C. Fields expressed the problem. Asked in a skit if his wife drove, he replied: "Yes—but I steer."

THOSE LONGER DAYS

Though it is true that the deepest cold of winter may yet afflict us, there is a ray of sunshine. Quite literally. The days are noticeably longer than they were at the beginning of the year. Those hardy souls who rise early have been able to observe that dawn cracks a bit sooner every morning.

Happily, one need not see the crack of dawn to note the extension of the day. Indeed, the best time to perceive this lengthening is at the far end, toward sunset. The man who started home from work in darkness only a month ago may now have waning sunshine to light his way home. Depending on where one lives, sunset at the end of January comes from 25 to 37 minutes later than on the first day of the month.

These tidings, admittedly, are not enough to warrant gamboling on the meadows. Spring is not precisely just around the corner. But things are moving in the right direction.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A STARTLING DEFENSE

It is difficult to understand President Kennedy's defense of William Arthur Wieland at his press conference last Wednesday. It is more difficult to understand why the Eastland Committee does not make public the vast amount of unfavorable material it has in its possession on the subject of Wieland's activities. This Congressional Committee has held long hearings concerning Wieland and Castro in Executive Session. It is the duty and obligation of the Committee to make its data available to Congress and the public. Had such data been disclosed, the controversy between th President and Mrs. McClendon at the Wednesday Press Conference could not have taken place.

The question that Mrs. McClendon raised is whether two security risks are actually employed by the State Department. The argument hinged over the term, "security risks." Public opinion has long decided that William Arthur Wieland is a security risk. The testimony of Ambassadors Arthur Gardner and Earl E. T. Smith clearly substantiate this.

On September 19, 1960, I wrote an article in which I asked: Who in the United States helped Castro take Cuba? On the following day, I continued the subject. This was not the earliest discussion of Wieland's role in Cuba in this column. Smith had appeared before the Eastland Committee and about this I wrote:

"Smith's Testimony established the point beyond question that it was the United States through the State Department that brought Castro to power. Time after time, he was questioned with regard to that and always it was clear that Assistant Secretary of State Roy Rubottom and William A. Wieland, the deskman in charge of Cuba, preferred Castro.

"Regarding Castro, Ambassador Smith testified:

"'Castro was a revolutionary and a terrorist.

"'From the time that he was a university student, he was a guntoter. I was informed by a diplomat that he had killed one man and two priests in Bogota during the uprising in 1948.'"

On December 21, 1960, I began telling the story of William Arthur Montenegro which was a pseudonym for Wieland. I wrote:

"William Arthur Montenegro under that name and under another name wrote for the 'Havana Post' from 1933 to 1937. That is a good place to start if anyone needs a tip. There are articles in that newspaper which were contributed by such a person.

"The State Department has a technique for covering up and for evading scandals. When a State Department official goes wrong or is caught with bloody hands, the trick is to send him to other parts of the world, far from news centers until those who are interested forget about him, get interested in something else, or die. Then the career official who went awry may return to Washington."

There is no need to go further in this material. It has been available to the State Department since about 1959. Despite that, Wieland was promoted from a Foreign Officer 2 to a Foreign Officer 1. This promotion has been embarrassing to the State Department which is not accustomed to seeing Foreign Officers 1 walking about the lobbies of the State Department doing nothing.

The plan then was to send Wieland to Zurich as a Consular Officer. This the President undoubtedly stopped because Wieland never went to Zurich. He has been appointed to a management reorganization team which was an improper appointment because this involved in effect an investigation of himself.

The Wieland situation is now out in the open. The Eastland Committee has all the data on Wieland and why it has not printed the hearings and made them public, I do not know. But there can be no doubt but that the evidence, if brought before a court, would be very embarrassing to all parties. At least three former Ambassadors would have to testify against Wieland or periure themselves because they have already testified before the Congressional Committee.

It is unfortunate that the President permitted himself to lose his temper over this issue. Either the Wieland testimony before the Eastland Committee should be made public or the matter should be brought into a court. I was among the first to write about Wieland's activities in Cuba.

President Kennedy cannot bear the burden of all the mistakes made by all public officials during the past 30 years. It is too great a task for any man.

Save This Check List Of—and for—Baby Sitters

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Once again we are indebted to the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics for some very sound advice. This time about instructions for baby sitters:

With some additions of my own, here is a set of recommendations:

Don't just take any baby sitter. If you can't get someone who is known personally to you as a thoroughly reliable person, don'e entrust the care of your most precious possessions to a stranger until you've checked on the applicant's personal qualifications.

Before the sitter arrives, write out exact directions for the care of the children. What they're to eat and drink. When they're to go to bed. What TV programs they may see. Whether they're permitted to have a light in the bedroom. Whether the door to the room is to be shut or left open, etc.

Write down, also, the address of where you'll be. The phone number. And, if you plan to be away from a phone, the number of someone who can be called in your absence. Your parents. Your in-laws. A neighbor. Your doctor. Or your clergyman.

Write down, also, your doctor's phone number. And the numbers of the local police and fire stations.

When the sitter arrives, show her where everything is to be found. The ice box. The toilet. The phone. Your fire extinguisher. Alternate exit doors in case of an emergency, etc.

If you have an infant, be sure the sitter knows how to change diapers and burp the baby after a feeding.

If strange noises occur in your home when the heat goes on and off or when shutters bang, etc., warn the sitter of what she may hear so she doesn't go into a panic thinking someone is trying to break in. And, in case of fire, tell her to grab the children and make their escape without waiting to dress them or phone for help.

P. S. I want to acknowledge my indebtedness to the many readers who wrote in to give me the source of the lines "'Where ignorance is bliss, 'Tis folly to be wise." The quotation is from an "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College," written by Thomas Gray, the author also of the far-famed "Elegy in a Country Churchyard."

And, at risk of contradicting Mr. Gray, I must confess that I have registered nothing blissful at this public display of my ignorance.

"Sure Good to Be Back in Harness Again"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Most attention will probably be paid to specific legislative proposals which the President makes for tax reform and strengthening of the financial system. But it is important to recognize the philosophy that prompts them.

As an oversimplification, he describes his policy as "erecting a defense in depth against future recessions." In another place he says it is "to combat future recessions. . . to keep them short and shallow if they occur."

Stated more positively it is to promote and obtain "maximum production, employment and purchasing power."

IF THE UNITED STATES had maximum production, its gross national product might reach an annual rate of $600 billion in 1962 instead of an anticipated $570 billion. Individual income might be $500 billion instead of the anticipated $448 billion, and corporate profits might reach $60 billion instead of the anticipated $56 billion.

Few people can object to such higher goals of maximum production, even if they are immediately unattainable.

In subscribing to the objectives of the Full Employment Act of 1946, the President asserts that the country cannot afford to settle for any prescribed level of unemployment, but that it is shooting at a 4 per cent target for 1963. That would mean fewer than three million unemployed in place of the present nearly five million.

IN SEEKING MAXIMUM PURCHASING POWER, the president says this must be done without inflation. He does not see inflation arising from excessive demand or lack of capacity to produce in the coming year.

He repeats again his request to labor and management to exercise restraint in price and wage demands that might lead to inflationary spirals.

His goal is continued price stability for sustained prosperity at all levels of the economy.

The President sets a goal for the economic growth rate of 4.5 per cent a year, which it attained in the postwar years. In recent years it has averaged 2.5 per cent. The higher rate is set as attainable "in the 1960s."

AS A MAJOR CONTRIBUTION to this growth, the President has set a new international policy which will be spelled out in detail, in a special message presenting to Congress his Trade Expansion Act of 1962.

The goal here is attain a balance of payments for international transactions which will cover the costs of security and development of the free world without depletion of U.S. gold reserves.

To do this, the high priority task is to reduce international trade barriers so as to increase U.S. exports. This is proposed not as an end in itself, but to increase productivity and maintain price stability at home. This makes it a domestic program to help America, not a foreign aid program.

With increasing prosperity, the President sets high goals for the reduction of poverty among the "7 million families and individuals with incomes under $2,000 a year." Failure to overcome poverty is a consequence of failure to operate the economy at full potential, he declares.

FINNALLY, HE COMES BACK to his often-repeated recommendations for aid to education at all levels as "an investment in democracy and an instrument for economic growth." For, as he says, "the talent of our youth is a resource that must not be wasted."

This would seem to be the heart of the Kennedy program. The specific recommendations in the President's messages to Congress are the bones and body.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 28, 1942—The New York State Horticultural Society opened its 10th annual eastern meeting here.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's annual report showed a 1941 fire loss of $20,886.40, which was $8,079.70 under the 1940 total.

Jan. 19, 1942 — St. Peter's Church basketball team defeated the K of C team 50-17 at the MJM School gym.

Jan. 18, 1952—Pupils from school No. 7 and 8 entered the new George Washington School.

Interested Woodstock residents and officials were acting toward establishment of a bank there.

Jan. 29, 1952 — Dr. Ambrose A. Hill, 84, local dentist, died.

Hearing on the proposed holding of stock car races on the Municipal Stadium grounds drew heavy opposition.

If Ike and Khrushchev Were Writing Letters...

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Somewhere around Gettysburg, Pa., in the office of a former President of the United States, they must be expecting a letter. Presumably they are already drafting a reply. The anticipated missive from a man named Nikita Khruschev in Moscow might read as follows:

"Dear Ike: Maybe you've noticed the papers lately that a Bulgarian plane crashed in Italy. They are foolishly saying that we are engaged in a spy mission like the U-2. In the first place, as you know, we have absolutely no control over Bulgaria, even though it accepts our advice and our ideology and our troops. Besides, while we are interested in what goes on in any NATO military base, even in Italy, we wouldn't think of using espionage. We usually find out enough by reading the papers, as you Westerners tell everything anyway.

"But as one member of the Top Executives' Club to another, I call your attention to the fact that we didn't admit any responsibility for it and don't intend to do so, even if you extract a confession from the pilot. We admit nothing.

"Now that it's all over, I don't mind telling you that I really knew long before the U-2 came down that you had been conducting these flights and seriously considered mentioning it when I was in Camp David with you in 1959, but I was sure then that you would accept the 'co-existence' idea so I didn't want to muddy the waters. I did say in my press conference in Paris on May 18, 1960, that we knew about the U-2 flights long before, but you folks didn't believe me. You must realize, however, that we couldn't let you get away with the story that you had been conducting these U-2 flights for four years without our knowing it.

"As for 'summit meetings,' they're too important for propaganda purposes to be given up and, of course, when we want to break up an international conference — as we did the other day in Geneva — we don't really need any excuse at all. I expect we will have a lot of 'summit meetings' in the future.

"In closing let me say I appreciate that your new President proceeded to forget about what I said about you and your country at Paris in 1960 and met with him in Vienna in 1961 anyway. I appreciate also that he has just invited my son-in-law, who edits 'Izvestia,' to lunch with him at the White House but I beg of you, confidentially, if you have any influence at all with your successor, don't let him serve milk. It may be your national drink, but ours is vodka."

To the foregoing, the chief composer of important missives for Mr. Eisenhower probably is preparing already the first draft of the reply as follows:

"Dear Nikita: I suppose I should begin by exclaiming: 'you, too!' I can't tell you how delighted I was to get your letter mentioning the Bulgarian spy plane that crashed in Italy. But do send me a copy of the letter of apology which I assume you soon will be sending to the Italian government. It seems to me I recall your asking me to apologize for the U-2 incident. I will, of course, keep it secret in the meantime as I know you admit nothing.

"Nor am I going to rub it in by reminding you of all the things you said about the U-2 flights, for I know that to you spying is just a routine affair and is 'justified' by the dogma of Marx and Lenin and Stalin in which you believe so wholeheartedly — though lately I notice you seem to have weakened a little on Stalin.

"It's hard over here, you know, to get all the facts about these complicated dogma, so I still don't know why you should feel so badly about Stalin. He was as I recall for many years not only a war hero to your people but the high priest of the Communist faith which you still embrace.

"It is a little puzzling to me, however, why you took the U-2 thing so seriously and why you cancelled your invitation to me to visit the Soviet Union. It hurts a little bit more now that I see by the paper you have invited Bobby Kennedy, who is only an Attorney General. You never invited Herb Brownell or Bill Rogers, both good Attorneys General and good fellows.

"By the way, is that job of director of a children's home in the Soviet Union that you promised me still open? I'd like to pass the job on to someone in our new Peace Corps that you doubtless have read about. This is very important to use because you said something once about our grandchildren living under Commuism if you don't 'bury us' before. I'd like however, to see your grandchildren trained not be harsh on us. As Bob Newhart would say, 'Same to you, fellah!'."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day I had a 'phone call from Sam De Graffe of Third Avenue. He told me he is making a model of a Kingston trolley car, and wanted to know if there were any pictures around of one. He wanted to get the book "Trolley Car Treasury" by Frank Rowsome, which the Kingston City Library obtained for me through the Adriance Memorial Library in Poughkeepsie.

Sam's father was well known as Arthur De Graffe, motorman on Car 6 and also as "Art" when he later worked at the S and C Restaurant, Strand and Ferry, in Rondout. It had two entrances. Mrs. De Graffe told me about this.

A number of people have asked me about the books I mentioned in this column, and specially the Trolley Car book, which is on Publishers Central Bureau listing as $5.95 now reduced to $2.98. This concern at 100 E. 29th Street, New York 16, N. Y. sends out an illustrated interesting coverage of books they have on sale and the way they write them up makes you want to get them. They mention Those Wonderful Old Automobiles by Floyd Clymer, with a foreward by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, with over 500 photos, a colorful and nostalgic picture history of pioneer automobile companies and their early history. This used to sell for $5.95. They have it now for $2.98. I know this book through Tom Walsh of the Boulevard for he had loaned it to me sometime ago, as one of his hobbies was, books and other items on old cars. There are some books you just want to read, but others you want to own and keep for reference. This Publishers Central Bureau of New York lists many I would like to own.

William McBride phoned me the other day to tell me he had read the column in which I wrote about my father being a registered pharmacist from the old country and then passing the Board of Pharmacy in New York State. Mr. McBride said he remembered when my father worked in his father's pharmacy at 634 Broadway so he could learn the English terms, and he said, Mr. Howard in their store and others helped my father to learn the "Pharmacopoeia of the United States of America."

I remember my father spoke fondly of Charlie McBride (father of Bill) for right from the start he was very friendly with my father although they could not speak each other's language. In those days they used to have the DDD clambakes, which the doctors, dentists and druggists used to attend, a very friendly group in those days. They used to take pictures, and I have a number of those large group pictures. My father had a bicycle, and was young, and in Europe young people often rode a bicycle from country to country.

One of those clambake's I think was held at Lake Katrine, and my father rode there on his bicycle. Charlie McBride invited my father to his table, and introduced him around and when it was all over and time to go home, Mr. McBride tied my father's bicycle on his car, and my father had a ride home with the others. My father said, McBride liked to drive fast, and everyone was in good humor and it was a very pleasant trip. McBride, was a prominent member of the community and of that organization and his car led all the others. McBride had a streamer on his car of the organization, which waved in the breeze.

Will Try to See If Newburgh Denied the Needy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Social Welfare Department will try to determine next month whether the city of Newburgh, whose welfare policies touched off a nationwide controversy, denied relief to persons entitled to help.

The Hudson Valley city "appears to have been denying aid to persons actually and legally in need," a department spokesman said Sunday night.

He said that, beginning about Feb. 5, the department will investigate Newburgh's welfare practices. The probe will include "a 100 per cent review of all cases denied assistance during the month of January," the spokesman said.

In January, he said, 31 cases of relief were denied. Of these, 21 were either questionable or borderline and 13 were "probably justified," he said.

Newburgh's plan to put into effect a 13-point program it said was designed to reduce its welfare costs was challenged last year by the State Welfare Department, which won a permanent court injunction.

The plan included proposals to limit the time and duration of welfare payments, and sought to bar relief to unwed mothers who bore additional children while receiving aid.

City Manager Joseph Mitchell of Newburgh, chief sponsor of the plan, has said that, despite the court ban, the city has cut relief rolls.

The State Welfare Department has challenged Mitchell's claim.

World of Tickets

OKLAHOMA CITY — A traffic violator explained in traffic court he was issued more tickets than he could handle.

The first was a traffic ticket, which he mailed with the fine to the traffic court clerk with instructions he be mailed a receipt.

Somehow his money wound up at Municipal Auditorium and he was mailed a ticket to the stage production of "The World of Suzie Wong."

Her Turn

He managed to get the engine started and left it running to build up the battery.

Then Sartain forgot all about it. When he woke up next morning he not only had a dead battery but an empty gas tank.

Heavy Seas End Friendship Trip

PANAMA (AP)—Two of eight young men en route to South America in an amphibious boat are trying to have the craft towed or shipped from an uninhabited spot on Panama's Caribbean coast.

The 34-foot El Pato Valiente, ran into heavy seas last week and had to be beached. After three days of being pounded by 15-foot waves, the craft was towed to a cove by a fishing boat.

Bob Hinds, 21, of Gloversville, N.Y., and Edward Naylor, 20, of Mayfield, N.Y., left their companions with the duck and went to Panama City to seek help. They hoped to arrange for a tow or transportation of the craft to Colombia.

Remaining with the boat were Thomas and Dan Twomey, 20-year-old twins from Worcester, N.Y.; Walter Kutrieb, 21, of Tarrytown, N.Y.; Frasher Shaw, 19, of Bethpage, N.Y.; George Burril, 18, of Ticonderoga, N.Y., and Colin Red, 23, of New Zealand.

Tubby Assigned To Geneva Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is relieving Roger Tubby as assistant secretary for public affairs, appointing him U.S. representative to the U.N. office in Geneva.

The announcement came Saturday after a week of reports that a change was in the making. Among the reported reasons for the switch was that Tubby and Secretary of State Dean Rusk had been unable to establish a close working relationship.

As chief of public affairs in the State Department, Tubby, 51, was known to newsmen as a persistent advocate of maximum disclosure of information about international relations and diplomatic developments.

This, said sources, has brought him into conflict with the traditional preference of diplomats for secrecy, especially on matters under negotiation.

Officials said Tubby's successor had not been designated but that high on the list of possibilities was Robert J. Manning, 42, who resigned last December as Sunday editor of the New York Herald Tribune and formerly headed the London bureau of Time-Life-Fortune.

The State Department said Tubby will remain in the position of assistant secretary for several weeks before taking on his Geneva assignment with the rank of ambassador.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery by discount store shares and steadiness in aerospace issues were features of a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 252.50 with industrials down .20, rails up .10 and utilities unchanged.

While gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional, a few moves went to 1 or 2 points.

Discount stores were subjected to heavy selling Friday on a false rumor that an unfavorable article would appear about them today in a leading financial magazine. The stocks rebounded smartly as trading began, then trimmed their best gains.

Most of the aerospace issues held small gains despite disappointment over American space age projects this past weekend. Big Three motors and chemicals showed a higher trend. Oils, utilities, nonferrous metals, airlines and rubbers were irregular.

Korvette which was the most ative stock Friday when it plummeted 4⅞, recovered 1⅛ of the loss on an opening block of 7,000 shares. Later it trimmed the rebound to a fraction. Interstate Department Stores, which fell 3¾ on Friday, snapped back 2½ on an opener of 2,400 shares, then cut back a point of the advance.

Another feature was General Outdoor Advertising which advanced more than a point.

Sears Roebuck had a sinking spell as it lost about 3. Woolworth (ex dividend) was down more than a point.

U.S. Steel, which reports on finances and operations Tuesday, was easy. Other major steels were about unchanged.

Nonagenarian Should Hold Mutual Fund Shares

Q) "Should I sell 1311 shares of Massachusetts Investors Trust and buy 500 shares of Bethlehem Steel to bring in more income? What do you think of American Motors? I'm 94 years old and want to leave my wife financially secure."—A. K.

A) It's a wonderful thing to approach the century mark with a mind as keen as yours—and a handwriting considerably better than my own.

It is quite true that you would increase your income considerably by switching M.I.T. into Bethlehem. By so doing, however, you would be leaving a well-diversified situation and putting the bulk of your assets into a single issue.

This seems particularly risky when the latter has been showing a general downdrift in share earnings since 1957. The present dividend was earned by a narrow margin in 1959 and 1960 and was barely covered in 1961. Bethlehem is a strong company—and the dividend may be continued — but the price and yield on the shares indicate that the market has some doubts about it.

American Motors is now meeting terrific competition from Ford and General Motors in the compact car field. I consider the shares far too speculative for you to own.

In your position I would stay with what I have — or if more income is absolutely necessary, I would consider a group of such issues as General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Union Pacific.

Q) "What do you think of Cudahy Packing as a growth speculation?" — C. P.

A) I don't believe I'd use the word growth in connection with the packing industry.

Livestock prices are subject to wide seasonal fluctuations, and most packers report cyclical rather than steadily progressing earnings. However, I do think Cudahy is a good speculation. An expected larger supply of hogs should reduce the company's costs this year, and management has done much to improve plant efficiency.

I rate the shares a buy for high-risk accounts.

County Laborer Dies of Wounds

A 45 year old farm laborer died early Sunday in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, of a shotgun wound in the head, suffered during a quarrel on Sunday, Jan. 21, with another laborer in a shack which they shared as living quarters on the Marlboro farm of Nick Affuso..

His alleged assailant, Alvin Williams, 42, is in Ulster County Jail on a charge of assault, first degree, awaiting grand jury action. According to troopers from the Highland state police barracks, Williams admitted shooting Herring with a charge from a 20 guage shotgun during a heated argument. He fired the shot through a hole in a temporary partition dividing their quarters in the shack, state police said.

Herring's body was released by Newburgh authorities to Ulster County Coroner Francis J. McCardle for a post-mortem and further police inquiry by BCI of Highland.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca of Marlboro, said the case will be brought before the grand jury, when the charge may be changed to one of more serious nature. Williams was bound over to the grand jury by Justice of Peace Philip W. Schunk of Lloyd after waiving examination.

Chimney Blaze

Port Ewen and St. Remy fire apparatus extinguished a chimney fire Sunday afternoon in the home of Louis Terpenning on Union Center Road, St. Remy. According to Chief Bert Stokes of St. Remy, the fire started in the living room chimney and charred timbers and walls in the room. He said damage was not extensive. One piece of apparatus from Port Ewen and two from St. Remy were called. The fire alarm sounded about 1 p. m. and recall was at 3 p. m.

Health Education Course Declared Good for Teachers

A course in health education for teachers was highly recommended by Miss Hazel Steed, executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, in a talk to employes of the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, lunch program Friday at Lake Katrine School.

Miss Steed, principal speaker at the meeting for full time workers in the program, emphasized the need of a health program as part of a teacher's requirement and commented: "Good health will bring a more peaceful world."

The program opened with a coffee hour in charge of Florence Anderson, cook at the Lake Katrine School. John W. Johnson, director of the school lunch program welcomed the assemblage. Following Miss Steed's talk, Helen Tompkins, cook manager at Kingston High School spoke on "School Lunch Program Quality Food Service" and explained how each school lunch program employe should be aware of the handling of food, its appearance and the factors which influence serving of quality food. She highlighted her talk with a demonstration of how to prepare a new item to the school menus — butterscotch biscuits.

Betty Metrick, cook manager of the Port Ewen School, closed the morning session with a discussion of the "Production Yield Sheet," developed by Kingston Schools personnel. She termed it a valuable tool which should be used by everyone preparing meals.

She also was the speaker at the afternoon session explaining "Weekly and Monthly Ordering Procedures," telling of the use of weekly inventories, perpetual inventories and monthly inventories.

Castro Declares:

Cuba Revolution Succeeds Due to Help From Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)—In an interview published today in the Communist party paper Pravda and government paper Izvestia, Prime Minister Fidel Castro said his revolution in Cuba never could have survived without Soviet help.

"We know that without the Soviet Union, without the Socialist camp's assistance, a revolution in such a small country as Cuba would have been impossible because of imperialist aggression," Castro said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the interview was granted in Havana Jan. 23 to Pavel Satyukov, chief editor of Pravda; and Alexei Adzhubei, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, who is chief editor of Izvestia.

Adzhubei interviewed President Kennedy last November and is stopping off at the White House Tuesday to see the President en route home.

Castro lashed out at the meeting of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States, assembled at Punta del Este, Uruguay, to consider measures to be taken against Cuba.

The prime minister asserted Cuba's policy with regard to Latin America is one of peace "and it is no fault of ours that imperialism seeks to isolate Cuba from the other countries of Latin America."

"The blame for the bad relations between Cuba and the United States lies with the government of the United States," he declared.

Intended Mate Shot in Scuffle With Future Bride

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A neighbor, fearing for the safety of a young bride-to-be, shot and killed a man he saw smashing the girl's bathroom door Sunday, police reported.

Lynn Ann Donatoni, 19, had returned from a day of wedding-gift shopping and an evening bridal shower. She was preparing for bed, police said, when Amelio V. Castorena III, 25, appeared at the door.

"He was terribly mad about something," the girl told police later. She said she ran to the bathroom and locked herself in. She said Castorena began battering the bathroom door.

Lynn Ann said she opened a window and screamed for help. A neighbor, Gerald Scott, 63, awakened. He grabbed a 22-caliber pistol and ran to a driveway between the two houses.

He said he saw Castorena scuffle with the screaming girl.

Scott fired once. The bullet struck Castorena in the chest, killing him instantly. The girl told police she had no idea why Castorena would attack her. Police questioned Scott, then released him.

But Lynn Ann will have no use for the gifts she bought earlier in the day.

Castorena was her fiance and they were to marry Feb. 14.

Duplantier Favored

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Youthful Adrian Duplantier, the political heir of deLesseps Morrison, and veteran Victor Schiro, who succeeded Morrison last year in the mayor's chair, squared off today in a runoff for the Democratic nomination for mayor of New Orleans.

Duplantier, 33-year-old first-term state senator, ruled the favorite off his surprisingly strong first primary showing Saturday. He topped a nine-man field with 56,958 votes to 52,429 for the 58-year-old Schiro.

Another vigorous campaign looms before the March 3 runoff that will, in effect, decide who will be mayor for the next four years.

Hercules Dividend

WILMINGTON, Del. — The board of directors of Hercules Powder Company has declared a dividend of 30 cents a share on common stock, payable March 23, to stockholders of record at the close of business February 16. This is a 20 per cent increase over the dividend of 25 cents a share paid during the first quarter of 1961. Hercules' directors have recommended that stockholders approve at the annual meeting on March 20 a two-for-one split of Hercules common stock. The dividend, at a rate of 30 cents a share on the present stock, would be equal to 15 cents a share after giving effect to the proposed split. A dividend of 50 cents a share on $2 Cumulative Convertible Class A Stock was also declared, payable March 23, to stockholders of record at the close of business February 16.

Kennedy Shifts His Headquarters To Washington

Mrs. Kennedy and their children, Caroline and John Jr., were expected to accompany the President.

Sunday, for the third straight afternoon, Kennedy and the First Lady took his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, with them for a cruise on the presidential yacht Honey Fitz. The 73-year-old former ambassador to Britain is described as making satisfactory progress from the stroke he suffered Dec. 19.

Katrine Home Suffers Smoke Damage Today

The five-room home of George A. Shufeldt of Mt. Marion-Kingston Road, Lake Katrine, suffered heavy smoke damage and a gutted bedroom this morning from a blaze of undetermined origin which started in the bedroom.

According to Chief Robert E. Dachenhausen of Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Company, Mrs. Shufeldt and two children escaped to safety. Four pieces of apparatus battled the blaze before placing it under control. Flames, he added, were confined to the bedroom which was a complete wreck but the entire one-story frame brick veneer home was hard hit by smoke damage.

lege bill would provide $300 million a year for five years to help build classrooms, laboratories and libraries. Sixty per cent would be in matching grants, the rest in low-interest loans.

The Senate bill contains $1.5 billion to aid in construction for classrooms and other facilities, all in the form of loans; $924 million for student scholarships, and $250 million in matching grants to aid in construction of community junior colleges.

There may be a flurry in the Senate today over whether to send an administration civil rights bill to the Judiciary Committee, the graveyard of such legislation in the past.

The bill, introduced last Thursday by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, provides that a sixth-grade education be the only literacy test for voters in federal elections.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he felt the bill should be referred to the Rules Committee, which handles elections legislation, and that he might seek to force this today by a vote. Mansfield said he expected it to go to Judiciary.

C of C Committee Formed to Study Water Situation

At the recent meeting of New Paltz Chamber of Commerce, the members voted to form a water committee in cooperation with the Chambers in Rosendale, Wallkill and Esopus.

It is planned to work together in an attempt to solve the water problems of this area.. One of the main items under discussion was the problem of attracting industry to the area because of an insufficient supply of water, and the members feel that an extensive water study should be conducted.

This decision was made after Andy Barone, secretary, reported on a meeting he had attended recently which was called by the Temporary Commission on Water Resources and Development. The members also decided to write to the proper authorities for more information about federal assistance in the solving of water problems.

Other matters discussed included the conference of honorary membership in the Chamber to Jack Dietrich, James Ashton and George Bogert. Ashton and Dietrich received this honor in recognition for their yearly assistance with the Chamber Christmas lighting program, and Bogart for his donation of room space in his Main Street house for Chamber headquarters during the past several years.

The Chamber also extended their thanks to Robert DuBois and Fred Kimlin for playing the role of Santa Claus during the Chamber's Trade Show in November.

There was much discussion among the members concerning a recent Dun and Bradstreet report that the Village of Highland has a larger number of business places than New Paltz as listed in their 1962 Reference Book.

Grant Hague, Chamber member, and local Real Estate Broker, reports that he recently made a survey of both the Town of New Paltz and Lloyd. He stated that the Village of Highland shows a 1960 population of 2,931, a loss of three per cent since 1950. The Village of New Paltz shows a 1960 population of 3,041 which represents a gain of 33 per cent since 1950, and that the last census shows the Town of New Paltz as the fastest growing Township in Ulster County.

He reported that his list of classifications of business enterprise including service and professional type business. Although it did not include dairy farms or fruit growers.

He says that the Dun and Bradstreet report is limited in its coverage thus correct as far as it goes, but conveys the impression that Lloyd is a larger, more progressive, faster growing community than New Paltz, and with reference to both places the article stated Highland with 111 commercial enterprises was higher in 1961 and New Paltz with 99 commercial enterprises was about the same as 1960," which placed Highland in fourth place county-wise and New Paltz in fifth place, behind Kingston.

Democratic Club Slates Banquet

New Paltz Democratic Club held its first regular meeting of the year recently in the Municipal Building when many matters of business left over from last year were settled.

The dinner committee, consisting of chairman, Michael Landis, John Shand, and Howard Rust, reported the completion of plans for the first social event of the year. This will be a dinner to be held at the new Pantony's Restaurant, Route 299 just east of New Paltz.

An orchestra and floor space will be provided for dancing. An effort is being made to obtain Schenectady Representative Samuel Stratton as the speaker. Other entertainment is also scheduled.

The dinner is to be held on Friday evening, March 2 at 7 p. m. and tickets are now available from any of the following people:

Michhael Landis, Howard Rusk, John Schreiber, Harriet Kerr, Dorrie White, and Louis LeFevre.

A Democratic Club bake sale is also being planned to take place on February 14 at the Empire Market on upper Main Street. Mrs. Gerda Gruner, chairman of the sale, is now seeking members who will help with contributions of baked foods or to help at the sale. Anyone interested in helping may contact Mrs. Gruner.

New Paltz Unit of the Home Demonstration Bureau will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry Sutton at 44 South Manheim Boulevard February 1. Members are to bring their own lunch.

Mrs. Emma Shelly's report, "How to Prepare for Retirement" will be read and discussed.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Fred DuBois will give information concerning proper selection of materials for slipcovers and will include a demonstration of cutting and sewing the same.

International Club Elects New Officers

The subject of the evening was Korea on which John Morris presented an interesting talk and showed slides of Korea taken when he was there. A discussion period and refreshments followed.

The next meeting of the International Club will be held on Thursday, Feb. 1 at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Linda Blue. The guest speaker will be Jim Yung, a Korean student at the State University College, here.

Reformed Notes

A new Communicants Class is now being formed at New Paltz Church. In February, this class will begin meeting with the Rev. Gerret Wullschleger each Saturday 10 a. m. in the consistory room of the church.

Letters have been sent to parents of young people in the eighth Grade Church School class. Parents of other children of this age group or older, who may have been missed, are invited to contact the church office on any weekday morning.

There will be three two-month terms of religious instruction before the young people are given the opportunity of uniting with the Church, at Easter, in 1963.

Girl Scout Notes

Doris Bartow of Girl Scout Troop 70 has announced that the troop held a sleigh riding party at Mohonk recently. The arrangements were made by Kathy Hamilton. On January 20, the troop also held an ice skating party at the Moriello Park. These plans were made by Beatrice Capone and Linda Schulte. Their leader is Mrs. Laurin Abrams Jr.

On January 22, three girls from Troop 70, Judy Abrams Beatrice Capone and Kathy Hamilton attended the meeting of Mrs. Hazel Bartz's Troop 85 and taught the group the art of knot craft. On the same day Leslie Coulton, Susan Davidson and Patricia Ronk taught knot craft to Mrs. Kenneth DePuy's Troop 110.

Arrangements are being made for each girl to attend other troop meetings of the New Paltz Neighborhood Girl Scouts and Brownies to teach various phases of scouting, such as first aid, proper use of the flag, care and use of knives, games, songs, and dances.

At the January 25 meeting of Troop 70, Alfred Douglas spoke to the members on Indian Lore.

Aboard Carrier

Lionel D. Everett, aviation ordnanceman airman apprentice, USN, son of Christopher T. Everett of Route 2, Kingston, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, operating out of Mayport, Fla. The fast carrier is scheduled to enter the New York Naval Shipyard, Feb. 8, for an eight-week overhaul period.

Only One Sure Way to Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Capt. Ewart Kempson, the veteran English player and writer, has produced a new book, entitled "First Pocket Book of Bridge Problems." It consists of 70 hands taken from actual play which show one distinctly correct line of action for declarer or the defense.

Today you are South. The game is rubber bridge and you find yourself in a nice comfortable six no-trump contract. West opens the ten of hearts and when you count your tricks your first thought is, "Maybe I will make seven."

You see eight tricks outside the diamond suit, plus four or five there, for a total of 12 or 13. So, you win the first heart in dummy and promptly lead the jack of diamonds. East shows out and all of a sudden you find yourself with only three diamond tricks and no way to make your slam.

Bad luck, but also bad play. Captain Kempson points out that since the game is rubber bridge you should play absolutely safe for your contract and that the way to do this is to win the first heart in your hand and lead toward dummy's jack of diamonds. West can duck or rise with the queen, but you will have four diamond tricks and you would also have them if East should show up with five diamonds.

Highway Program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State is at the halfway point in work on its long-range arterial highway program, which will cost an estimated $465 million, the state public works superintendent says.

J. Burch McMorran reported Saturday that, at the end of 1961, a total of $437.2 million in state and federal funds had been ogligated since the first arterial projects were begun in 1947.

Driver Training Slated

Raphael Klein, director of Adult Education, has announced that registration and the first session for Adult Driver Training course will be held at 7 p. m., on Tuesday, January 30, in room V-110, in the Vocational Building of Kingston High School.

The New York State Thruway spends about $5,900,000 annually for maintenance—about half of it to control snow and ice.

Rocky, Wagner Entangled Over Medicare for Aged

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, potential opponents in this year's gubernatorial election, were entangled today in a pre-campaign battle over medical care for the aged.

Wagner said Saturday that the state program, enacted at Rockefeller's request, was inadequate and "humiliating," because of a test by which applicants must show financial need.

Rockefeller snapped back that the program had saved New York City $20 million last year and Wagner could have used that money to provide additional care "rather than buying Cadillacs and raising his own salary."

The medical program provides hospital, physician and other services for persons over 65 who are unable to pay medical bills, although otherwise capable of supporting themselves.

In other activities in state politics:

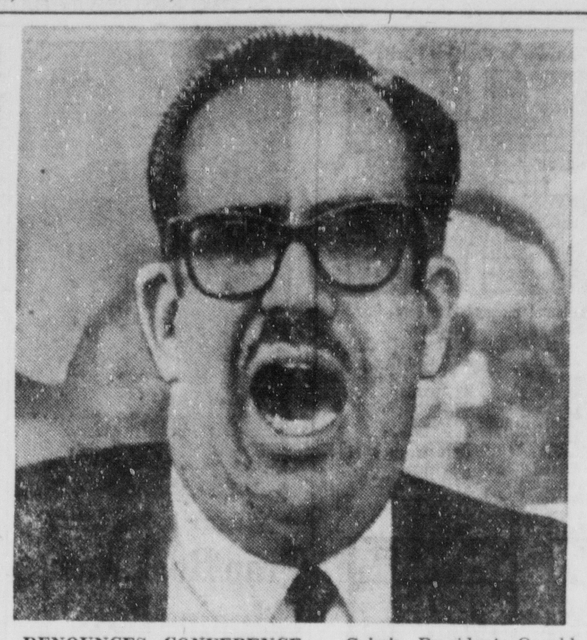

1. Wagner announced he would issue a call for a meeting of the Democratic State Committee to oust Chairman Michael H. Prendergast, who opposed Wagner's re-election. No date was set but indications were it would be within the next month.

2. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, the only declared Democratic candidate for governor, asked Rockefeller to take a public stand on the John Birch Society. Stratton, a Democrat, described the organization as an extreme right-wing faction within the Republican party. Rockefeller declined comment, but the governor's office pointed out that Rockefeller had said Jan. 11 he would not support for public office a member of the John Birch Society if that organization's domestic policies were what he understood them to be.

3. Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney predicted that Rockefeller would be re-elected governor this year by at least the 573-000-vote margin by which he won in 1958.

3 Children Die In Upstate Fire

BRUSTON, N.Y. (AP)—A flash fire that destroyed a farmhouse near this Northern New York village killed three children and injured three adults, including the pregnant mother of the youngsters.

Mrs. Lloyd Jock, 23, was in Malone Hospital where a nurse said she was expected to give birth soon. Mrs. Jock suffered first-degree burns before her husband, also 23, threw her from a second-floor window.

In addition to the Jocks, their uncle and another man fled in nightclothing into 8-below zero temperature early Sunday.

The Jock family, Francis White, an uncle of Jock, and Nelson Merrick, 42, had been staying in the house owned by Mrs. Beatrice Holcomb, Mrs. Jock's mother. Mrs. Holcomb is in a hospital with a fractured leg.

The children who died were: Lloyd Jr., 5; Larry, 3, and Candy, 2. They were sleeping on the second floor at the rear of the house, where the fire apparently started.

Trooper R. E. Benjamin of the State Police said it was believed the fire had started from an overheated, wood-burning stove.

Why We Say--

YANKEE 1-29

SILENT: The nickname Yankee is derived from a joke by the Indians. It comes from "yonokie," an Indian word which meant "silent." The name was applied by the Indians in reverse of what they really thought. The white men seemed so talkative to them in contrast to their own people, that they named him "yonokie" as a jest.

Wagner Opposes Seating Change For Congressmen

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican plan to redistribute the number of congressional seats in New York State was under Democratic fire on two fronts today.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City said he had instructed his municipal legal department to prepare court action challenging the validity of the reappointment plan on the ground it was inequitable.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, the only declared candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, charged that the Assembly vote of approval for the plan was void. One of the legislators who provided the bare constitutional majority had been elected illegally, said Stratton, whose district will be eliminated if the plan takes effect next Dec. 31.

The congressmen alleged that Stanley L. Van Rensselaer of Saratoga Springs, a city court judge when elected last Nov. 7, had been illegally declared the winner of the contest.

The state constitution, Stratton said in a political speech at nearby Chatham, declares void any votes given a judge except for a judicial office or as a delegate to a constitutional convention.

Van Rensselaer said he had found nothing in the law to bar him from office. He said he had resigned as a city judge Nov. 8 and had taken office Nov. 9, when the special session of the Legislature convened to act on the reapportionment bill.

Milk Truckers Register

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Agriculture Department says that, beginning April 1, independent truckers who haul milk from farms to receiving plants must register as milk dealers.

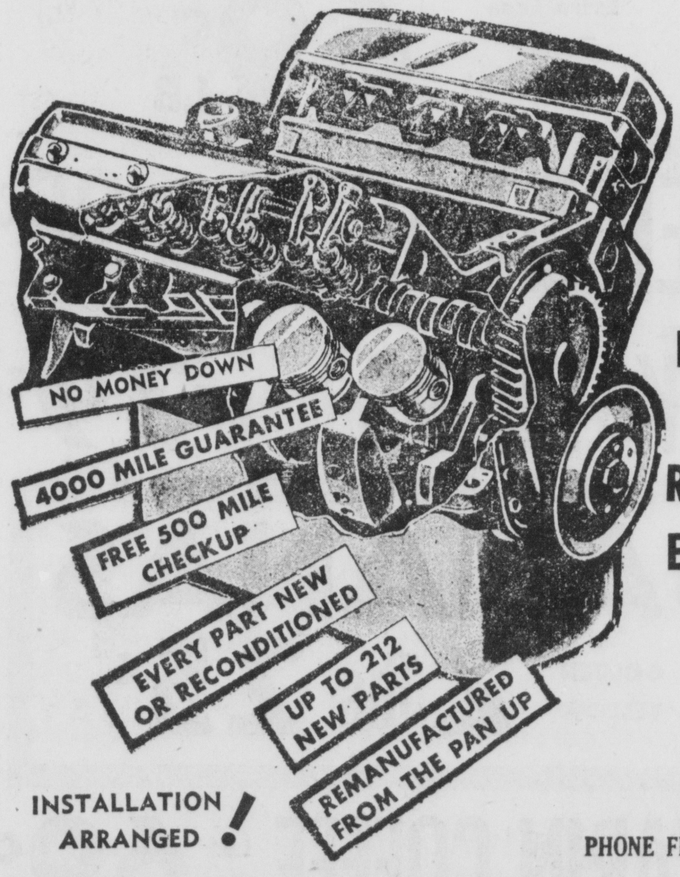

The department wants to make certain that state and federal proper reports on the origin and milk-marketing agencies receive proper reports on the origin and destination of milk, Herbert R. Kling, director of the milk-control division, said Sunday night.

Trucks operated by licensed milk dealers, including major dairies, will not be affected. Those dealers now are licensed by the state.

Democrat Winner Takes Seat, Has Praise for JFK

WASHINCTON (AP) — Texas Democrat Graham B. Purcell Jr. takes his seat in Congress today with praise for the Kennedy administration and some reservations about two of its programs.

Purcell's overwhelming victory Saturday over Joe Meissner, a conservative Republican businessman, clearly was a sweet one for the Democrats.

In his campaign Purcell promised support for the Kennedy administration.

However, in a post-election press conference at Wichita Falls, the 42-year-old state district judge listed two reservations involving administration policy.

"I am not in favor of federal aid to education and I am not in favor of medical aid under Social Security," he said.

Tall, trim Purcell is taking the seat held by Frank Ikard, a Democrat who resigned as 13th District congressman to become executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute.

Adoula Protests Council Parley

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Cyrille Adoula says the Soviet call for a U.N. Security Council meeting on the Congo "looks like a maneuver unfriendly to our government."

Adoula charged in a sharp protest to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant that the council debate "can only bring further confusion" just when he is making headway to reunite his infant African republic.

The Security Council meets Tuesday in New York to hear Soviet complaints that the U.N. Command in the Congo has been slow in driving white mercenaries out of secessionist Katanga Province.

Enrollment Gain

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—A development program now under way at Elmira College is expected to increase enrollment from the present 813 to 1,200, says college president J. Ralph Murray.

ALBERT A. TANGREDI

Trap Rock Names Shipping Boss, West Nyack Man

Albert A. Tangredi of Six Woodward Road, West Nyack, N. Y., has been promoted to the position of manager-shipping department of New York Trap Rock Corporation. The new shipping department head, since 1958, held the office of vice president of Cornell Steamboat Company, a subsidiary which provides towing service for Trap Rock's vast fleet of barges.

Tangredi joined Trap Rock in February, 1957, as assistant marine superintendent, coming to the firm with over twenty years of maritime experience. Prior employment included two decades of heading the marine department of the Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Company. His new duties will see Mr. Tangredi directing a department whose prime function will be the providing of water-borne delivery of the company's products to customers' docks.

Tangredi, a native of the Bronx, is a graduate of Stuyvesant High School. He and his wife Palma are parents of six children—five daughters and a son. They are Barbara, Dorothy, Evelyn, Elizabeth, Alice and George.

17 Persons Slain In Algiers Riots

ALGIERS (AP) — Two Europeans were killed and two others seriously wounded in the daily outbreaks of terrorism in Algiers today. In Oran a Moslem terrorist killed a European. Another terrorist, presumably a European, killed a Moslem.

Seventeen persons, 12 Moslems and five Europeans, were killed by terrorists over the weekend.

In France, Premier Michel Debre said terrorism and the anti-independence Secret Army Organization have caused grave concern but when the Algerian cease-fire is signed, the agitation will cease.

Differ in Politics

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Emanuel McCarter, 90, and his wife, Pearl, 86, have used the family conference technique to iron out their disagreements.

It worked well, they said Sunday, as 150 friends and relatives honored them on their 67th wedding anniversary.

It worked except on one difference: McCarter was a Republican, his wife a Democrat.

McCarter worked that one out himself. "I became a Democrat three years ago," he confided.

2 Bodies Recovered

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Bodies of Larry Husted, 10, and Wesley Lowe, 13, were recovered Sunday under a rock fall in the old mine workings at nearby Morgan Run. The discovery came after two weeks of almost continuous searching.

Several hundred workers tried to find the youths after they entered the mine on Jan. 14.

Human Rights Is Preferred Name For State Body

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he will ask the Legislature to change the name of the State Commission Against Discrimination to the State Commission for Human Rights.

He says the step reflects "the affirmative determination of my administration to see to it that all New Yorkers fully enjoy their rights as individuals and as Americans."

Rockefeller made the announcement Sunday as he participated in ceremonies opening SCAD's first Harlem office.

The governor also said he will seek an amendment of the law "to make explicit the ban on discrimination by labor unions, employers, employment agencies or their representatives" on admission to apprentice training programs.

The mission was founded recently by the Abyssinian Baptist Church, of which Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., Negro Democrati, is pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Oberia D. Dempsey presented the Republican governor an award for working toward equal opportunity.

The associate pastor praised the governor's address and hailed him as a fellow Baptist and as one who "has brought the state government a lot closer to us than city hall today."

Wagner Says Call Is Going Out to Oust Prendergast

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner says a call will be issued this week for a meeting of the Democratic state committee to oust Michael H. Prendergast as chairman.

Wagner declined sole responsibility for the move, saying it "comes spontaneously from Upstate," and that "quite a few persons" would send out notices.

Prendergast declared, however, that New York City employes had been "traveling and calling upon state committee members and county leaders in Upstate New York to tell them that Mr. Wagner wants this or wants that done."

Refuses to Resign

Wagner split with the state chairman prior to his successful campaign for election to a third successive term as mayor last year. Prendergast has refused to resign.

Although he declined to say so specifically, Wagner indicated the state committee meeting would be held prior to a $100-a-plate dinner announced by Prendergast for March 3 in New York City.

"We're not scheduling any timing because of any dinner," Wagner said. "The (Democratic) convention takes place in March and I think this must move ahead rapidly because people all over the state want some action in the Democratic party."

Says Check Made

Asked about the legality of calling a meeting to vote in a new state chairman, he replied:

"I have checked the law and a lot of others have checked the law. It is felt that the state committee meeting can be called on the demand of the 25 per cent (of the state committeemen), and that the rules of the state committee can be changed by a majority of the state committeemen."

Wagner said he had no one to suggest as a replacement for Prendergast, but that he might "have something to say together with some others. . .when we get a consensus."

Boys Burn Plant

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Two boys, 9 and 12, set a printing shop afire Saturday after breaking in to steal soft drinks, State Police said. The blaze caused $100,000 damage and injured three firemen.

Troopers said the boys told them they started a fire in a paper storage area, put it out, then started a second fire there because the first one looked so good.

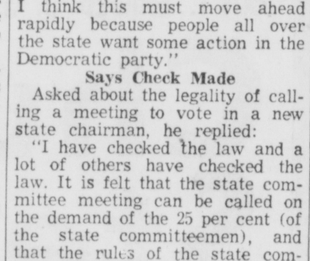

Most of the equipment was damaged in the one-story, cinderblock building of the Painted Post Press Inc., at nearby Riverside.

Counterattack Near

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek told a group of visiting American newsmen today that the opportunity for a counterattack on the Communist-held China mainland by his Chinese Nationalist forces is fast approaching.

"Our preparations for a counterattack are in full swing," he declared.

Chamber Dinner Slated Tonight

Over two hundred persons will attend the annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce at the Governor Clinton Hotel tonight. The principal speaker will be Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton of Albany, president of the State University of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald DeWitt will be guests of honor. DeWitt will be awarded a special citation for his interest and support of education. Chamber of Commerce officers for 1962 will also be presented and Joseph E. O'Connor, president in 1961 will report briefly on activities during the past year.

DOES YOUR CHILD HAVE LORDOSIS?

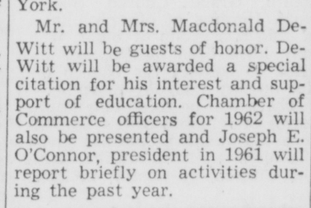

If your child has "round" shoulders, jutting "wings," or other signs of poor posture, he or she may be suffering from lordosis—or simple curvature of the spine.

Many thousands of American school children suffer from lordosis—and their parents don't even know it.

Guarantee your child proper exercise, every day, in his own school, by getting your school board to put into effect an adequate program for youth physical fitness.

Payroll Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — An authority on automation reports that the public works payroll may have to be swollen as machines replace men.

If automation and the use of computers continue to increase, said Donald N. Michael, "the government will probably be faced for the indefinite future with the need to support part of the population through public works."

Michael's analysis was prepared for the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, an activity of the Fund for the Republic, Inc.

Brooklyn Man To Face Charge

One man was hospitalized and another is under arrest as the result of a Saturday night argument at Ulster Heights Bar and Grill in the Town of Wawarsing.

Arrested for assault, third degree was Leonard Carollo, 31, of 1488 DeKalb Avenue, Brooklyn, who is scheduled to appear Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Wawarsing.

Hospitalized with head injuries at Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville was Chester Ennis, 50, who lives at the bar and grill.

Fleming Hopes That Woman Will Get County Court Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sen. Robert Fleming R-Allegheny, said today he will seek support in the Republican caucus for confirmation of Anne X. Alpern as a member of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court.

"I am personally for her and I have excellent hopes that she will be confirmed at the earliest possible date," he added.

Fleming handles appointments for Senate Republicans, and when his party was in power he was chairman of the powerful Executive Nominations Committee.

Fleming was less hopeful for the reappointment of Abraham D. Cohn as chairman of the State Liquor Control Board.

"There is very definite opposition to Cohn from the Republican organization in York County," he said. "Efforts are being made to clear the situation, but our caucus is reluctant to fly in the face of the York organization."

Miss Alpern was appointed to the county court seat last week by Gov. Lawrence, who five years ago took her off the same bench to make her the first woman attorney general in state history.

Both chambers will hold sessions of the regular 1962 general assembly later in the day.

House Minority Leader Albert W. Johnson promised in a statement Sunday that Republicans will make a floor fight to provide public schools an extra $8 million in the next fiscal year.

Johnson said the effort would be made in the form of an amendment to appropriations bills on the calendar, rather than in a separate bill which could be pigeonholed by the Democratic majority.

In other developments, Chairman J. Dean Polen of the House Appropriations Committee called a meeting of his group for Tuesday morning to discuss the 65 bills making up the general fund package.

Icy Sidewalks Take Heavy Toll of Mailmen

Since Christmas, 65 letter-carriers have slipped and fallen, suffering a total of 43 bruises, 13 sprains, 8 strains, and 1 broken ankle.

Local post office officials cited the figures Saturday in asking property owners to please clean their walks.

Police Seek Relatives

State police are checking into the death of George Boyette at Homowack Lodge in Wawarsing on Sunday in an effort to determine his true address. The man who was found dead in bed Sunday at 4 p. m., by James Raycroft, assistant general manager of the lodge, gave the lodge his address as 413 Ann Street, Monroe, but a check in that community revealed no such address and uncovered no one who knew Boyette. Investigator Charles Teelon of Ellenville, who said Boyette's death was due to natural causes, is investigating.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—You are in college or planning to enter one and your life's ambition is to become a business executive.

Should you specialize in courses narrowed to the field of your choice? Or should you seek a rounded education, but with due attention to economics and business administration, and get the specific training on the job?

Business administration schools, like universities in general, are adding more special courses for technical training.

But some educators think the trend may be overdone. They hold this training and the absence of the wider view could confine you to that field. It could prevent you from developing characteristics top management seeks when tapping juniors for advancement to executive posts.

One such dissenter is Howard T. Lewis, professor in the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University. And he takes on not only the college curriculum itself but also the trend of companies endowing training for their particular fields.

"Too many colleges and universities," he charges, "seem willing to give courses on anything from 'laundry management' to 'pie making' provided only someone will subsidize it or it can be made to pay for itself financially."

"There is actually very little correlation between the business courses majored in at college and the actual occupation of alumni," the Harvard educator holds in an article in the current issue of Purchasing Magazine, trade publication for industrial buyers.

"Business firms seeking to augment their personnel from a graduating class," Lewis says, "ask for 'your best men', not for 'your list of majors in accounting' (or finance, or marketing)."

In defense of his thesis Lewis quotes Dean E. T. Weiler of Purdue University as saying, "I don't believe many special skills are necessary to get a toehold in American industry."

And Lewis cites two surveys, one by the Ford Foundation, the other by the Carnegie Foundation, as reaching the same conclusion that vocationalism, or overemphasis on specialization and training for specific jobs, is poor policy for colleges and should be left either to industry itself or to vocational schools.

One of the fiercest engagements of the Seminole Wars was fought near Fort Pierce, Florida, on December 25, 1837. Billy Bowlegs led the Seminoles and Colonel Zachary Taylor was in command of the U. Daughter — Why, father, what have you done with mother?

Allot $99,600 in Aid TowardCountyWelfare

Ulster County will receive $99,600 for February as its share of federal and state aid for welfare, it was announced today by the State Department of Audit and Control.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said the distribution of $25,601,000 will go to 65 public welfare districts in the state.

These monies represent the federal and state share, 80 per cent, of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities. The federal share of these advances amounts to $13,921,000.

How to Make Yourself a Cripple

Want to make sure that twinge of pain you have turns into a stiff and useless knee, hip, or waist? Stay away from the doctor and baby it!

The old idea that a rheumatic or arthritic patient should favor his painful joints is one more example of little knowledge that is a dangerous thing. Actually, going easy on a joint may increase its stiffness rather than making it better. Your doctor can tell which is best in your case.

People over 50 (or even younger) often have one or two painful or stiff joints. This happens when the oiling fluid between the joints disappears and the padding wears away. It is called osteoarthritis, one of the two main forms of arthritis.

The other main form is rheumatoid arthritis, which attacks the tissues that hold organs, bones, and muscles together. You may have it if you've noticed pain, swelling, stiffness of the joints, fever, and loss of weight. If you have any of these things, see you doctor as soon as possible, so that he can help you.

Doctors can do a great deal to relieve the extremely painful symptoms of arthritis, even though its cause is still unknown. But the quack remedies, folk medicines, devices, and treatment centers advertised as "cures" are worthless; and the $250,000,000 sufferers spend on them each year are just thrown down the drain. Make sure to see your physician to learn the sound way to keep your joints in working order.

MONEY REFUGE

The stock market has become a money refuge with thousands of investors. As a result, scores of high-grade common stocks have reached fantastically high levels and income returns have diminished.

Here, for example, is an investor who owns 2,000 shares of a blue-chip stock. They are worth $220,000 and the dividend return is less than 2 per cent. The owner is having a difficult time maintaining proper living standards. Yet, if half the shares were sold and the money reinvested in prime bonds, income could be doubled immediately.

Common stocks should not be "sacred cows." They should be slaughtered occasionally when financial needs are pressing. It is psychologically wrong for countless investors to use their equites as a refuge for money.

The United States Government has recently sold a billion dollars worth of 4 per cent bonds somewhat under face value. Their maturity is medium-term, thus indicating that basic rates will be firm in the immediate years ahead.

This should be the signal to stockholders needing more income to sell some of their low-yield, high-grade common stocks which, by every degree of measurement, are commanding too high price levels.

Such enterprises as American Telephone, Atchison Railroad, Consolidated Edison, General Motors, Illinois Bell Telephone, Pacific Gas and Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, Standard Oil of California, and United States Steel offer investors seasoned bonds, all selling under face value to yield around 4-4½ per cent.

The American Telephone 2¾ per cent dollar obligations are selling for 77 cents on the dollar. The General Motors Acceptance Corporation 4's can be bought for about 93. The Illinois Bell Telephone 3 per cent obligations are bringing 83 and the United States Steel Corporation 4's can be bought for around 95.

Investors in retirement who have bought common stocks over a period of years and now have large profits should not hesitate to take some capital gains and invest the capital in such dollar obligations as mentioned above.

Sentimental attachment to blue-chip equities is ill-advised in every circle where income return on invested capital is so necessary.

International Business Machines and Eastman Kodak represent a class of highest-grade equities that are selling too high when one considers earnings and dividends.

Both stocks are money shelters for hundreds of investors in their 60's ,70's and 80's. In many cases their holders need higher income.

A common stock should be the servant and not the master of an investor. Quite frequently high-grade equities outlive their usefulness to retired and elderly persons.

State Arterial Projects Hit Peak During 1959-61 Period

ALBANY — New York State did more to ease the flow of motor traffic through its cities and urban areas between 1959 and 1961 than in any corresponding period in its history, State Superintendent of Public Works J. Burch McMorran said Sunday.

McMorran said state and federal funds obligated for construction of arterial routes in the past three years — as part of Governor Rockefeller's stepped-up road-building program — totaled $119,803,585, an increase of 26 per cent over the 1956-8 total of $95,086,620. He said the 1959-61 figure exceeded by more than 15 per cent the total for the entire four-year period from 1955 through 1958 —$103,685,722.

Total state-federal obligations for construction on the arterial system since 1947, when the first projects were launched, rose to $437,268,442 at the close of 1961.

Funds obligated over the past three years represented a 38 per cent increase over the 11-year total of $317,464,857 committed up to Jan. 1, 1959.

McMorran said gains of the past three years had brought the state to the half-way mark in arterial development. The estimated cost to complete the program is $465,000,000.

"This exceptional progress," McMorran said, "is creating many new facilities which promote the safe and efficient movement of our heaviest traffic — that in the urban regions where 85.4 per cent of the state's 17 million citizens reside."

Eliminates Signal Stops

New arterials, he added, enabled motorists to not only pass through cities with greater ease, but to reach many residential or commercial neighborhoods of urban areas with a minimum of stops for traffic signals and intersections.

Arterial projects were placed under contract between 1959 and 1961 in 23 of the state's 57 upstate cities, and in the City of New York, according to the superintendent. The total of cities participating in the construction program since 1947 rose by three to 44.

Total projects executed by the Department of Public Works increased by 80, to 395, and the number of projects completed went up by 77, to 335. Cities with completed projects increased from 36 to 41.

Mileage of new arterial routes completed or started increased from 142.24 to 177.85 between Jan. 1, 1959 and Dec. 31, 1961. Of this increase, 30.87 miles were in upstate cities and 4.74 miles in the City of New York.

Gotham Has Most

Due to additional construction problems encountered in building new routes or modernizing existing ones in New York City, obligations for work in the state's largest metropolitan area comprised $73,572,970 of the 1959-61 total. In upstate cities the volume of arterial contracts was $46,230,615.

The superintendent also noted that the state's contribution to arterial route construction increased in relationship to the federal share between 1959 and 1961.

The state's portion of total obligations during that period was $59,072,395 as against federal-aid amounting to $60,731,190.

Between 1955 and 1958, he asserted, the Federal Government had put up $53,476,758 for arterial highways, approximately $12 million over the state contribution of $41,609,862.

Financed by State, Federal

Arterials generally are financed with state and federal funds on a 50-50 basis, although in the past federal funds met a slightly larger share of the cost of some projects.

The state and cities share equally the cost of right-of-way for arterials, with their combined outlay in the past three years rising by approximately $20 million to a 14-year total of $110,925,600.

McMorran pointed out that arterial development, while sizeable, did not account for all of the state's obligations for urban area routes. Under the Department of Public Works' regular urban highway and interstate highway programs, he said, many additional millions of state-federal road-building allocations — averaging some $350 million annually — were committed for highway improvements in and around densely-developed areas. Cities do not share in the costs of these programs.

Upstate cities in which new arterial program projects were started between 1959 and 1961 included the following:

Others Benefitted

These and others, McMorran said, also benefitted under other phases of the state's urban construction programs.

The superintendent declared still further increases in arterial development were anticipated in future years as a result of the 1961 Legislature's adoption of a law authorizing the state to make interest-free advances to cities of their share of right-of-way costs. Several cities already have applied for advances under the law.

Additional construction designs are being developed for many of the cities which already have arterials, as well as for others which have approved the route proposals presented by the Department of Public Works.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television, currently the subject of Federal Communications Commission hearings, can point with pride to its performance this past weekend.

Astronaut John H. Glenn's rocket flight was postponed because of weather, but during the long hours of the countdown on Saturday, all three networks carried on in smooth, well-planned fashion. During the seemingly endless wait, with Glenn in the space ship and not much visible activity, all three teams kept viewers informed, and briefed us thoroughly with their own knowledge and pre-taped interviews. Everyone seemed to know his job and was ready for any situation.

It was a good job—but it won't be as interesting next time they go through the countdown.

NBC's "White Paper" Sunday night put a blazing light on the Hudson River community of Newburgh, N.Y., in the headlines recently because of the determination primarily of its city manager, Joseph Mitchell, to rid its public welfare roles of "chiselers and loafers," freeloaders and the able-bodied—his description.

The cameras inspected Newburgh's slums. Reporters interviewed proponents and opponents of the plan as well as some of those affected—old, sick, blind despairing. It wound up with an interview with an agonized young father, sobbing because he could find no work, welfare doors were closed to him and his children were hungry.

All through the program, like a pointing finger, ran the brisk voice of Chet Huntley, stating that after the furor, only one able-bodied worker was found among 800 receiving benefits last summer; that aid to fatherless families amounted to about six per cent of the city welfare costs, that the widely publicized reform projects had led only to "a small tax saving."

It was a shocking, frightening program and there was no doubt about the way the producers of the program felt about the handling of the problem. The Newburgh welfare reformers won't like it at all

Judge Election Study Proposed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Correctional Association of New York wants the Legislature to study thoroughly the present system of electing judges to various courts in the state.

The elective system is not working in New York City, the Association said Sunday in its annual report to the Legislature.

The association also complained that grand juries meet too infrequently Upstate. As a result, the report said, persons charged with crimes often are detained too long, and to those later found innocent this means "loss of freedom and suffering by an innocent person without redress or compensation."

The report said the elective methods of selecting judges appeared to be working satisfactorily Upstate.

But in New York City, the report said, so many judges are elected that "The voters have nothing to go on except a blind and unconfident faith in the party label," and the system "fails to obtain any real verdict from the voters."

3 Persons Hurt In Car Mishaps

Three persons were injured, one critically, in weekend traffic accidents investigated by Highland State Police.

Edward Robinson, 27, of Underhill Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, suffered rib fractures at 1:30 a. m. today when his car crashed into guard rails on Route 9W at the Highland Traffic Circle. Robinson was taken to Vassar hospital. He was driving south along the highway in his 1954 sedan at the time of the crash.

Harvey Henderson, 32, of Route 32, New Paltz, suffered a skull fracture and other injuries at 3:05 a. m. Sunday when his car failed to negotiate a curve on Schreiber's Lane, east of Route 32, New Paltz.

Troopers said Henderson's car skidded clockwise, struck a bridge rail on the left side of the road and crashed into a tree. Henderson was taken to Kingston Hospital in the New Paltz Fire Department ambulance.

A passenger in the car, Thomas Jenkins, 26, of Route 32, New Paltz, was taken to the hospital suffering chest and possible abdominal injuries, according to troopers. He was admitted to Kingston Hospital.

One of Key Questions:

How Many Military Officers Write Speeches for Selves?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the key questions—not emphasized so far in the Senate inquiry into censorship of military officers' speeches—is how many of them actually write their own speeches.

It can be reliably stated that few do although the Senate subcommittee got top-brass complaint about the kind of censoring they got and the fact that low-ranking subordinates used the red pencil.

It is doubtful that many of the military speech-makers even see the speeches written for them before they are submitted to the Pentagon censors: the Defense Department's Security Review Office.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara not long ago ordered officers to initial their speeches, as evidence that they at least looked at them, before sending them to the Security Review Office.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, retired chief of naval operations, complained to the subcommittee against review by Pentagon subordinates of what the top officers are going to say.

So did Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, chief of Army research. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent the subcommittee a statement saying: "Let our informed military speak."

But Gen. Thomas D. White, retired Air Force chief, said he didn't mind being reviewed by Pentagon underlings because "most speeches are written by junior officers and reviewed by junior officers of similar rank."

"I rarely personally wrote a speech myself," he said. "There were relatively low-level persons who wrote the speeches in the first place."

This is the usual procedure: A speech to be delivered by, say, an Army officer goes first to the Army security review to be sure it reveals no secrets and is in keeping with presidential policy.

From there it is sent to the Defense Department's Security Review Office.

If along the line there is any conflict, the speech can be submitted to Arthur Sylvester, McNamara's assistant secretary in charge of public affairs or if there is still conflict to McNamara himself.

President Kennedy backs the present policy, which was also Eisenhower's policy although now Eisenhower seems to be having second thoughts about it.

Backing it also are Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Robert der President Harry S. Truman. A. Lovett, defense secretary un-

This inquiry is the result of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that the military was being muzzled when it wanted to make anti-Communist talks.

One thing upon which everyone is agreed—including Thurmond—is that the military must be subordinate to civilian control.

The French have been cited as the prime example of the danger that can be created for a republic where the generals go from open opposition to the government to conspiracy against it.

So what the Senate subcommittee hearings boil down to after a week of testimony is not whether top government civilians have a right to censor military men's speeches but only how it should be done.

This then becomes a matter of judgment. That leaves the door wide open for a lot of wrangling but hardly for explosions.

9 Persons Killed In Sunday Blaze

That panicky cry, sobbed by a pajama-clad 11-year-old boy pounding on a neighbor's door, was the first alarm of a fire that took nine lives early Sunday morning in this western Massachusetts village.

Six children and three adults perished in the flames that swept through a two-story farmhouse two hours before dawn.

The sole survivor was Robert Deome Jr., mentally retarded, who escaped the flames by plunging through the glass of a rear door.

Those who died included his mother, Mrs. Robert Deome, 32; a brother, Charles, 6; the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Crandall 66 and 63, respectively, and five first cousins ranging in age from 2 to 10.

The cause of the fire was not known. State Police detective Lt. Timothy Keane, assigned to the Massachusetts fire marshal's office, said a probable cause was a basement heating plant explosion.

Given 1 to 100 Chance To Live, Girl Makes It

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Nora Gunning, 19, of nearby Blacklick came home Sunday. Doctors last October said she had only one chance in 100 of doing so.

Nora, who was en route to Mexico, suffered 30 broken bones, a collapsed lung and was in a coma for 3½ weeks after an automobile collision near Nashville, Tenn., last October. Doctors gave her a 1-in-100 chance to live.

For four months she has been in Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville staging one of the most surprising recuperations in that hospital's history. Sunday she was released and flew home.

"Oh, she's home and its wonderful," exclaimed her mother, Mrs. Robert Gunning.

"She doesn't have any definite plans yet," Mrs. Gunning said, "except that she plans to work in a hospital here this summer."

20 Pigs Perish In Barn Fire at Marist College

Fire destroyed a large barn and 20 pigs on the Marist College campus, North Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, Saturday night.

Fairview and Roosevelt Fire District companies battled the flames and prevented fire from spreading to a larger barn a short distance away.

Firemen said the barn, which was heated by a pot stove, was enveloped in flames when they arrived. Fire officials theorized sparks from the stove might have ignited straw on the floor.

The barn, 20 by 40 feet, was completely destroyed, authorities said.

Developing Programs For Caring for Aged

HARRISBURG (AP) — Five counties are to receive a total of $53,400 in state grants for developing their programs for caring for the aged.

The State Public Welfare Department, in making the weekend announcement, said the grants would be supplemented by $51,200 in local funds.

The funds will be used in programs designed to keep older people out of institutions, the department said.

The counties to receive the grants, and the size of the grants, are: Allegheny, $21,250; Luzerne, $19,000; Lancaster, $6,375; Wayne County, $5,275, and Lehigh, $1,500.

Seek Ring Thief

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Police today were trying to trace a trayful of 30 diamond engagement rings that disappeared from a variety store here. The rings were worth about $2,500.

Employes discovered the rings missing Saturday from an unlocked cabinet. A velvet - lined tray where they were kept was found in a trash can outside the store.

Killed in Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Tournour, 57, of Buffalo, was fatally injured Sunday night when an automobile in which she was riding and another car collided at a downtown intersection.

Salinger-Soviet Press Chief Talk Communications

PARIS (AP) — White House press secretary Pierre Salinger and his Soviet counterpart met today and there was speculation they discussed an exchange of television appearances by President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Salinger said earlier they would discuss ways to improve communications between the two countries. More specific information on their discussion was not immediately available, and there was no confirmation that they discussed an appearance by Kennedy on Soviet television and an exchange appearance by Khrushchev on U.S. networks.

Salinger told newsmen the question of a face-to-face meeting between the two leaders definitely would not b brought up in his talk with Kharlamov.

Salinger flew in Sunday for a two-day visit and Kharlamov arrived about the same time for what appeared a prearranged meeting.

Adzhubei, who is Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the Soviet government paper Izvestia, interviewed Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., in November.

Mailmen to Stage Mass Rally for More Money

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—About 2,000 mailmen will stage a mass rally in Washington March 5-7 to urge Congress to increase their pay, a spokesman for the National Association of Letter Carriers says.

Rademacher, in a speech here Saturday, said the security postal workers sought when they entered government service has turned out to be "guaranteed poverty."

"The postal employe begins with less than $70 a week after deductions," Rademacher told a local chapter gathering. "You cannot attract career-minded people with that kind of pay."

Mrs. Martha Reifler, George Myers Are Married in New York

George Myers of Albany and Mrs. Martha Reifler of Poughkeepsie were married on January 26 by Justice of the Supreme Court, Arthur Markewich. The ceremony took place at the home of Justice Markewich in New York City. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forman of Woodstock.

Mrs. Myers was the widow of the late Nathan L. Reifler, president of Electra Supply Company of Poughkeepsie. She is a graduate of Cornell University, a member of the Board of Trustees of Vassar Brothers Hospital, a past president of the Board of Education of Poughkeepsie and the retiring president of the Dutchess area Community Chest.

Mr. Myers is a graduate of Cornell University and Harvard Law School and is a former Justice of the City Court of Albany. He has served in various public offices as assistant corporation counsel of the City of Albany, Deputy Commissioner of Taxation and Assessment of the City of Albany, Chief Attorney to the Office of Price Administration and is now associated with O'Connell and Aronowitz, Attorneys of Albany. Mr. Myers is a member of Cohoes Lodge 116 F.&A.M., Albany Elks Club, Colonie Country Club and is a member of Temple Beth Emeth.

Following a European and Mediterranean cruise, Mr. and Mrs. Myers will reside in Albany at 53 Maxwell Street.

Welfare Meeting

Antonio A. Sorieri, deputy commissioner of the State Department of Social Welfare, will be the main speaker at an open meeting in Poughkeepsie on Feb. 5, sponsored by the Dutchess County Committee on Children and Public Welfare.

Mrs. John W. Sweeney, program chairman of the committee, announced that the meeting will be held at the Central Hudson Auditorium, Cannon Street, Poughkepsie, starting at 8 p. m.

A NEW RECEPTIONIST

Q: I have taken a job as receptionist in a large company and would like to know how to greet those who come into the office on business. Do I rise and go forward to greet them or do I remain seated? Would the same answer follow if the visitor is a man or woman? I would appreciate any further help you can give me on this subject.

A: If you are seated at a switchboard or behind a desk working, you remain seated. You look up and say good morning, or good afternoon, and ask, "Can I help you?" The visitor then tells you whom he has come to see and if he doesn't give you his name, you ask for it and then call the office of the person he has come to see and say, "Mr. Jones to see Mr. Robertson." If he can be received, you direct the visitor to his office or say that Mr. Robertson is in conference but will see him shortly.

Q: I have just received my wedding invitations from the engravers and, to my great surprise, the year is left off. He says that the year is never put on a wedding invitation. It seems to me every wedding invitation I ever received had the year on it. Will you please tell me what is correct?

A: The year is omitted because unnecessary, and couldn't possibly be mistaken. The year, however, is always included on a wedding announcement.

* * *

Q: One of the men in our office is going to retire next month and we are giving him a farewell dinner in a very nice restaurant. A question has come up as to whether or not his wife should be invited. What is your opinion?

A: Unless other outsiders are to be present, it will not be necessary to invite her to this office farewell dinner.

* * *

Should the tissue papers be removed before mailing wedding invitations? The answer to this question as well as correct wedding forms will be found in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

FASHION FORECAST FOR SPRING, 1962

Spring opens with a new feminine fashion image: Soft, pretty, beguiling. The understated "little nothing" dress is gone. In its place is the "something dress," the dress that makes a statement. Clothes are more elaborate— in basic construction, in detail, in shape. And the shape is no longer based on the straight lines of the rectangle. It moves, it flows, it sways. It clings to the body through bias inserts. It is unmistakingly feminine.

These fashion trends for spring, 1962, have been summarized by Women's Wear Daily fashion editors after reviewing manufacturers' spring collections.

Some components of the new shape: Little jackets that float, ripple, flutter, some shaped like a capelet with the sleeves worked in, some true capes, some panels that form capes in the back alone. In the same feeling are backs that blouse or backs that are draped.

Ruffles are a strong softening ingredient, setting up a storm at the hemline (balancing the explosion at the shoulders), climbing up a skirt from hem to waistline or even shoulders. Others trail around in horizontal tiers or extend vertically bordering a jacket or a bodice. And along with the ruffles are godets, low flares, deep flounces.

Pleats are strong. Some hang crisp and straight, breaking open only in motion. Others whirl at the hint of a breeze or a gesture.

The majority of skirts flare gently, sometimes echoing the flare at the top. Many feature fulness under the control of a wide, soft front panel, many have the fulness set low, reinforced by the ruffles and frills. Skirts are often worked on the bias so the figure is not concealed by a tent of fabric, but the fabric clings, no matter what its width.

Costuming takes many forms, planned to constitute a related whole or to stand on any of its parts, each part with a specific purpose. There are full-length coats that not only complement a dress but can serve as a dress itself. There are overblouses, tunics, the new little fly-aways that provide a dress with its own wrappings frequently a change of pace.

Fabrics have never been so thin, so drenched with color, so supple. Crepe stars, made for the softness of the hour and lending itself to the gentle flow of fabric, not only in black but in pale colors as well. It is balanced by night with chiffon, in inumerable prints that mingle pale watercolor pastels or deep tones in patterns of the utmost delicacy or boldest strength. Also featured are the lacy, open wools, often in colors of equal lightness. . .the knits appearing even for evening.

SPRING COAT AND SUIT FORM

It is the shape up front that counts in spring coats and suits. We find that front shaping moving toward the bustline is the identifying feature.

Suit shapes are the prettiest in years, short-jacketed with popular demi-fit now noticeably closer to the figure, with the suggestion of lifted bustline. A narrow set-in sleeve is making the news along with the small, notched collar standing away from the neckline.

To vary the spring pace, jackets turn to lowered banded necklines, scalloped hemlines, nude necklines, high single-or double breasted closings and a few asymmetric types.

Most significant news of spring is the diversity and softness in skirts. Shirred waistlines, trouser pockets, flared hemlines, wide wraps, front panel pleats take skirts away from the straight and narrow.

Newest coat is the narrow coat. Redingote is the magic word. Also favoring high front shaping are the cape back, princess silhoutte and tapered back coat. Again the set-in narrow sleeve and the trim, notched standway collar get the spring bid. Femininity appears by the way of embroidered lace collars and cuffs.

In fabrics the word is lacy. Sheer, lightweight fabrics, airy textured weaves tell the coating and suiting story. An excellent choice of cottons, cotton blends, silks, silk blends plus yards of woolens make the same featherweight point.

SOFTER LOOK IN SPORTSWEAR

Softer, more feminine sportswear is due in 1962. The movement is toward closer to the body shaping, more fitted but still not plastered. Waistlines are definitely marked but not cinched. Obvious expressions of the feminine look, such as ruffles, flounces, frills and fringe, will appear, but form rather than folderol will play a hand in utterly pure and simple clothes given over to new femininty.

Two- and three-piece suit ensembles gain importance. Jackets stress more fit, fitted front loose-back shaped waistlength as well as belted types. Skirts will be in motion via pleats or gentle flares. Overblouses will continue strong, but some undercurrents suggest a return to tuck-ins. Sleeves are slated for a comeback.

Stretch fabrics are to enter a new era, used for purposees other than "nailed-to-the-floor" pants. In jackets, pullovers, skirts and tops, stretch fabrics will no longer have to be anchored.

MILLINERY COMPLEMENTS FASHION IMAGE

The little girl look of young and carefree shapes, straw in the raw and crisp, windblown brims, little hats that perch on the back of the head or tilt tam-like to the side. . . all of these new spring hats are very much in keeping with new full skirts and nipped-in waists.

Scoops and more scoops, brims cupped to all degrees are among the trend setters. Cloches trace curves beyond eye level, contour steeped upon contour of the roughest and the smoothest straw, of all sorts of materials, including sheers.

Flip-ups, just about every kind imaginable, sweep hats in every direction, flashing the latest news in profile, even rollers keeling over to one side. Turned edges roll merrily along on brims as big as cartwheels.

Barets bounce all over the place in every shape and size—the biggest blown up to picture-hat proportions, the smallest pint-size and sleek as caps, some with visored base, some backposed, some profile, some youthful as sailor boys, some dramatic as Renaissance princes.

Hadassah Study Group Has Paper On Poet, Scholar

The Kingston Chapter of Hadassah's study group held its January meeting Thursday evening, Jan. 25, in the home of Mrs. Robert S. Yallum, Richmond Park.

Subjects for the evening were two great Jewish personalities of the middle ages, Judah Halevi and Moses Maimonides. Mrs. Herbert Lange presented an interesting and informative report on the two.

Halevi, born in Spain in the 11th century, was the first Jewish national poet. Fluent in the Hebrew language, he composed poetry which revealed his great love for Zion. Mrs. Lange read selections from his work, some of which is included in present-day prayerbooks.

Maimonides, a generation later, was a scholar and philosopher who systematized Jewish law and through his monumental work, "Guide for the Perplexed" justified religion and faith by means of philosophical logic.

A brief review of current events and personalities in the news was given.

The group will hold its next meeting Thursday, Feb. 22, in the home of Mrs. David Kline, 10 Len Court. Mrs. Arthur Kaufman will report on Rashi, the great French Talmudist. The group is open to all; anyone interested is invited to attend any study group session.

Bridal Shower Is Given Locally for Miss Ida Peller

A surprise bridal shower was given Thursday, Jan. 25 by Mrs. Frank Peller and Mrs. Edward Peller at the later's home. The guest of honor was Miss Ida Peller who will wed John Ringe of Blairstown, N. J., in February.

The following atended the shower: Mrs. William Hornbeck, Mrs. Raymond Winnie, Mrs. John Wolfersteig, Mrs. Wilson Wright, Mrs. William Lifer, Mrs. William Marks, Mrs. Theodore Kuehn, Mrs. William Thiel, Mrs. Peter Hoagland, Miss Diane Lifer and Miss Dorothy Schoenfeld. Gifts were also received from Miss Linda Hornbeck, Mrs. Sherman Adin and Mrs. C. Bennett.

Celuch Is Fair

The condition of Paul Celuch, 21, of East Kingston, hurt in a skidding accident Sunday on Route 32 just north of the Kingston City line, is reported as fair today at Kingston Hospital. According to Trooper Richard Ryan of Lake Katrine Barracks, Celuch's automobile skidded on an icy patch as he headed north on Route 32, went off the highway and rammed a telephone pole. He was taken to the Kingston Hospital in Fatum's Ambulance, suffering lacerations of the face and forehead.

Safe, Not Sorry

When there are children in the household, it's wise to make sure you have a bathroom door that can be opened from the outside.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

We're Equal — But We're Not Identical

Several days ago I tested my ability to teach English to a group of Spanish-speaking, uneducated parents who live in a slum area of my city. Returning home I found a visitor — a young, intensely "liberal" friend of ours. To his question I replied. "I don't know yet how I did. The problem is that these parents like their children, have different abilities. I'm probably going to have to separate them into classes of fast, medium and slow thinkers."

"That's a Fascist point of view!" cried my progressive young friend. And launched himself into a passionate speech on the Equality of Man.

Which was interesting. For only the week before an ultra conservative friend of mine had said to me. "Any child can learn as fast as another if he isn't a lazy good-for-nothing."

They can't suggest that children need different school treatment for different abilities lest the "liberals" in their communities accuse them of denying the Equality of Man. Nor can they suggest it to the conservatives lest any difference in schooling for their underprivileged children be called "coddling" — an outrageous indulgence of the underprivileged ones' moral weakness.

Both groups for their separate reasons must have all children's abilities equal.

Sometimes I wish that the Founding Fathers had written "All men are created equal, by which we do not mean identical."

It might have prevented many confusions. American women would not strive to be identical with men in the name of sexual equality.

If Mrs. White's boy makes an Ivy League college, Mrs. Black wouldn't feel abused because hers has to satisfy himself with a less prominent university. And children whose unstimulated brains work more slowly than the stimulated ones of others would not have to be schooled as though they didn't.

Equal does not mean identical —and even the Founding Fathers can't make it so. But the national fantasy is rough on children. For if you are a slow-thinking child in a class with faster ones, you start viewing yourself with shame.

So you play truant from school. Then your family cracks down on you. Soon both home and school have become places to avoid — and you wander the streets until you get into trouble — and another machine takes you over.

The distortion of our American creed of human equality is adding up to a lot of human unhappiness.

B'nai B'rith Women Hear Talk on Civil Defense, Fall-out

The Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women met Wednesday Jan. 24 at the Ahavath Israel Vestry Hall. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert Ronder. Mrs. Gerald Cohen was introduced as a guest.

Mrs. Herbert Powell announced the organization, in addition to giving patients at the Ulster County Infirmary birthday gifts, is donating birthday cakes for patients born in February. All those who wish to bake should contact Mrs. Powell.

Grateful appreciation was expressed to Kingston Knitting Mills for the donation of sweaters for children at the B'nai B'rith supported Levi Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Arnold Pinsly announced an increase in commercial subscriptions to the B'nai B'rith Calendar, the organization's greatest fund-raising drive.

The program for the evening featured Charles Arnold, Deputy Director of Civil Defense in Ulster County, and Morris Nussbaum, Chief of Radiological Service of the Ulster County Civil Defense. Mr. Arnold spoke about the Civil Defense organization which was created by the Civil Defense Act of 1950. Target areas including cities with important military installations and localities with more than a million population have been designated.

New York City is such an area, making Ulster County a target-support area, Mr. Arnold said. This means in case of a direct hit on New York, we are expected to aid them in every way and give our resources and personnel as a support to them.

A film "The Invisible Enemy," explaining the meaning and dangers of radioactive fallout was shown. The importance of adequate protection in the form of a fallout shelter was stressed and plans for building and stocking it with necessary items were given. A very stimulating question and answer period followed. The program was arranged by Mrs. Howard Geller and Mrs. Harvey Kronick.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ross Ellis and Norman Serinsky.

Guardsman Held

Air police from Stewart Air Force Base picked up Garry Lee Pelton, 18, Sunday night in Ellenville on a charge of being AWOL from the Coast Guard. According to state police from Ellenville who made the arrest, Pelton, who had been absent without leave from the Coast Guard since Jan. 5, had been working at an Ellenville plant under the name of Jerry Bolton. He was picked up in a small apartment on Route 209, south of Ellenville and also gave another address as 125 Dwyer Avenue, Liberty. He has been assigned to the cutter Fire Bush.

Western Indians believed the grizzly bear had supernatural powers because of its unusual ability to recover from wounds.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT J. HENRY of Port Ewen were guests of honor at a surprise dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perry at LeHerb's on Sunday, Jan. 21. The couple were observing their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. Henry is a postmaster. The couple were married on Januay 21, 1937 in Presentation Church, Port Ewen by the Rev. Martin Leddy, CSsR. Trailways Routs Hub, 93-56; Adolph's Defeats Bait Box

EXPERT INSTRUCTION—Tom Hennessey, St. Louis bowling ace, points out fundamentals to Bob Murphy, son of Police Chief and Mrs. Robert Murphy, during Sunday afternoon clinic at Sangi's Bowlero. (Freeman Photo).

Joe Uhl and Marty Kaye combined for 53 points to lead Trailways Cafeteria to a 93-56 win over the Hub Delicatessen in the second game of a Rec Cage league doubleheader last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

Uhl scored 30 points to pace the Trailways and Kaye followed with 23. They were joined by Bill Fitzgerald with 14 and Gary Barnes with 13 markers. The winners jumped to an early lead and were never threatened. Al Short rimmed 20 points for the Hub five.

The Bait Box rallied in the final period but couldn't overcome a 10 point deficit. Red Hook was paced by Don Conn with 20 points and big Ron Miller with 13. Dick Terlingen had 12 for the losers.

Uhl Fails to Pass English, Biology, Is Out of College

Joe Uhl, who went into Boston University with a hatful of basketball scoring records set at Kingston High during a sensational three-year career, couldn't make it, at least schoolwise.

Uhl confirmed this morning that he had failed English and Biology last week during mid-year examinations and had been dropped by school officials.

Until the time of his dismissal, he was leading the Terrier frosh team in scoring and had been labeled as a good prospect by cage coaches at the school.

The basketball ace hasn't decided on future plans but stated he may enroll at another college in September. If so, he will not be able to play basketball for one year.

St. Mary's Clubs Score Cage Wins

Key baskets by Dann Heppner and Jim Williams in the final seconds of play gave St. Mary's of Kingston a 44-41 triumph over St. Mary's of Hudson in a varsity CYO tilt yesterday at the Greene County city.

In the other contest, the local jayvee five pulled way ahead in the final stages to trounce the home team, 46-25.

Don Bowra Leads Archers With 474

Don Bowra shot 474 to win the 450 class in the weekly indoor archery shoot last week at the Teen Age center. Trailing the leader were Mel Farris, 463, Clinton Hawes, 422, and Will Stoutenberg, 420.

Winner in the 375 class was Don Planthaber with 403. Then came Ron Bruck, 378, Willis Eckert, 351, and Carl Stoutenberg, 306.

In the free style class, Art Pinkham had 531 while Bill Hornbeck had 427 and John Marsil 411. Charles Beechtle had 643 and Tom Bruck 609 in the handicap class.

Awards will be presented this week to all winners of past shoots.

Ohio State Back in Action, Hosts Purdue Cagers Tonight

Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball, in midterm doldrums the last two weeks, swings back into high gear this week with all members of the top 10 in action and second-ranked Kentucky and third-rated Cincinnati busiest of them all.

While undefeated and No. 1-ranked Ohio State (14-0), idle since thumping Purdue 91-65 a week ago, plays a return engagement with the Boilermakers tonight at home before taking on Northwestern Saturday, Kentucky (13-1) and Cincinnati (14-2) swing into a three-game schedule.

Kentucky, pacing the Southwestern Conference with a 4-0 mark, takes on three of the league's lower echelon—Georgia Tech tonight, Georgia Wednesday and Florida Friday.

Battling for Title

Cincinnati, battling to stay in the Missouri Valley race with a 4-2 standing back of ninth-ranked Bradley's 5-1 and Wichita's 5-2, meets two conference foes—Drake Tuesday at home and North Texas away Saturday. In between the Bearcats take on independent Houston at Houston Thursday.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State, 13-2 after edging Iowa State 56-55, makes only one appearance this week. The Wildcats are at home Saturday to Nebraska and need the victory to keep on the heels of Colorado's Buffaloes, whose 4-0 mark is best in the Big Eight Conference. K State's league mark is 4-1.

Southern California, fifth-ranked at 12-3, also has only one game on the week's agenda, meeting UCLA away Friday. Sixth-ranked Duquesne faces two foes, one of them tough Villanova.

Two League Foes

The Dukes, 14-2 after stopping LaSalle 80-66 Saturday, take on Villanova (15-2) Wednesday in what could be the game of the week. Villanova polished off Memphis State 109-84 Saturday with Hubie White getting 30 points and four teammates scoring in double figures.

Duke (14-2), ranked seventh and tied with North Carolina for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead after downing Wake Forest 82-68, clashes with two league foes — South Carolina at home Tuesday and at North Carolina Saturday.

Bowling Green (14-1), No. 8, returns to action Saturday after a week's idleness, meeting Miami (Ohio) on Miami's court Saturday. Bradley (12-3) playing without All-America Chet Walker, had a relatively easy time improving its Mo-Valley lead Saturday in downing North Texas State 84-70. The Braves face a couple of toughies this week in Tulsa tonight and St. Louis Saturday, both at home.

Mississippi State (14-1), trailing Kentucky in the Southeastern Conference with a 4-1 mark, shouldn't have any trouble holding its place in the top 10 unless Louisiana State causes trouble Saturday. The Rebels warm up for the league clash against non-conference Delta State tonight.

The Ohio State-Purdue game brings together two All-Americas —Ohio State's Jerry Lucas and Purdue's Terry Dischinger—in a return engagement. In their first clash a week ago, Lucas outscored the Boilermaker ace 32-19 and outrebounded him 21-1. Dischinger had a brilliant day against Wisconsin Saturday. He scored 50 points in a losing effort as the Badgers downed Purdue 89-86.

Dischinger's scoring rampage, however, was only second to Jimmy Rayl, who tossed in 56 points, including a game-winning 20-footer in Indiana's 105-104 victory over Minnesota.

Trotters, Knicks Win Cadet Contests

Globetrotters rapped the Warriors, 38-4, and the Knicks defeated the Celtics, 18-5, in YMCA Cadet basketball games on Saturday.

The scores:

Globetrotters (38) — Schantz (6), Buddenhaggen (22), Bently (8), Hillis, Cahill, Korzendorfer (2). Warriors (4) — Kent (2), Clark (2), G. Grier, Mitchell, O'Donnell, Yaple, Emerick.

Knicks (18) — Bodie (6), Flowers (6), L. Flowers (6), Clum, Brown, Johnston, Newton. Celtics (5) — Esposito (2), Sharp (2), Lewis (1,) Josefski, Barten, Bodie.

Roush, McKechnie Added to Hall of Fame

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Edd Roush and Deacon Bill McKechnie, two sparkling names in National League history, have been named to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Roush, 68, and McKechnie, 74, were elected Sunday as the 89th and 90th members by the veterans' committee which considers only players inactive for at least 30 years. They will be inducted July 23 at Cooperstown, N. Y., along with Bobby Feller and Jackie Robinson, named last week by the baseball writers from men retired at least five years but not more than 30 years.

It was fitting that Roush and McKechnie should get the nod at the same time. They were teammates in the Federal League at Indianapolis and Newark in 1914-15 and with the New York Giants in 1916 before they were traded with Christy Mathewson to Cincinnati for Buck Herzog and Wade Killefer. In the winter they are neighbors in Bradenton, Fla.

"It's all right, but sometimes these things come too late," Roush said in Bradenton. "It takes them too long to vote on these players. Waiting for 30 years after a man becomes inactive, and five years to vote him in is too long. By that time a lot of men are not around any more."

Roush topped the writers' poll in 1960 but did not have the required three-fourths vote. This was the first time the veterans had considered him.

Is in Florida

It was ironic that Roush should get the news in Florida. When he was a player he shunned spring training until the last minute. One year, 1930, he held out all season and never did join the Giants.

Missing training camp didn't seem to hurt Roush. His lifetime average for 16 years was .325 and he won the batting title at Cincinnati with .341 in 1917 and .321 in 1919. He was a left-handed batter and thrower. He was an excellent center fielder who liked to play shallow, right behind second base. In his day he used the heaviest bat (48 ounces) of any player, even bigger than Babe Ruth's famous club.

McKechnie also was a big league player, active as an infielder from 1907 to 1920, most of the time with Pittsburgh, but he was elected as a manager.

Deacon Bill won a pennant at Pittsburgh in 1925, beating Washington in the World Series. He won at St. Louis in 1928, losing to the New York Yankees and at Cincinnati in 1939 and 1940. The Reds lost to the Yanks in four straight in '39 but beat Detroit in seven games in '40. After he stepped down at Cincinnati in 1946, he coached under Lou Boudreau at Cleveland from 1947-1949 and again in Boston, 1952-53. While he was managing at Cincinnati, Roush served under him as a coach in 1938.

Gail Purdy Winner In Speed Skating

Miss Purdy won the title Sunday.

Tom Hennessey Fails To Average 180 Here

With a jam packed house looking on Sunday night, the personable St. Louis Irishman hit just two 200 games out of seven and averaged a dismal 178.5 in six doubles exhibition and jackpot games.

Hennessey, former All America and ABC Masters champion, rolled unimpressive games of 183, 153, 183, 152, 158, 207 and 220. To compound matters, he and partners, dropped six of the seven double sets.

He linked his highest score (220) with Tom Barringer's 166 for a 386 total to beat Ken Joseph (181) and Jerry Kaplan (200) who had 381.

Kildy Corrado and Dick Howard rolled 244 and 236, respectively for a whopping 480 doubles to overwhelm Hennessey (207) and Jerry Kaplan (133) for 340. Corrado and Howard then rolled 410 against a 300 for Hennessey and Harold Broskie.

Kaplan and Ken Joseph rolled 335 to 341 by Hennessey and Ed Mills.

(Doubles Results)

Jones Dairy Wins Pair Of Valley Loop Matches

Jones Dairy moved another game ahead of the field in the Hudson Valley league by scoring two wins over Three Brothers Egg Farms Saturday night at the Bowlero.

Vince Carpino anchored Charles Ramsey to its pair of victories with 221-225-191-637. Fred Visconti led the Newburgh club with 168-191-243-602. The Kingston team won the first two games with 953 and 900 but hit only 850 in the final effort.

Frisco, Pitt Are Leaders in ABL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crucial weekend series sweeps by San Francisco and Pittsburgh put new leaders in each division of the American Basketball League.

San Francisco, whose 7-0 second half record is the only perfect mark among league teams, took over the Western Division lead with a Friday-Sunday sweep of Kansas City. A 106-102 victory Sunday moved the Saints two games out in front after they won 106-104 Friday night and broke a first place deadlock.

Pittsburgh, showing only a 6-6 record, replaced Chicago as the Eastern Division leader following a sweep of a three-game series. The Rens knocked off the Majors 103-87 Sunday, breaking a tie for the lead. Chicago had been in first place.

Bill Skowron Signs Contract, Becomes 9th Yank in the Fold

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Moose is loose.

That's the word from big, heavily muscled Bill (Moose) Skowron, the New York Yankees robust hitting first baseman with a history of back trouble who became the ninth member of the world champions to sign his 1962 baseball contract.

Skowron, the team's regular first baseman since 1954, received a modest raise Saturday to $35,000 for the 1961 campaign in which he hit .267 with 28 homers and 89 runs batted in, then swung at a .353 clip against the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series.

The 31-year-old slugger, who has his own system of exercising designed to stretch and strengthen his back muscles, has been keeping loose during the off-season by going through his paces every morning right after hopping out of bed.

'They told me at a Mayo Clinic checkup a few years ago," said Skowron, "that my muscles didn't have much elasticity. Since that time, I've had these stretching exercises to do. No question about it, they've helped me.

Steady Patient

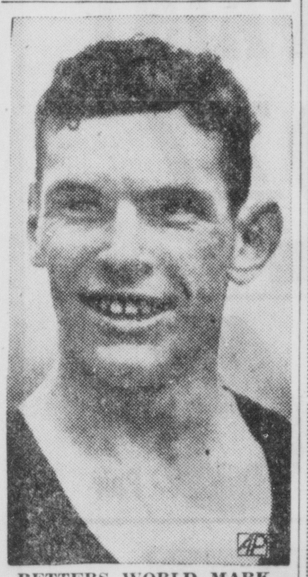

With the exception of 1956, a year in which he was free from injury and hit .308 with 23 homers and 90 RBI, Skowron has been a steady patient. But the last two years he has been relatively free from his aching back.

The Reds, meanwhile, signed five players, including second baseman Don Blasingame and former Yankee catcher Jesse Gonder, while the Chicago White Sox lured pitcher Ray Herbert and three rookies into the fold.

Blasingame, who hit .222 last year, came to the Reds in a trade with San Francisco that sent catcher Ed Bailey to the Giants.

The White Sox acquired Herbert in a trade with Kansas City and the veteran hurler compiled a 9-6 record for Chicago after a 3-6 start with the A's.

The Baltimore Orioles got third baseman Brooks Robinson to agree to terms and the Washington Senators came up with contracts from rookie pitchers Roy Heiser and Carl Middledorf. The Philadelphia Phillies signed outfielder Ted Savage and Pittsburgh inked third baseman Don Hoak.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

When Fred Lening of Yardley, Pa. was thrown into the breach as a last minute substitute for Lee Jouglard in a clinic-exhibition appearance at Woodstock Lanes, the unanimous reaction was: Who dat?

Lening had compiled an impressive "in trade" record prior to his exhibition in Woodstock, but his name had yet to achieve the stature of Don Carter, Ray Bluth, Dick Weber, Tony Lindemann.

But the portly, 40-year-old bowling lanes operator climaxed a string of brilliant performances on the Professional Bowlers Circuit with a victory in the 5th annual Empire State Open Saturday in Albany.

With a nationwide TV audience, which included Woodstock looking on, Lening turned back the challenge of the nation's No. 1 Negro bowler, J. Wilbert Sims of Chicago, 254-243 in a pulstating sudden death playoff for first place and a $5,000 prize.

Lening cracked the 16-man finals in both the National All Star and World Invitational, finishing seventh in the World. These achievments are not easily come by and his Albany victory was merely the culmination of a string of steady, top-flight performances.

It is safe to say that the next time Fred Lening shows up at Woodstock Lanes, the folks will know him.

• Well, What Happened:

Meanwhile, on another set of lanes—Sangi's Bowlero—one of the country's finest—Tom Hennessey of St. Louis—suffered through a dismal seven-game exhibition in which he failed to average 180, a mere 178.5 as a matter of fact.

The depth of Hennessey's miseries has to be measured against the background of his week's performance in the Empire State Open in Albany. He had advanced to the semi-final round where Lening, the eventual winner, eliminated him.

What happened to Hennessey at Sangi's is one of those inexplicable mysteries of bowling. It happens to the best of them, but seldom has a topflight star ever rolled that poorly in a local exhibition.

Hennessy was pleasantly moaning about "an all time low" for him. It also happened to be an all-time low for a local exhibition. The long parade of nationally famous bowlers who have paraded before Kingston audiences over the years is impressive—Jimmy Smith, Andy Varipapa, Joe Falcaro, Tony Sparando, Joe Wilman, George Young, Junie McMahon. Billy Golombiewski and a flock of lesser lights. Never did they have it quite as bad as Mr. Hennessey, who was probably quite happy to leave town as fast as he could.

• Carter and Weber, Too:

It is improbably that alleys 15 and 16 are such monsters at the Bowlero, but the superb St. Louis tenpin craftsmen simply couldn't hold the line except for one fleeting game.

Up at Albany, there were a couple of distinguished early casualties in the persons of Don Carter and Dick Weber, currently the world's finest bowlers. Carter and Weber, the current Moneybags of the PBA tour, never got untracked, Carter finishing a dismal 100th or thereabouts.

It was a weekend of contrasting fortunes. Fred Lening was introduced to area audiences after he paid his first visit here. Don't be too hard on Tom Hennessey. He was a dismal disappointment to the large crowd of local fans, to be sure. But There is also ample evidence that he really can bowl. 192 bowlers in Albany would attest to that any day.

Wallkill Wins, 68 - 42, Over New Paltz Cagers

With four players scoring in double figures, Wallkill kept in the thick of the UCAL pennant picture with a 68-42 win over visiting New Paltz Saturday night. The contest was postponed from Friday.

Larry Martinez, Dave Myers, Doug Edebohls and Eddie Mooney were the ringleaders for the defending champions, who are now 6-1 in league play. Ken Freer of New Paltz led all scorers with 19 points but he received little help from his mates.

The host school won a well-played jayvee contest, 53-49. Bob Crawford and Paul Nevin had 14 points each for Wallkill while Clayt Whitted rimmed 26 for the losers.

Uelses Predicts 16-Foot Vault

"I'll make that 16 feet pretty soon," the rugged leatherneck from Quantico, Va., said. He set an indoor record of 15 feet 10¼ inches in an invitational meet Saturday. Don Bragg held the old mark of 15-9½.

If he does it will wipe out the last of four magic figures that stood untouched until the last decade.

The first of the four to fall was the 4-minute mile barrier, broken by Dr. Roger Bannister in England in 1954. Then, in short order, Parry O'Brien bettered the 60-foot shot put and Charley Dumas soared over 7 feet in the high jump.

The 6-foot-1, 172-pound athlete refused to try the 16-foot mark Saturday because he said he didn't want to risk aggravation of a groin injury suffered several weeks ago.

His effort also exceeded the listed outdoor record of 15-9¾ by Bob Gutowski. It equalled an outdoor vault by George Davies of Oklahoma State last year, which is pending official recognition.

Indoor marks are not recognized as world records by the International Amateur Athletic Federation since indoor vaulting is not widespread outside North America.

Maple Leafs Lose Ground in NHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs picked up three of four possible points in weekend National Hockey League action but still lost ground in their struggle to overtake the first place Montreal Canadiens.

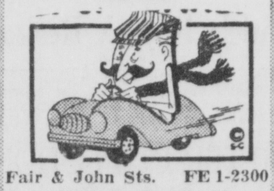

Montreal, feasting on the tail-enders, clipped Boston 5-1 Sunday night after taking New York by the same score the night before. Toronto meanwhile gained one victory and a tie.

The Leafs tied Detroit 2-2 Sunday night, while New York suffered its 10th straight defeat, a 3-0 shutout by the Chicago Black Hawks and goalie Glenn Hall.

Montreal's victory extended its unbeaten string to 10 straight — eight victories and two ties. Don McKenney collected his 20th goal for Boston and now has six consecutive 20-goal seasons.

Chicago got a 29 save performance from Hall en route to the decision over the punchless Rangers. New York, which has suffered two straight shutout at home, has scored only two goals in the last 13 periods.

Detroit's tie with Toronto may have been costly to the already-injured Red Wings. Winger Vic Stasiuk suffered twisted ligaments in his right knee and will be out for 10 days. Wings Howie Glover and Leo Labine were injured earlier and did not play.

Celts Lose 4th Straight Contest Without Russell

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If anyone doubts the value of Bill Russell to the Boston Celtics, the performance of the three-time National Basketball Association champs in the last four games may change their mind.

Russell, considered the best defensive player in the game, has missed the last four games because of a foot injury and the Celtics have lost every one.

Their four-game losing streak matches their longest since March, 1957, and has cut their Eastern Division lead from 10 to six games.

"We're going to stay put, just go with what we have," sighed Boston coach Red Auerbach Sunday after his team lost to Philadelphia for the second straight time, 133-129, in overtime.

With Russell out, the tallest Celtic player is 6-foot-7 Tommy Heinsohn. Every other club in the league has a pair between 6-foot-9 and 7-foot-3.

The lack of height was obvious Sunday as two Celtics fouled out attempting to control Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain. It was Chamberlain's 50 points and the clutch free throws of Tom Meschery that won the game.

In other games, Cincinnati beat Syracuse 139-131, St. Louis continued its drive toward a playoff spot with a 110-97 triumph over Detroit and Los Angeles whipped Chicago 124-109.

HUNTING and FISHING

The first week of the 1962 special shotgun season for deer in Westchester County was marked by fairly decent deer hunting weather, Game Protectors and field biologists reported that most hunters saw some deer generally in limited numbers, says Warren H. McKeon, regional supervisor in Region 8.

A few cases of violations of the regulations were prosecuted, but generally the season progressed smoothly without serious incidents.

The take of deer tabulated by days follows: January 15 (94); Jan. 16 (44); Jan. 17 (16); Jan. 18 (7); Jan. 19 (14) for a total of 175.

A high percentage of the der taken were in the older age categories and several were checked in with unshed antlers. These included at least one 8 point and one 10 point buck. Although the total take will undoubtedly be about the same as last year, the Department feels that the season is accomplishing its purpose as most of the deer being removed are coming out of the problem areas.

COLLARFUL:

A note out of Chillicothe, Ohio says that now they're putting collors on deer, but they won't put the animals on a leash.

They'll be running wild in Pike and Tar Hollow State Forests. The collar will be of three different colors. Each will represent a different location where the deer are released. When the deer are sighted, Division of Wildlife experts will know how far the animal has roamed and how long it took it to get there.

Conservation Department Score Always Increasing

The scope of the State Conservation Department's responsibilities continued to grow during the past year, Commissioner Harold G. Wilm has reported.

Among other things, the Department made important purchases including: 15 public campsite areas totalling 6,000 acres; 19 miles of stream fishing rights; 4 boat launching sites; 149 multiple-use areas totalling 21,000 acres; 3 wetland areas totaling 1,700 acres and 78 areas totalling 31,000 acres for wilderness consolidation and access.

The first major reorganization of field services in the history of the Conservation Department was put into operation with 35 district offices being consolidated into 9 regions.

Legislation was enacted in 1961 to strengthen the administration of the state's marine fisheries. The position of Director of Marine Fishers was authorized.

Cooperative agreements under the Fish and Wildlife Management Act, designed to develop better landowner-sportsmen relations, opened up over 225,000 acres, most of which were formerly posted, to hunting and fishing.

At the four Conservation Camps for boys operated by the Department, 1,500 youths attended, a new record.

More than 50,000 new hunters were trained under a Hunter Safety Training Program in cooperation with 5,000 volunteer certified training instructors. All in all, a historic year.

Daniels, Chapman Set For Bout at St. Nick's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Daniels of New York, aims to run his undefeated streak to 16 tonight when he faces Claude Chapman, former New England heavyweight champion, at New York's St. Nicholas Arena.

Daniels (15-0) outpointed Chapman (25-7-1) in a six-rounder last September.

Ingemar Johansson's comeback has been delayed at least a week because the former heavyweight champion's back is bothering him again. Ingo had been scheduled to meet Joe Bygraves of Jamaica in Goteborg, Sweden, Friday night. Johansson beat Bygraves six years ago in the same city.

Middleweights Henry Hank of Detroit and Joey Giardello of Philadelphia collide in a 10-rounder Tuesday night at Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

Welterweights Ralph Dupas of New Orleans and Charley Scott of Philadelphia meet for the fourth time Saturday night. This one will be televised from New York's Madison Square Garden. Dupas, No. 2 welter contender, holds a 2-1 edge in the rivalry.

Emile Griffith former world welterweight champion, makes his first fighting appearance in his native Virgin Islands Saturday night. He meets Johnny Torres, a so-so newcomer from Paterson, N.J., in a 10-rounder at St. Thomas. Griffith, now living in [illegible] done all of his pro fighting since he left the is-

Rodriguez won 9-1 margins in rounds from both referee Jimmy Devlin and judge Joe Agnello and a 7-3 edge from judge Jimmy Riccio. The AP card had it 9-1 for Rodriguez.

Rodriguez, a 3½-1 choice, scored his fourth straight victory. The No. 3 welterweight contender has a 41-2 record but no hope of a title shot for some time. First welterweight king Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba and Emile Griffith of New York have to meet in a rubber bout. Then the winner of that one probably will take on Argentina's Jorge Fernandez.

Upstate Hockey Teams Ready for Some Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clarkson, the top-rated collegiate team in the east, meets Sir George Williams of Montreal Friday at Potsdam, a night after the Canadians play RPI at Troy.

On Saturday, RPI will travel to Waterville, Maine, to oppose Colby, another of the east's better teams.

In weekend action, St. Lawrence downed McGill, 6-3, Saturday night at Canton for its 12th victory of the season, and Colgate scored an 8-4 triumph over American International at Hamilton.

EXCEPTIONAL MEN WITH COMPUTER EXPERIENCE

If you possess initiative, controlled agressiveness, and ambition perhaps your real opportunity for personal development, sense of accomplishment and recognition can be found best in a smaller size, rapidly growing company. The positions listed below each offer strong growth situations for talented individuals. The company is a wholly autonomous part of a large organization offering the opportunity of the small unit combined with the security and stability of a large group. The company has a strong record of growth and an ambitious plan for the future. It is completing a large new plant located near the Saugerties Exit of the New York Thruway into which operations will be moved in the Spring. The men who fill the following positions will have much to do with the company's future growth.

Product Manager, Computer Components

The man who fills this position will have principal responsibility for the program in this sizeable share of the firm's business. Present products include memory cores and core matrixes and stacks, ferrite recording heads, pulse transformer cores. Responsibility for relations with computer accounts, overall sales program to the market and maintenance and expansion of the product line are included. The man should have well rounded background including technical education and marketing experience. Familiarity with computers, particularly memories, is desirable.

Sales Correspondent

Good technical background with natural aptitude for sales contact together with growth potential is desired. Engineer would be preferred but not required. This man should develop within a year or two into a sales engineering capacity. In the meantime he will carry out written and telephone contact between customers and field representatives and the factory.

Applications Engineer, Computer Memories

Good technical background and direct experience in development or application of computer memories is required here. Man will carry out customer contact, assisting with design, recommending specifications, assembly and testing techniques.

Development Engineer, Computer Memories

Strong technical background and direct experience in development of computer memories or circuitry closely associated with memory techniques are required.

Assistant Plant Superintendent

To assume full production responsibility for ferrite memory core manufacture, memory core plane and stack assembly and ceramic glass bead production. Man should have solid production management experience and background in ceramic manufacture or electronic assembly.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Klainbard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandotte 2-1235.

Cornell Has Pair Of Loop Contests Slated This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cornell's basketball team will have two chances this week to prove whether it is one of the two hottest clubs in the Ivy League.

If the Big Red, one of Upstate New York's best this season, overcome Harvard Friday and Dartmouth Saturday, and Penn or Princeton can subdue Yale, it will have sole possession of the Ivy League lead. Yale and Cornell now share first place with league records of 4-0.

In addition to the Ivy games, Cornell entertains Springfield Wednesday. The Big Red's overall record is 12-2.

During the weekend, Canisius set a school scoring record in defeating Boston College, 108-80; Saturday night at Buffalo. The victory was Canisius' seventh, all at home, against six losses, all on the road.

Results of other Saturday night games for Upstate teams:

Holy Cross 83, Niagara 80; Stonehill, 54, Siena 41; LeMoyne 61, Iona 58; Buffalo State 76, Gannon 71; Baldwin Wallace 81, Rochester Tech 62; Grace 73, Roberts Wesleyan 71.

Saturday — Plattsburgh State at Buffalo State; St. Lawrence at Rochester; Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Clarkson; Cornell at Dartmouth; Oneonta State at Roberts Wesleyan; Albany State at Potsdam State; St. Bonaventure vs. Providence and Syracuse vs. Canisius in doubleheader at Buffalo; Seton Hall at Niagara; Ithaca at Oswego State; Manhattan at Siena; Bucknell at Colgate; Gannon at LeMoyne; Fairleigh Dickinson at Hartwick; Buffalo at Baldwin - Wallace; Wilkes at Harpur.

League Meeting Spearheads Drive Toward Youth Center

The first concrete steps toward the eventual establishment of a teenage youth center in Woodstock were taken at a meeting of local teenagers and adults last week at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church.

The meeting was sponsored by the League of Women Voters workshop on youth recreation and activities and was headed by Mrs. Sara Mulligan, chairman. The League which has the matter under study did not take any official stand, but merely sponsored the forum.

About 15 teenagers were present and their chief spokesmen were John Gordon, who was an assistant chairman of the meeting; Ed Varney, and Thomas DeWitt

Three specific decisions emanated from the two and a half hour meeting: (1) Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux promised to locate a suitable building where the teenagers could meet; (2) Dr. George R. Sullivan, District Principal of the Onteora Central Schools District, volunteered to serve as adult advisor to the teenage group and (3) the teenagers agreed to form their own organization to operate the youth center with adult assistance.

Need Own Building

Consensus of opinion was that the teenagers would need a headquarters of their own. School buildings and other installations were rejected as unsatisfactory for use as an all-purpose youth center. Long range plans projected the possibility of building a new youth center.

It was agreed that the teenagers would have to form a representative organization with their own leaders as the first step toward coordinated teenage activity in Woodstock township. Teenage problems and aspirations were discussed at great length and the teenagers seemed to be impressed that so many prominent Woodstock citizens were interested in their problems.

A general meeting of all teenagers in the township, some 300, will be held as soon as a suitable headquarters is located. In the meantime, the young people will be giving thought to organizational plans.

Taxpayers Hear Board Members

Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association heard Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux and Councilman William West as guest speakers at its January meeting.

Councilman West, who was elected in November, was welcomed by association president John Melia as a former member. The appearance of Supervisor Molyneaux was unexpected by the committee and various items on the agenda were dropped to give him time to speak and answer questions from the floor. He discussed the eventual uses of the Reynolds House and possible tax increases due to new building on a county level.

West, in discussing the various aspects of local government, pointed up the continuing need for taxpayers groups and the work that such groups can do in all communities. He recognized the efforts in behalf of all township taxpayers. Councilman West also suggested the concentration of Association efforts on important problems so as not to become likened to a vintage car, numerous with unattended rattles.

In summation, he deplored the general lack of attendance by townspeople at the monthly board meetings (average number including the press is six) and urged, with sincerity, that all taxpayers take an active interest in town affairs. One way this can be accomplished is by being present at such meetings whenever possible. It was Councilmen West's opinion that this was the only way in which elected officials could know and respect the wishes of the people.

New Committee

Principal item of association business was the appointing of a legislative committee under the chairmanship of Fred Freitag. This committee will select from the numerous bills pending before the legislature those that have the most important bearing on public expenditures. Final reports of the committee findings will be presented to the membership for discussion and action.

"Because this is the organization's prime reason for existence and because of the tremendous increase in spending at all levels the time has come to voice the opinions of this group," said President John Melia.

Additional committee reports were given by Karl Seiger, the association observer at meetings of the Planning Board and a report on town board activities written by Charles J. Tiano and read by President Melia. Tiano's report indicated that the Town Board had made several illegal designations and appointments at its December meeting.

The Civil Defense and Shelter committee did not report as its chairman, Lawrence G. Casey, was absent because of illness. members were informed that a partial report will be covered in the next issue of the Eagle.

Town Notes

Ladies Auxiliary of Fire Company No. 1, has announced plans for a Valentine dance to be held Saturday, Feb. 10, for Auxiliary members and husbands. Doris Smith is chairman of the event and a program committee has been formed, with Pat Hastie as chairman. First Aid classes are being considered for next spring.

Duncan Hines Rating

The "Auberge des 4 Saison" on Route 42 between Bushnellsville is one of only four restaurants in Ulster County to be recommended in the 1962 edition of the Duncan Hines travel book, "Adventures in Good Eating." The popular restaurant which features Frenchi cuisine is owned and operated by Annie and Dadou Labeille.

Hainer Elected Fire No. 2 Head

Donald Hainer was elected president of Woodstock Fire Company No. 2 at the annual meeting in Wittenberg.

Other officers elected were: Adam Schreiner, vice president; Harley Shultis, secretary; Rod Ramsey, treasurer; Roger Shultis, captain; Dick Shultis, first lieutenant; Eugene Shultis, second lieutenant.

DeWitt Shultis was elected a trustee for three years and Ed-

Snell Now Aiming For World's Mark In Half-Mile Race

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — While his coach jubilantly predicted he could cut the record to an unbelievable 3.48, Peter Snell, the new world mile recordholder, said today he would try to break the world half-mile standard Saturday.

Snell, who trimmed a tenth of a second off Herb Elliott's mile mark with a 3:54.4 clocking in a meet at Cooks Gardens in nearby Wanganui Saturday, said he thinks he can beat the half-mile record of 1:46.8 held by American Tom Courtney.

"I'm going to give it a whirl in a meet in Christchurch Saturday," the 22-year-old surveyor said. "They have a fast track there and I think I can do it."

Until he broke the record, Snell never had been able to get into the sub-4-minute-mile club. In fact until he beat Roger Moens of Belgium in the 800 meters in an Olympic record 1:46.3 at the 1960 Rome games, Snell had not made much of a mark in international competition.

Elliott, who set his record of 3:54.5 on Aug. 6, 1958 in Dublin, said at Cambridge University that he will head for Sweden in July to start serious training for the Empire Games in Perth Australia, later this year.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Bryan Foy has a rugged job—making a film that will please an important movie fan: President John F. Kennedy.

Foy, a veteran who made the first all-talking movie, is producing "PT 109," about the President's wartime heroics. If he seems confident in his chore, it may be because he's also a Democrat—and a Fitzgerald. That's the read name of his famed theatrical family.

No casting has been done yet, but everything else is getting ready. The script is being finished by Richard Breen "Pete Kelly's Blues," "Titanic."

San Diego will reproduce the PT training center at Melville, Conn. Ocean Reef on Key Largo, Fla., will portray the island of Rendova, Kennedy's South Pacific base.

The President was amused that anyone would want to re-create such a miserable place as Rendova, Foy reported.

Getting PT boats was a problem. Only a few still exist, most of them converted to pleasure craft. The Navy was no help—"everyone in the government is bending over backward to give this picture no more help than an ordinary war picture would get, and that's as it should be," said Foy.

Three aircraft rescue craft, which could double for PTs were finally located in Florida.

Shooting on the $2-million film is expected to start between March 1 and 15, pending choice of a star. The President has approval of who will portray him, and Foy said he'll send the White House a script, too.

Extended Forecast Through Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Eastern New York — Cold throughout most of the week, with temperatures averaging 5-10 degrees below normal. Some moderation about Thursday or Friday. No major storms indicated. Snow flurries almost daily, principally over the north and west, and chance of some light snow Thursday or Friday.

Western New York — Temperatures will average 6-10 degrees below normal. Continued cold until a little warmer about Thursday, but colder again during the latter part of the week. Precipitation will average ¼ to ½ inch, melted, as light snow or snow flurries most days of the week.

Temperature normals—Normal temperatures for Upstate New York range from daytime highs of 25-33 to nighttime lows of 5-10 north and 10-18 south.

Killed With Shoe

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Evelyn Sneed, 21, was arrested Sunday night by police in connection with the death of her husband, Eulis, 30, who died of a fractured skull suffered 21 days earlier.

Cold Hits Area

Ulster County experienced one of its coldest nights of the winter. The city engineer's office reported a low of 4 degrees this morning and an 11 degree reading at noon.

Dixie Coast Is Hit by Icy Rain And Foot of Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A winter storm has struck the Dixie coast from North Carolina to Maryland with icy rain and up to a foot of snow. It closed hundreds of schools and left many roads treacherous before swooping out to sea.

The storm, whipped by strong winds, lumbered into North Carolina early Sunday. It swept up the coast through southern Virginia and hopped over to the Maryland Eastern Shore.

Washington Spared

Washington, which trembles at a snow forecast, was spared.

South of the snow belt, rain poured down along the coast as far as Georgia. Flash flooding was reported to have struck the Rocky River at Norwood, N.C.

In Virginia, Richmond — the capital of the Old Dominion—got 8 inches, Blackstone 10 inches. The heaviest fall — 12 inches — was measured at Chatham. Norfolk had four inches and Fredericksburg and points north had no snow at all.

Schools Close

The storm buffetted Southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore with the Pocomoke City area bearing the brunt — six inches. Slight accumulations were reported as far north as Bridgeville, Del.

Thousands of youngsters got a holiday today as hundreds of schools in the snow area were ordered closed.

Says Paperwork Is Big Problem In Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff told a conference of state public aid officials today that efforts to help troubled people "is tangled too frequently in an administrative underbrush of forms and pieces of paper."

Elimination of unnecessary paperwork is first on a list of special problems his department plans to tackle this year, he said.

Ribicoff, in remarks prepared for the opening of the Social Security Administration conference with state administrators of public welfare, outlined the administration's proposed new welfare program and other points "needing special attention in the days ahead."

"There is too much paperwork in government," declared Ribicoff. "It stifles new ideas. It eats up time. It frightens away top-notch workers; it leaves their tasks to the pedantic and unimaginative."

The social welfare worker must deal with people, not percentages, he said. He cannot waste his time with "irrelevant pencil pushing and envelop stuffing."

Thus, said Ribicoff, he has directed the commissioner of Social Security to organize a work group to make a determined effort to simplify and improve all welfare forms and procedures.

Victim of Mishap Is Reported Fair

The condition of Thomas J. Turk, 39, of 39 Ponckhockie Street, injured in a two-car collision on Route 9W in Esopus early Sunday, is reported as fairly good today at Kingston City Hospital.

According to the sheriff's department, a car operated by Turk and heading north, was making a left turn when it was struck by a vehicle operated by Nazarene Manzi, 44, of Millbrook, who was headed south.

Turk was admitted to the hospital suffering back and chest injuries and cuts about the face and head. Deputy Sheriffs Richard H. Drew Jr., Peter Peterson and Cornelius Dumond investigated.

Cubs Welcome 2 New Bobcats

At the Friday night meeting of Cub Pack 32 in the Atonement Lutheran Church hall, two new Bobcats were welcomed into the pack and graduation ceremonies were held for one member who went to Boy Scout Troop 32.

Assistant Cubmaster Charles Hudson conducted the meeting, in the absence of Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello, with the assistance of committee chairman Harold Bauser. Welcomed into the pack were Scott Vanderbeck and Bertram Quick Jr. who were present with their mothers, Mrs. Earl Vanderbeck and Mrs. Bertram Quick. They received bobcat pins.

Arrow points were presented as follows:

Under Wolf, one silver, Warren Hornbeck; Under Bear, one gold and one silver, Kenneth Anders and Mark Ishkanian; one gold, Michael Staudacher; one silver, Mark Lavezzo.

Assistant Cubmaster Hudson received a four year service pin, Tim Hally a three year pin and Mark Roberts and Harry Anders one year pins.

Tim Hally was ceremoniously welcomed into Boy Socut Troop 32 by Scoutmaster Eugene Davis and the troop members with Charles Hudson Jr. presenting the scout neckerchief. Brian Legg and John Mullaney led the troop in the welcoming cheer.

Scoutmaster Davis also presented den chief cords to Dennis MacCallam, Kurt Stade and Russell Hardick who have volunteered their services to Cub Pack 32 den mothers.

The opening ceremonies were conducted by Mrs. Burt Hess' Den 3; the closing was given by Mrs. Gerald Rosenberger's Den 2; Mrs. Bauser's Den 4 had an achievement display and Mrs. Hudson's Den 1 presented a skit in keeping with the theme of the month.

An added feature of the evening was a solo by Russell Hardick, accompanied by Dennis MacCallam on the piano, There Is Nothing Like A Dame, sung to two and half year old Lee Ann Vanderbeck, who was a guest with her parents.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Mullaney, chairman, and the Mmes. Cecil Branson, Daniel Wynne and Hugo Holmquist

Local Resident Heads Masonic Association

The Masters and Wardens Association, Greene-Ulster District, has elected William J. Kiernan Jr., of 102 Elm Street, Saugerties, as president for the year.

Kiernan, Master of Ulster Lodge 193, Free and Accepted Masons of Saugerties, was elected at a regular meeting of the association held January 25 at Catskill Lodge 468.

Other officers elected in the association are David Lent of Highland, senior warden of Adonia Lodge 718, Highland, as vice president; Kenneth W. Haggins of Blue Mountain, Junior warden of Ulster Lodge, as secretary-treasurer.

The next regular meeting of the association will be on Feb. 22 at Ulster Lodge.

TB Testing in Schools Will Be Held Feb. 6-7

Feb. 6 and 7 the Ulster County TB and Health Association will be conducting the Heaf Testing in the Saugerties Public Schools and St. Mary of the Snow School.

The Heaf test is a reliable, painless method of tuberculosis detection and control, and does not involve the use of X-ray. Should a positive reaction to the Heaf test be indicated an X-ray examination will be necessary for the protection of the health of the child and the other children.

The grades being tested are first, second, third, sixth, ungranded and twelve. Public health officials feel students should be tested upon entering school in a grade midway and upon leaving school.

Demos Elect Blundell, Other 1962 Officers

County Democratic Chairman William A. Kelly of Kingston spoke to the group. The next meeting will be held Feb. 22.

Luciano Funeral Is Today

Crowded Church Watched by Police

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Elegantly attired friends, local businessmen, plainclothes police and pretty Neapolitan girls packed the church today for the funeral of Charles (Lucky) Luciano, the Italian emigrant who became a New York vice lord.

Joe (Cock-eyed John) Raimondi, Nick di Marzio and Joe di Giorgio were there. U.S. Narcotics Bureau agents spotted them among friends who, like Luciano, had been deported by the United States to their homeland.

Had to Stay Away

"So Long, Pal" said the inscription on a floral piece from Joe Adonis, former New Jersey gambling king who chose to return to Italy in 1956 rather than serve a term in prison.

Adonis himself could not get to the church for the funeral. Authorities won't let him leave his little home town of Avellino, 25 miles away, without special permission.

Luciano's mahogany casket lay in the Roman Catholic church with six wreaths on it as the local pastor sang a Requiem Mass for him.

Every Fifth an Officer

A U.S. agent said one of every five persons in the church was a plainclothesman, either Italian or American. Three American agents recorded on movie film the faces of everyone who walked in.

Flashbulbs popped steadily during the service, as they had while the mourners were arriving. They didn't seem to bother Luciano's brother, Bartolo, or Bartolo's son, Salvatore.

The two New York Lucianias—Luciano's real family name—paid no attention. But relatives of a 24-year-old Neapolitan girl said to have been a close friend of Luciano slapped one news photographer and tried to grab another's camera.

Luciano's casket was placed in an ornately carved silver-and-black funeral carriage, with huge silver lanterns mounted near the doors. It was drawn by eight coal-black horses.

Regular Salute Given

The cortege moved away slowly under a dreary overcast for the four-mile trip to the English cemetery at Poggioreale.

Policemen at every intersection along the way snapped to attention and saluted the horse-drawn carriage, as they do whenever a funeral party passes.

Luciano's casket was put inside the cemetery chapel. It is to stay there until the Lucianias know whether burial will be in Italy or if authorities will permit them to take the body back to the United States.

JFK to Send 2 Major Messages This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sends two important messages to Congress this week: his new farm proposals and a plan to establish a Cabinet-level department of urban affairs.

In his farm message Tuesday Kennedy is expected to endorse broader control programs with a view to bringing stability to all farm commodities.

Farm legislation usually engenders political controversy and Kennedy's proposals are not expected to be an exception.

More Political Dynamite

Also laden with political dynamite is Kennedy's message on urban affairs, which is expected to go to Capitol Hill Tuesday.

Kennedy is expected to hammer again on the theme that a new federal office is essential to coordinate plans for solving transit, traffic, slum and utility problems of metropolitan areas.

Last week, Republicans and Southern Democrats combined in the House Rules Committee to kill the administration's urban affairs bill. Kennedy promptly announced he would attempt to upset that action by proposing the department in a government reorganization plan.

Kennedy has confirmed that he intends to appoint Robert C. Weaver, a Negro who now heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency, as head of the new department.

Both the House and Senate plan to debate this week a major administration proposal—federal aid for colleges—with chances of passage rated good in each branch.

The Senate version is much broader than the one before the House, so there may be difficulty in adjusting the differences in conference.

Salinger Refers To Soviet Talks As Just Routine

PARIS (AP) — White House press secretary Pierre Salinger met with his Soviet counterpart today but declined to say whether they discussed an exchange of television appearances by President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev.

Asked about his talks with Soviet press chief Mikhail Kharlamov, Salinger said: "They were just routine and informal."

Salinger met with Kharlamov at the Soviet Embassy. They first got together Sunday night at a cocktail party given by Pierre Baracuc, French Foreign Ministry press spokesman.

Salinger said earlier the purpose of the meeting was to discuss questions of communications between the two nations.

Salinger said his main reason for coming to Paris was to meet with Murrow and U.S. Embassy public affairs officers from Paris, Bonn and London.

Murrow also declined to discuss the talks with the Soviet press chief. He said he has just returned from an inspection tour of West Africa and decided to meet with the public affairs officers on the way back to the United States.

Thursday Seems Day For Glenn

He'll Be Back Is Word to Preacher

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Project Mercury officals say the next attempt to rocket astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. three times around the world will come no earlier than Thursday.

Thus, today may have dawned T minus 73 hours for the Marine lieutenant colonel who sat more than five hours in the waiting spacecraft Saturday before weather forced a postponement.

Keeps Busy

Otherwise Glenn was busy with preparations for his trip. Before church he attended an evaluation session. In the afternoon he donned his space suit and went through an hour-long practice mission in the space trainer.

Rocket and spacecraft crews worked on the Atlas booster rocket and the Friendship 7 atop it. They also went through a dress rehearsal of the last critical hours of the launch-day countdown. All systems were reported checking out well.

The critical problem at this stage again seemed to be the weather. Will clouds or winds over this missile base prevent the Atlas from being launched by limiting the visibility or making the few unsteady moments of the rocket's liftoff dangerous?

Will heavy seas, primarily in the Atlantic Ocean, put in doubt a safe recovery of Glenn and his capsule after the earth has been orbited?

Area Is Clouded

On Saturday, a concentrated bank of clouds, nearly 1,000 feet thick, spread over central Florida. The countdown was halted with only 20 minutes to go. Later in the afternoon the skies cleared.

In Arlington, Va., the astronaut's family went about Sunday as usual, though Mrs. Glenn admitted the waiting was making it difficult to keep family life normal.

The pretty brunette took her two teen-age children to Sunday school in the family station wagon and joined them later for church.

The annual March of Dimes variety show will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

A variety of acts by local and Broadway talent will be featured. Peg Leg Bates, well-known television and nightclub performer, will take part as well as direct the show. Music will be by Harry Maisenhelder's Orchestra.

13 Die in Traffic And 4 in Fires On Past Weekend

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A two-car collision and a fire in which three children died helped swell the weekend accident death toll in New York State.

Traffic accidents once again claimed the most lives, 13. Fires killed four persons.

A husband and wife and another woman died in the two-car crash Sunday near Sidney, Delaware County. They had been returning to their homes in Binghamton from a square dance. It was snowing at the time.

The fire Sunday destroyed a farm house near Brushton, in Northern New York, killing Lloyd Jock Jr., 5, and his brother and sister, Larry, 3, and Candy, 2.

Their father, their pregnant mother and two other men fled in nightclothing into temperature 8 degrees below zero.

Other accidental deaths, by community, between 6 p.m. Friday and last midnight:

Rochester—Daniel Mykins, 19, Rochester, rifle discharged Saturday.

Nyack—James E. Mitchell, 37, Valley Cottage, two-ear crash Saturday night, died Sunday.

Two P'keepsie Stores Damaged By Flames Today

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Firemen battled a fire in two downtown stores today in temperatures that dipped below 10 degrees.

The fire spread from the basement of the Up-To-Date Fashion Shop into the adjoining J.J. Newberry Store.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

There was no estimate of damage.

ENDING AN ERA—Street car moves along historic Pennsylvania Avenue near the Capitol on final day of trolley service in Washington, D. C., Jan. 27. January 28 buses started to serve all the city's public transit routes, ending an era that began with horse-drawn vehicles 100 years ago. (AP Wirephoto).

Efforts on CR Seem Destined for Block

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's efforts to get congressional action on civil rights legislation appear headed toward the usual roadblock—a Southern Democratic filibuster in the Senate.

There are no current signs that Democrats and Republicans who support the administration bill can muster the strength to kill a filibuster.

How It Looks

In the months that lie between now and next November's congressional elections, Kennedy stands to gain politically by having asked for action. But on some hot summer day, if not before, there will be a count of noses on the issue of limiting debate.

Under the Senate's rules, two-thirds of those voting would have to approve in order to invoke debate-limiting cloture and kill a filibuster. If history repeats, a solid phalanx of Dixie Democrats —aided by a handful of Northern party members and some Republicans—will prevent any action.

Thus, in the end, the Republicans will be able to say they provided a majority for action on civil rights but Democrats balked.

Begins Today

A great deal of political marching forth and back will proceed this showdown. It begins today with the issue of whether an administration bill should be sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a proponent of civil rights legislation, has said Mansfield's bill

McCormack's Kin To Seek Senate Seat Next Fall

BOSTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey has bumped head on into a touchy political rivalry between the younger brother of President Kennedy and House Speaker John W. McCormack's nephew.

Bailey walked into it when he began a question and answer session at Saturday night's meeting of the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee.

Came a question from Committeeman Edward J. McCormack, whose son, Edward Jr., the Massachusetts attorney general, is expected to run for the U.S. Senate seat vacated a year ago by President Kennedy. The President's brother, Edward M., is expected to be another candidate, although neither one has made any announcement yet.

Questions Bailey

The question to Bailey from the senior McCormack was this:

"Do you think the chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic Committee should take sides or be neutral in the Democratic Senate primary?"

"That's a question I think the chairman would have to decide for himself," said Bailey, "and I'm sure Mr. Lynch (John M. Lynch, elected chairman by pro-

Argentina And Chile Shift View

Speculates 17-18 Votes Back U.S.

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The foreign ministers of the American states agreed in principle today to "suspend" Fidel Castro's Cuban regime from hemisphere family councils.

A U.S. delegation source disclosed the breakthrough on this toughest issue of the conference, which has prolonged its deliberations here beyond the scheduled closing today. It came when Argentina and Chile — members of the so-called soft seven bloc led by Brazil and Mexico—accepted the majority view on the suspension procedure.

May Get 18 Votes

The U.S. informant speculated that the United States would get 17 to 18 of the 20 available votes for a policy statement that the Castro regime is unfit to sit in hemisphere councils so long as it embraces the Communist philosophy. The Council of the Organization of American States will be instructed by this conference to decide "without delay" just how Cuba can be suspended.

Reach General Accord

Agreeing not to disagree, the Western Hemisphere foreign ministers reached a general accord that there should be a series of at least six resolutions embodied in a final declaration so that those who wanted to vote against certain aspects could do so.

Drafting of the declaration is expected to be completed today, with a vote Tuesday to wind the conference up by Tuesday night.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk appeared to have achieved limited success to this extent:

Most, if not all, of the 19 Latin-American republics judging Cuba agree the Havana regime should be declared incompatible with the American system. Most are agreed the government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro should be suspended or expelled from OAS agencies. Most are agreed there should be no arms trade betwen their countries and Cuba. They hold Castro's representatives should not sit on the Inter-American Defense Board and they feel a vigilance committee should be created to keep watch against subversion.

Opinions Differ

Mothers' March Slated Tuesday

Mothers of the Kingston area will be on the march Tuesday night for the New March of Dimes.

Mrs. Lincoln Crosby, Mothers' March city chairman, said the sounding of the fire alarm horns will signal the start of the march at 7 p. m., Tuesday.

"Please turn on your porch lights to welcome these neighbors and remember you will be giving to help prevent arthritis, the great crippler, and tragic birth defects, targets for the 1962 New March of Dimes", she said. "Your dimes helped develop the vaccines against polio. Your dimes will do it again," Mrs. Crosby stressed.

Action Is Due Tonight On 2 Major Programs

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature will act tonight on two of Gov. Rockefeller's major program bills as he finished work on the 1962-63 state budget of $2.6 billion.

The governor's $54-million deficiency budget and his proposal for increasing workmen's compensation benefits by $5 weekly, to $55, are considered assured of final legislative passage in the Senate and Assembly, respectively.

The budget, for the fiscal year beginning April 1, will be submitted to the Legislature Wednesday, along with the traditional message explaining the state's financial condition.

It has been apparent for some time that appropriations will rise at least $200 million over the present $2.4-billion budget. Most of the increase will be spent for education.

The budget will be the fourth submitted by Rockefeller and the last during his present term of office. He will seek re-election in November.

The governor has said that he will recommend neither tax relief nor tax increases in his new spending program.

In other developments:

Deficiency Budget—The budget is expected to draw Democratic opposition in the Senate, as it did in the Assembly, but probably will win approval from the Senate's Republican majority. The Democrats complain that a $20-million item to purchase office-building sites in downtown Albany constitutes a new program that should be put in the new, main budget. Republicans have been unhappy about spending the money in heavily-Democratic Albany but have agreed to their leaders' wishes.

Workmen's Compensation — The governor's proposal to increase the maximum weekly benefits apparently was designed to win him votes from organized labor this year. Democrats contend the $5 increase the governor requested is too small. But the measure passed the Senate unanimously last week.

Medical Care — The Republican governor and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, a Democrat and possible opponent for Rockefeller in the forthcoming election, exchanged sharp statements over the weekend. Wagner argued the state's program of medical care for the aged was inadequate. The governor accusing Wagner of playing politics, said New York City had saved $20 million through higher state and federal aid for the program.

Newburgh — The State Social Welfare Department said it would investigate cases in which applicants for aid have been denied help by the city of Newburgh, the center of a nationwide controversy because of its efforts to cut its relief rolls through steps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert W. Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co., said today government regulation of networks would be unnecesssary, unwise and unworkable.

"We cannot accept the premise that the public interest demands the regulation of networks, and that all that remains is to decide just how they should be regulated," said Sarnoff in testimony for the opening of the second week of hearings by the Federal Communications Commission.

The hearings are designed to measure the extent networks control U.S. television fare and to determine what type of regulation may be necessary.

Columbia Broadcasting System officials testified last week. American Broadcasting Co. executives will appear next week after NBC completes its testimony.

Sarnoff said network television has been shaped largely by its three principal characteristics—"as an advertiser-supported service, an intensely competitive enterprise, and the most broadly based mass medium in history."

It was no accident that created the broadcasting system on its present economic basis, he said. "For by its very structure, a commercially based system, dependent for success on public favor and spurred by economic competition, would have to be continuously responsive to the tastes and desires of our national public," Sarnoff said.

"This was to be its primary regulating force, rather than the personal tastes and desires of private managements, subsidizers or government officials."

The television dial, he said, is America's most frequently used voting machine.

"Every day, millions of viewers are making scores of millions of choices among the programs offered to them, accepting some and rejecting others. Broadcast schedules are continously changed in accordance with the tally of votes the viewers have cast."

TELEPHONE GROUPS HONOR MAYOR SCHWENK—Some 150 employes of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the New York Telephone Co. paid tribute to Mayor John J. Schwenk, who recently retired as a Bell System employe after 36 years of service. Among those attending the retirement dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday night (l-r rear) were: Eugene McNeely, AT & T Co. president; Glen Watts, assistant to the president of the Communications Workers of America; Mayor Schwenk, and John Vines, local central office A T & T chief. Schwenk Is Lauded By Phone President

Mayor John J. Schwenk, honored in retirement as an employe of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. after 36 years of service, heard Eugene McNeely, president of A T & T, praise him for his long interest in civic affairs, and he received praise from other company officials and employes at the dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday night.

This, said McNeely, "is the first time I have had the opportunity to attend a retirement party for a man who is retiring early to become mayor of a large city." That, he felt, "Didn't just happen, I am sure, because, we have been in this community as part-time residents (he and family) for nine years," during which, he said, "I never met Mr. Schwenk, but I have heard repeatedly from my friends about what a great job he has done in civic activities."

Several others paid tribute to the mayor's years of service including Girard Terry, Albany A T & T plant superintendent; John Vines, central office chief at the Kingston A T & T office where Schwenk has been employed; William Sill, chairman of the Life Members Club, Kingston Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America, who is also retired; Glen Watts, assistant to the president of The Communications Workers of America and Sidney Dunston, vice-president of the Albany Local CWA.

Mayor Schwenk said he was honored by the presence of the A T & T president and his wife along with the attendance of the assistant to the president of CWA.

Southern U Has Resumed Classes Despite Threats

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Southern University, the nation's largest state school for Negroes, reopened today with hundreds of students heading for classes despite earlier threats of classroom boycotts.

Some students said they thought the call by a student leader for the boycott would fall through.

The signers said they were opposed to segregation and discrimination. They said they regretted the action taken against demonstrating students.

"We affirm the sacred right of every American citizen to hold and express opinions on public issues," they said.

Southern President Felton Clark ordered the university closed 10 days ago following student demonstrations against racial segregation. When the school reopened for registration it turned down 45 students.

'Corpse' Reported In Fair Condition

A relative said a doctor pronounced the dentist dead at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Two men came from a funeral home to take the body. As they wheeled Streem into the preparations room at the funeral home, Larry Miller shouted: "My God, he's breathing!" That was at 12:15 p.m.

JFK Conference

The session will not be carried live by television or radio but may be taped or filmed for later use.

Schwenk Lauded

"I am overwhelmed," said Schwenk, "by the expression of warmth which you have shown me here tonight. Although this is one of the happy moments in my life, it also has some elements of sadness with it. For a person to leave those with whom he has worked in close cooperation for many years is quite difficult. I have shared some wonderful memories with you."

They were, he said, "Memories of accomplishments, of which we are all proud, and of the problems we were able to solve, and the day-by-day working together in harmony. These memories are not easily forgotten, and I have no intention of letting them vanish."

"To take on new duties and responsibilities," he said, "will present problems, but I look forward to it with a great deal of enthusiam. There is one thing I would like to say at a time like this:

Enjoyed the Years

"As I look back over the years in which I have been with the telephone company, I feel grateful. My associations with the company have provided me with work that I have found very enjoyable, and with the help of my wife, I was able to build and pay for my own home, raise and educate my children, and also to make some worthwhile contributions to my community. I consider that these are worth while in life, and it is for that reason I am happy to have been an employe of the American Telephone Company.

"I also want to extend to you my sincere gratitude for the honors you have shown me tonight, for the gifts you have presented to me, and for the pleasures of having been associated with you over these many years. Thank you."

Real Tribute, He Says

Those in the Bell System, said the A T & T president, are concerned with devoting time to civic affairs, because "as citizens we have a duty," but he thought that the way it has turned out in Kingston was "a wonderful tribute."

"It was no surprise to me," he said, "when I learned he (Schwenk) had become Mayor of Kingston. All over the country the telephone people are fine people. I have wondered about this and asked why. I think it is primarily because we are dedicated to service. And you wives and ladies in the telephone business probably give up more in this dedication to service than we do. And that applies all up and down the line."

Mrs. Schwenk, he felt, deserved as much or perhaps more credit for the success of her husband, but, he said "it is always a team job." It was pleasure, he said, to live in a community where "a telephone employe" is a mayor.

Similar praise came from Girard Terry, Albany district plant superintendent, who presented a gift, Glen Watts, assistant to the CWA president, who was impressed with Schwenk's past civic record, and said the CWA encourages interest in public office.

John Vines, as the local central office chief, in introducing Eugene McNeeley, as president of A T & T emphasized that he "is a resident of Stone Ridge, and of Schwenk, he said that although "we now lose you as an employe of the Bell System, we are honored to give you to the people of the City of Kingston."

Receives Gifts

William Sill, as president of the Life Members Club, Telephone Pioneers of America, notified Mayor Schwenk, of his membership with words of welcome, and Sidney Dunston, vice-president of Albany Local 1151, CWA, presented a "small token" from the local "for your past years of service to the union cause." Thomas Nilsen, of the Kingston postal system, presented a gift and wished him luck as mayor.

Stanley Petro, of the local office also presented a gift, and Miss Carolyn Newkirk, of the A. T. & T., Cooperstown, in presenting a gift to Mrs. Schwenk, said it was "to one, who unassumingly and effectively has contributed so much to the popularity and success of her husband in the telephone company, and in the community."

In praising Schwenk for his years of telephone work, Albany District Plant Superintendent Terry said that he had been "one of the most reliable communications men we have had anywhere in upstate New York."

On the committee making arrangements for the dinner were Stanley Petro, James Van Buren and William Whitney.

McCormack's Kin

Kennedy forces in 1956) will make the right decision."

"Well, we want him to keep his hands off," stormed McCormack. "Let the Kennedys and the McCormacks fight it out in the convention and in the primary, and let Pat Lynch mind his own business."

McCormack Will Run

To leave no doubt where he stands, the elder McCormack added: "I'm determined that Eddie will go to the Senate. He's earned it. He's come up through the ranks and if we are going to talk about party loyalty, Eddie should get the nomination."

The Senate seat now is held by Benjamin A. Smith II, a Harvard classmate of the President who was appointed by the then Gov. Foster Furcolo. Smith hasn't talked about his political ambitions.

The Republicans have two announced candidates—George Cabot Lodge, an assistant secretary of labor in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, and Rep. Laurence Curtis. Lodge is the son of former United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Curtis' present congressional district is being wiped out in redistricting.

Agree on Ousting

get all countries—even Mexico, which voted with Cuba against holding this conference—to proclaim collectively that communism is bad for the hemisphere and that Castroism is incompatible with the Inter-American system if it remains in the embrace of the Soviet bloc.

Most agree in principle that the Castro regime does not belong in OAS agencies. The big stumbling block is how to get Cuba out.

The bloc of seven go-slow nations led by Brazil and Mexico wanted to toss the issue to the OAS Council in Washington, where the matter would come under the OAS charter and not the Rio de Janeiro treaty for inter-American defense.

Case of Needed Machinery

There is no machinery under the OAS charter, by which the council is bound, to oust any member from its agencies. There is machinery under the Rio treaty.

Since a mass diplomatic break with Cuba was ruled out at the beginning of this conference, little punitive action is envisioned under the six-part declaration. An economic break is made entirely voluntary. Nations which have broken diplomatic relations with Cuba have no trade with the Castro regime except in nonstrategic items.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A man was killed Saturday as he and his wife struggled for a gun, and the woman was charged with first-degree manslaughter.

Funeral Services Set Tuesday for Rondout Teacher

The funeral of William Avery Thurston, 48, of West Shokan, ninth grade English teacher at Rondout Valley Central School, killed Saturday morning in a motor vehicle accident on Route 28 in the Town of Ulster, will be held Tuesday at the Bennett-Brown Funeral Home, Delaware, Ohio.

Death, according to Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston, was accidental, due to a ruptured heart caused by fractured ribs and a fractured sternum. The body was shipped to Ohio Sunday for funeral and burial. Thurston's father, George N. Thurston resides in Ashley, Ohio, and burial will be in that community in Ashley Union Cemetery.

Valley School Is Given Honors in Science Contest

The Tri Valley Central School at Grahamsville has been listed as an honor school in the twenty-first annual Science Talent Search conducted by the Science Clubs of America. The school officials have been notified of the designation by Dr. Watson Davis, director of Science Clubs of America.

The honor was bestowed by virtue of the placement of senior Ira Rubenzahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rubenzahl of Neversink, in the top 10 per cent of the 3,560 students in the nation who entered this highly competitive science contest. Of the 356 finalists, 40 of the students will be selected for one of the four-year Westinghouse College scholarships. These scholarships have a total value of $34,250.

Ira, also active in sports and other extracurricular activities at Tri Valley Central School, presented as his science project in the contest his experiments and findings as to the effect of light on trichoderma. During the preceding summer, he conducted experiments on plant enzymes at Cornell University in a special program for outstanding high school students in New York state. He hopes to become a biochemist and plans to enter either Princeton University or Swarthmore College for his studies, next fall.

He is also a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition, and is eligible for one of the 159 National Honor Society scholarships or awards.

Efforts on CR

should go to the Rules Committee which handles election legislation. Javits said he might try to force this action today by a vote.

Sponsors know very well they will never get the bill out of Eastland's committee.

Mansfield is resigned to this, but he said he hopes to be able to obtain some hearings on the proposal before he moves to offer it as a rider to some other legislation.

Such a move—in which Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois could be expected to join—would have the effect of bypassing the committee. But it would bump immediately into a Southern filibuster.

State Teachers Name President

Piddock, of Williamson Central School, was elected Saturday to succeed Dr. Emery Will of the State University College at Oneonta.

Other officers named during the annual winter meeting included Glen Hall of Carthage, second vice president; Miss Ann Muehleck of Colonie Central High School, near Albany, secretary; and Mrs. Marion McIntosh of Madrid - Waddington Central School, Madrid, treasurer.

Moon Shot That Missed Is To Spend Eternity Flying

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ranger 3, the moon shot that missed its target by nearly 23,000 miles, is doomed to spend the rest of eternity in futile flight—an accidental satellite of the sun.

Of its four objectives, the $7-million space craft apparently accomplished only one.

The biggest disappointment was that it missed the moon by 22,862 miles. This happened because it was hurled into its trajectory at excessive speed after it was launched Friday from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

That failure brought on others. For one thing, the 727-pound space craft was unable to bounce radar signals off the moon. And, since it did not land its capsule on the moon, it was unable to bring its seismomoter into play and measure moonquakes.

It also failed to get close-up pictures of the moon. The long-range shots it got as it sped past apparently will be of little value, if any.

The one thing Ranger 3 did was collect gamma radiation data. These data already are being analyzed.

Ranger 3 raced by the moon and into oblivion Sunday afternoon, beginning to tumble as it went into solar orbit. Only one of its transmitters was working. During periods when that transmitter's antenna was pointed toward earth, scientists were able to pick up the signal and chart Ranger's progress.

An official of the Jet Propulsion Labratory, operated here for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Ranger 3 will remain in orbit "for the duration of the solar system's life."

The television cameras aboard Ranger 3 were supposed to operate for 40 minutes, as the space craft descended slowly toward the moon in its final maneuver. Had the operation gone smoothly, the pictures would have shown the moon in detail never before achieved.

When the camera was turned on Sunday as Ranger 3 sped by the moon, the space craft failed to keep its antenna pointed toward earth. The signal received at Goldstone tracking station in the California desert was weaker than it should have been and was masked by noise.

Scientists said they would try to unmask the signal and evaluate it. A jet propulsion laboratory spokesman said this may take several weeks. He added: "There is little hope that it will produce any beneficial results."

Local Death Record

Mrs. Elizabeth Craft

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Craft of Quarryville who died Jan. 25 were held Saturday 2 p. m. at the Hartley & Lamouree Funeral Home, Main and Second Streets, Saugerties, with the Rev. Integration Is Quiet at School

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — School integration came quietly to Lynchburg today.

At 8:53 a.m. a sedan pulled to the snowbanked curve before the colonnaded entrance of E. C. Glass High School, and two Negro teen-agers got out.

One was a tall, slender youth—Owen C. Cardwell Jr. The other was a neat, dark-eyed girl in a red carcoat—Linda D. Woodruff. Both are 14 years old and well aware that they are the first Negroes to attend a white school in this city of 55,000 persons.

Judge Thomas J. Michie of Charlottesville ordered the Lynchburg School Board last Nov. 15 to admit the two pupils to the white high school.

Two Men Killed In Street Brawl

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men stabbed each other to death with the same knife Sunday.

Police said Caesar Zambrana, 33, stabbed Carlos Irrizary, 26, who seized the blade and turned it on his assailant.

Vehicle Recovered

A station wagon stolen from its parking place at the home of John A. Kovacs of Esopus early last Thursday morning was found Sunday abandoned at Greenkill Park. The sheriff's office reported that the vehicle was discovered by Jerald Bush of Route 3, Kingston, while he was hunting in the area. The vehicle was undamaged, according to Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone, who investigated.

Hub Caps Stolen

Police received two reports Sunday of the theft of hub caps. One at 11:41 a. m. said four had been taken from the car of Lawrence Godgry, Box 190-A, High Falls, while it was parked on Crown Street, and the other at 2:34 p. m. said four were taken Saturday from the car of William Weaver, of 43 Sterling Street, while it was parked on Cornell Street.

Fire Damages Ceiling

Sophomore Found Shot to Death in Mother's Vehicle

According to state police, Robinson Timrud, 19, had been discharged Saturday from a Hartford, Conn. Hospital where he had been undergoing psychiatric treatment for a suicide attempt at Harvard University on Thursday, Jan. 18 by an overdose of sleeping pills, police said. Timrud had been treated at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston and later transferred to the Hartford hospital.

He went to the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Langton, with whom he lived at 38 Tom-Lin Road, Newington, Conn. and borrowed her automobile, driving to the home of his father, Dr. David H. Timrud in Zena. Dr. and Mrs. Timrud said they last saw David about midnight. He was playing records in the living room when they retired. Upon finding all lights on Sunday morning, the doctor investigated and discovered his son dead in the automobile in the yard.

A verdict of suicide by massive hemorraghe of the brain incurred by a bullet was issued by Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston.

Investigators Frank Steinkamp and Joseph Franke who investigated, said the rifle was the property of the dead youth's brother, Eric, who is now touring in Spain.

Held as Reckless After Porch Hit

Melvin R. Baker, 18, of 31 Oak Street, was charged with reckless driving after the car he drove allegedly struck a porch and front corner of the Theodore Letus house, 159 Wilbur Avenue, early Sunday.

Officers John Crespino and Sheldon O'Rourke, who investigated, said the car was headed north on Wilbur Avenue when the driver "lost control" and it struck the house at the corner of South Wall Street and Wilbur Avenue.

Baker is due for city court hearing Tuesday night.

Dog License Deadline

City Clerk Walter S. Foster today issued notice that Feb. 10 is the deadline for obtaining 1962 dog licenses without penalty. If not paid by that date delinquent dog owners are subject to payment of fines along with court costs.

Princess Margaret Severely Criticized by Daily Mirror

LONDON (AP)—The womanly whims of Princess Margaret—once the darling of the nation—today came in for some of the frankest criticism she has ever had to face.

The Daily Mirror called her occasionally perverse and petulant and said her future was a problem.

It was the latest, and the toughest, round in a bout of scattered sniping at the princess whose actions lately seem to have disenchanted some people.

There was disapproving headshaking when she and her husband, Lord Snowdon, took off from London's icy winter a few weeks ago for the Caribbean sun, leaving their two-month-old son David behind.

Then a businessman publicly complained that the royal party had hogged all the first-class seats in the plane taking Margaret and her husband to Antigua.

While they were away a row broke out over the cost of giving a $230,000 facelift to their new home at Kensington Palace.

What annoyed some people was that the government was prepared to spend the money on a couple well heeled anyway while other folks were homeless and the government was banning wage rises.

When they flew off to the Caribbean sun, said the Mirror, "eyebrows were raised among the public, for 1961 was not exactly an exhausting year for either of them."

Then it added: "But the princess is a lady with a mind of her own. Charming, but occasionally perverse. Those who can influence her can be counted on one finger, for perversity means "disposed to go contrary to what is reasonable or required."

The Antigua vacation was a refresher for Snowdon before he starts his job as artistic adviser with the Sunday Times—cause of more public discontent.

But the Mirror declared it was all in favor of Snowdon taking a worthwhile job instead of "walking the regulation number of paces behind his wife or sister-in-law (Queen Elizabeth) on state occasions."

Said the Mirror: "If anybody is worried about Tony joining the Sunday Times, the whole business can be balanced by Princess Margaret joining the Mirror as women's editor, though this offer cannot remain open indefinitely."

Then it added gravely: "The problem is not the future of the photographer, but the future of the princess.

"Her critics may be too severe in saying that she performs the minimum of work at the maximum level of public expenditure, but her petulant decisions and personal insistencies are bound to raise the question sooner or later whether she should retire into private life."

Believe B47 Wreckage Is Buried in Snow

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Most of the wreckage of a B47 jet bomber that crashed in the Adirondacks Jan. 16 is believed buried beneath 10 to 18 feet of snow, an Air Force spokesman says.

The bomber, carrying a crew of four, crashed near the top of 4,585-foot Wright Peak. The fliers are presumed to have died.

About 25 men climbed the mountain in bitter cold Sunday but found nothing.

Planet Grouping Watched Closely By Astronomers

NEW YORK (AP)—If you believe in astrology, don't make any plans for next Monday. There may not be a next Monday.

Even if there is a next Monday, the astrologers say, it won't be much fun. Storms, tidal waves, earthquakes, the sinking of continents, financial panic and the outbreak of World War III are liable to make the day hectic.

All these dire predictions, and more, are being made by astrologers the world over who expect the advent of catastrophe some time Sunday. They base their prophesies on an inauspicious combination of the planets in the constellation of Capricorn.

Astronomers — serious students of the heavenly bodies — agree that the five visible planets of Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn will be grouped along with the sun and the moon around the constellations of Capricorn and Aquarius. Beyond this point, the astronomers and the astrologers go separate ways.

"Nonsense" is the way James S. Pickering, assistant astronomer of the Hayden Planetarium in New York, describes the prophecies of doom. "It's the same kind of gobbledegook astrologers have been handing out for centuries."

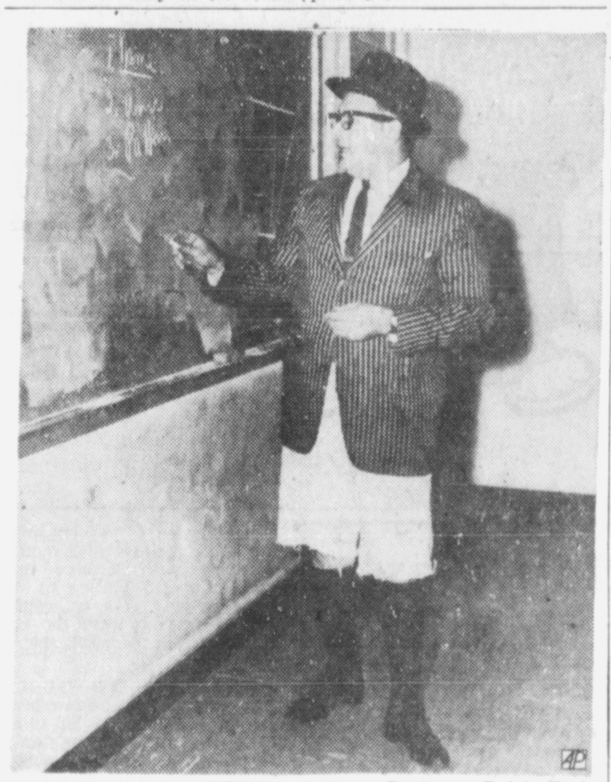

Astrologers—who try to tell the future by the movements of the planets—don't see it that way. They are preparing for the worst.

In India, millions of Hindus and Moslems are fervently praying to ward off the end of the world. Many believers have fled their homes in Calcutta, Bombay, Madras and New Delhi and are seeking refuge in the holy city of Benares on the banks of the sacred Ganges.

In Nepal, hundreds have taken to the hills to await an expected earthquake. Many Easterners have postponed marriages and betrothals until the danger period passes.

Nor is the panic confined to the Orient. In this country, 22 Californians, members of Understanding Inc., have taken refuge in the Arizona mountain town of Cleator. They believe Cleator will escape the impending destruction.

Astronomers, who pooh-pooh the fears of the astrologers, note that a close grouping of the five visible planets takes place about once every 100 years.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If your symptoms indicate that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. This is all the more remarkable in light of the fact that the great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are 18 scalp disorders that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to act.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them information to help them analyze your problem. This information should include how long your hair has been thinning, and whether or not you now have or ever have had any of the following conditions: Do you have dandruff? is it dry or oily? whether your scalp erupts in pimples or other irritations, does your forehead become oily or greasy? does your scalp itch and how often? and any other information you feel might be helpful. All letters will be answered promptly. Send the above information, and your name and address to Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Box 66001, Houston 6, Texas.—Adv.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 29, 1962

A VOLUNTARY TASK

It is worth noting that President Kennedy's advisory council on business ethics and the head of the New York Stock Exchange have independently arrived at much the same view on how to impose ethical standards on business. In both cases, the voluntary exercise of responsibility is championed.

The President's advisory group noted that any code of conduct aimed at all business would have to be too generalized to touch individual firms very closely. It called, instead, for "soul-searching discussions in which company policy makers and managers participate." The resultant code of ethics, said the council in its report, must "deal concretely" with actual company problems and "must contain adequate internal devices for enforcement."

Now comes Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, declaring in a speech to member firms that securities markets can best be policed through "tough self-regulation." The likelihood that Funston's remarks were occasioned by the troubles of the rival American Stock Exchange does not make his point any less trenchant. When he says that his exchange is "aggressively seeking out" abuses of regulations and moving decisively to correct them, one can only applaud.

The applause will naturally be limited by the extent to which these brave words are carried out. The same limitation applies to the establishment of codes of ethics by individual firms, as the advisory council recommends. The proof of this pudding, as of others, is in the eating. Whether in securities exchanges or in individual businesses, the value of codes of conduct is determined by the efficacy of self-policing. When the policing is weak, the government has both right and obligation to intervene in the public interest.

There's a move afoot to "normalize" relations among the four powers in Berlin. This can be good or bad, depending on who says what is "normal."

SCANT COMFORT

Here we are in a country where women outnumber men, where they bulk larger and larger every year in the labor force, where one of them has just broken into that exclusive club, the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

So, increasingly, men have to find their consolation in small ways. Perhaps there's a little in the report that a Virginia traffic court judge has just consigned a woman driver to the back seat for the next six months.

The judge, noting her involvement in two accidents in half a year, said her husband should handle the wheel for a while.

Women, however, are endlessly resourceful. The late comedian W. C. Fields expressed the problem. Asked in a skit if his wife drove, he replied: "Yes—but I steer."

THOSE LONGER DAYS

Though it is true that the deepest cold of winter may yet afflict us, there is a ray of sunshine. Quite literally. The days are noticeably longer than they were at the beginning of the year. Those hardy souls who rise early have been able to observe that dawn cracks a bit sooner every morning.

Happily, one need not see the crack of dawn to note the extension of the day. Indeed, the best time to perceive this lenghening is at the far end, toward sunset. The man who started home from work in darkness only a month ago may now have waning sunshine to light his way home. Depending on where one lives, sunset at the end of January comes from 25 to 37 minutes later than on the first day of the month.

These tidings, admittedly, are not enough to warrant gamboling on the meadows. Spring is not precisely just around the corner. But things are moving in the right direction.

'These Days'

A STARTLING DEFENSE

It is difficult to understand President Kennedy's defense of William Arthur Wieland at his press conference last Wednesday. It is more difficult to understand why the Eastland Committee does not make public the vast amount of unfavorable material it has in its possession on the subject of Wieland's activities. This Congressional Committee has held long hearings concerning Wieland and Castro in Executive Session. It is the duty and obligation of the Committee to make its data available to Congress and the public. Had such data been disclosed, the controversy between th President and Mrs. McClendon at the Wednesday Press Conference could not have taken place.

The question that Mrs. McClendon raised is whether two security risks are actually employed by the State Department. The argument hinged over the term, "security risks." Public opinion has long decided that William Arthur Wieland is a security risk. The testimony of Ambassadors Arthur Gardner and Earl E. T. Smith clearly substantiate this.

On September 19, 1960, I wrote an article in which I asked: Who in the United States helped Castro take Cuba? On the following day, I continued the subject. This was not the earliest discussion of Wieland's role in Cuba in this column. Smith had appeared before the Eastland Committee and about this I wrote:

"Smith's Testimony established the point beyond question that it was the United States through the State Department that brought Castro to power. Time after time, he was questioned with regard to that and always it was clear that Assistant Secretary of State Roy Rubottom and William A. Wieland, the deskman in charge of Cuba, preferred Castro.

"Regarding Castro, Ambassador Smith testified:

"'Castro was a revolutionary and a terrorist.

"'From the time that he was a university student, he was a guntoter. I was informed by a diplomat that he had killed one man and two priests in Bogota during the uprising in 1948.'"

On December 21, 1960, I began telling the story of William Arthur Montenegro which was a pseudonym for Wieland. I wrote:

"William Arthur Montenegro under that name and under another name wrote for the 'Havana Post' from 1933 to 1937. That is a good place to start if anyone needs a tip. There are articles in that newspaper which were contributed by such a person.

"The State Department has a technique for covering up and for evading scandals. When a State Department official goes wrong or is caught with bloody hands, the trick is to send him to other parts of the world, far from news centers until those who are interested forget about him, get interested in something else, or die. Then the career official who went awry may return to Washington."

There is no need to go further in this material. It has been available to the State Department since about 1959. Despite that, Wieland was promoted from a Foreign Officer 2 to a Foreign Officer 1. This promotion has been embarrassing to the State Department which is not accustomed to seeing Foreign Officers 1 walking about the lobbies of the State Department doing nothing.

The plan then was to send Wieland to Zurich as a Consular Officer. This the President undoubtedly stopped because Wieland never went to Zurich. He has been appointed to a management reorganization team which was an improper appointment because this involved in effect an investigation of himself.

The Wieland situation is now out in the open. The Eastland Committee has all the data on Wieland and why it has not printed the hearings and made them public, I do not know. But there can be no doubt but that the evidence, if brought before a court, would be very embarrassing to all parties. At least three former Ambassadors would have to testify against Wieland or periure themselves because they have already testified before the Congressional Committee.

It is unfortunate that the President permitted himself to lose his temper over this issue. Either the Wieland testimony before the Eastland Committee should be made public or the matter should be brought into a court. I was among the first to write about Wieland's activities in Cuba.

President Kennedy cannot bear the burden of all the mistakes made by all public officials during the past 30 years. It is too great a task for any man.

Save This Check List Of—and for—Baby Sitters

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Once again we are indebted to the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics for some very sound advice. This time about instructions for baby sitters:

With some additions of my own, here is a set of recommendations:

Don't just take any baby sitter. If you can't get someone who is known personally to you as a thoroughly reliable person, don'e entrust the care of your most precious possessions to a stranger until you've checked on the applicant's personal qualifications.

Before the sitter arrives, write out exact directions for the care of the children. What they're to eat and drink. When they're to go to bed. What TV programs they may see. Whether they're permitted to have a light in the bedroom. Whether the door to the room is to be shut or left open, etc.

Write down, also, the address of where you'll be. The phone number. And, if you plan to be away from a phone, the number of someone who can be called in your absence. Your parents. Your in-laws. A neighbor. Your doctor. Or your clergyman.

Write down, also, your doctor's phone number. And the numbers of the local police and fire stations.

When the sitter arrives, show her where everything is to be found. The ice box. The toilet. The phone. Your fire extinguisher. Alternate exit doors in case of an emergency, etc.

If you have an infant, be sure the sitter knows how to change diapers and burp the baby after a feeding.

If strange noises occur in your home when the heat goes on and off or when shutters bang, etc., warn the sitter of what she may hear so she doesn't go into a panic thinking someone is trying to break in. And, in case of fire, tell her to grab the children and make their escape without waiting to dress them or phone for help.

P. S. I want to acknowledge my indebtedness to the many readers who wrote in to give me the source of the lines "'Where ignorance is bliss, 'Tis folly to be wise." The quotation is from an "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College," written by Thomas Gray, the author also of the far-famed "Elegy in a Country Churchyard."

And, at risk of contradicting Mr. Gray, I must confess that I have registered nothing blissful at this public display of my ignorance.

"Sure Good to Be Back in Harness Again"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Most attention will probably be paid to specific legislative proposals which the President makes for tax reform and strengthening of the financial system. But it is important to recognize the philosophy that prompts them.

As an oversimplification, he describes his policy as "erecting a defense in depth against future recessions." In another place he says it is "to combat future recessions. . . to keep them short and shallow if they occur."

Stated more positively it is to promote and obtain "maximum production, employment and purchasing power."

IF THE UNITED STATES had maximum production, its gross national product might reach an annual rate of $600 billion in 1962 instead of an anticipated $570 billion. Individual income might be $500 billion instead of the anticipated $448 billion, and corporate profits might reach $60 billion instead of the anticipated $56 billion.

Few people can object to such higher goals of maximum production, even if they are immediately unattainable.

In subscribing to the objectives of the Full Employment Act of 1946, the President asserts that the country cannot afford to settle for any prescribed level of unemployment, but that it is shooting at a 4 per cent target for 1963. That would mean fewer than three million unemployed in place of the present nearly five million.

IN SEEKING MAXIMUM PURCHASING POWER, the president says this must be done without inflation. He does not see inflation arising from excessive demand or lack of capacity to produce in the coming year.

He repeats again his request to labor and management to exercise restraint in price and wage demands that might lead to inflationary spirals.

His goal is continued price stability for sustained prosperity at all levels of the economy.

The President sets a goal for the economic growth rate of 4.5 per cent a year, which it attained in the postwar years. In recent years it has averaged 2.5 per cent. The higher rate is set as attainable "in the 1960s."

AS A MAJOR CONTRIBUTION to this growth, the President has set a new international policy which will be spelled out in detail, in a special message presenting to Congress his Trade Expansion Act of 1962.

The goal here is attain a balance of payments for international transactions which will cover the costs of security and development of the free world without depletion of U.S. gold reserves.

To do this, the high priority task is to reduce international trade barriers so as to increase U.S. exports. This is proposed not as an end in itself, but to increase productivity and maintain price stability at home. This makes it a domestic program to help America, not a foreign aid program.

With increasing prosperity, the President sets high goals for the reduction of poverty among the "7 million families and individuals with incomes under $2,000 a year." Failure to overcome poverty is a consequence of failure to operate the economy at full potential, he declares.

FINNALLY, HE COMES BACK to his often-repeated recommendations for aid to education at all levels as "an investment in democracy and an instrument for economic growth." For, as he says, "the talent of our youth is a resource that must not be wasted."

This would seem to be the heart of the Kennedy program. The specific recommendations in the President's messages to Congress are the bones and body.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's annual report showed a 1941 fire loss of $20,886.40, which was $8,079.70 under the 1940 total.

If Ike and Khrushchev Were Writing Letters...

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Somewhere around Gettysburg, Pa., in the office of a former President of the United States, they must be expecting a letter. Presumably they are already drafting a reply. The anticipated missive from a man named Nikita Khruschev in Moscow might read as follows:

"Dear Ike: Maybe you've noticed the papers lately that a Bulgarian plane crashed in Italy. They are foolishly saying that we are engaged in a spy mission like the U-2. In the first place, as you know, we have absolutely no control over Bulgaria, even though it accepts our advice and our ideology and our troops. Besides, while we are interested in what goes on in any NATO military base, even in Italy, we wouldn't think of using espionage. We usually find out enough by reading the papers, as you Westerners tell everything anyway.

"But as one member of the Top Executives' Club to another, I call your attention to the fact that we didn't admit any responsibility for it and don't intend to do so, even if you extract a confession from the pilot. We admit nothing.

"Now that it's all over, I don't mind telling you that I really knew long before the U-2 came down that you had been conducting these flights and seriously considered mentioning it when I was in Camp David with you in 1959, but I was sure then that you would accept the 'co-existence' idea so I didn't want to muddy the waters. I did say in my press conference in Paris on May 18, 1960, that we knew about the U-2 flights long before, but you folks didn't believe me. You must realize, however, that we couldn't let you get away with the story that you had been conducting these U-2 flights for four years without our knowing it.

"As for 'summit meetings,' they're too important for propaganda purposes to be given up and, of course, when we want to break up an international conference — as we did the other day in Geneva — we don't really need any excuse at all. I expect we will have a lot of 'summit meetings' in the future.

"In closing let me say I appreciate that your new President proceeded to forget about what I said about you and your country at Paris in 1960 and met with him in Vienna in 1961 anyway. I appreciate also that he has just invited my son-in-law, who edits 'Izvestia,' to lunch with him at the White House but I beg of you, confidentially, if you have any influence at all with your successor, don't let him serve milk. It may be your national drink, but ours is vodka."

To the foregoing, the chief composer of important missives for Mr. Eisenhower probably is preparing already the first draft of the reply as follows:

"Dear Nikita: I suppose I should begin by exclaiming: 'you, too!' I can't tell you how delighted I was to get your letter mentioning the Bulgarian spy plane that crashed in Italy. But do send me a copy of the letter of apology which I assume you soon will be sending to the Italian government. It seems to me I recall your asking me to apologize for the U-2 incident. I will, of course, keep it secret in the meantime as I know you admit nothing.

"Nor am I going to rub it in by reminding you of all the things you said about the U-2 flights, for I know that to you spying is just a routine affair and is 'justified' by the dogma of Marx and Lenin and Stalin in which you believe so wholeheartedly — though lately I notice you seem to have weakened a little on Stalin.

"It's hard over here, you know, to get all the facts about these complicated dogma, so I still don't know why you should feel so badly about Stalin. He was as I recall for many years not only a war hero to your people but the high priest of the Communist faith which you still embrace.

"It is a little puzzling to me, however, why you took the U-2 thing so seriously and why you cancelled your invitation to me to visit the Soviet Union. It hurts a little bit more now that I see by the paper you have invited Bobby Kennedy, who is only an Attorney General. You never invited Herb Brownell or Bill Rogers, both good Attorneys General and good fellows.

"By the way, is that job of director of a children's home in the Soviet Union that you promised me still open? I'd like to pass the job on to someone in our new Peace Corps that you doubtless have read about. This is very important to use because you said something once about our grandchildren living under Commuism if you don't 'bury us' before. I'd like however, to see your grandchildren trained not be harsh on us. As Bob Newhart would say, 'Same to you, fellah!'."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day I had a 'phone call from Sam De Graffe of Third Avenue, He told me he is making a model of a Kingston trolley car, and wanted to know if there were any pictures around of one. He wanted to get the book "Trolley Car Treasury" by Frank Rowsome, which the Kingston City Library obtained for me through the Adriance Memorial Library in Poughkeepsie.

Sam's father was well known as Arthur De Graffe, motorman on Car 6 and also as "Art" when he later worked at the S and C Restaurant, Strand and Ferry, in Rondout. It had two entrances. Mrs. De Graffe told me about this.

A number of people have asked me about the books I mentioned in this colunm, and specially the Trolley Car book, which is on Publishers Central Bureau listing as $5.95 now reduced to $2.98. This concern at 100 E. 29th Street, New York 16, N. Y. sends out an illustrated interesting coverage of books they have on sale and the way they write them up makes you want to get them. They mention Those Wonderful Old Automobiles by Floyd Clymer, with a foreward by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, with over 500 photos, a colorful and nostalgic picture history of pioneer automobile companies and their early history. This used to sell for $5.95. They have it now for $2.98. I know this book through Tom Walsh of the Boulevard for he had loaned it to me sometime ago, as one of his hobbies was, books and other items on old cars. There are some books you just want to read, but others you want to own and keep for reference. This Publishers Central Bureau of New York lists many I would like to own.

William McBride phoned me the other day to tell me he had read the column in which I wrote about my father being a registered pharmacist from the old country and then passing the Board of Pharmacy in New York State. Mr. McBride said he remembered when my father worked in his father's pharmacy at 634 Broadway so he could learn the English terms, and he said, Mr. Howard in their store and others helped my father to learn the "Pharmacopoeia of the United States of America."

I remember my father spoke fondly of Charlie McBride (father of Bill) for right from the start he was very friendly with my father although they could not speak each other's language. In those days they used to have the DDD clambakes, which the doctors, dentists and druggists used to attend, a very friendly group in those days. They used to take pictures, and I have a number of those large group pictures. My father had a bicycle, and was young, and in Europe young people often rode a bicycle from country to country.

One of those clambake's I think was held at Lake Katrine, and my father rode there on his bicycle. Charlie McBride invited my father to his table, and introduced him around and when it was all over and time to go home, Mr. McBride tied my father's bicycle on his car, and my father had a ride home with the others. My father said, McBride liked to drive fast, and everyone was in good humor and it was a very pleasant trip. McBride, was a prominent member of the community and of that orgahization and his car led all the others. McBride had a streamer on his car of the organization, which waved in the breeze.

Will Try to See If Newburgh Denied the Needy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Social Welfare Department will try to determine next month whether the city of Newburgh, whose welfare policies touched off a nationwide controversy, denied relief to persons entitled to help.

The Hudson Valley city "appears to have been denying aid to persons actually and legally in need," a department spokesman said Sunday night.

He said that, beginning about Feb. 5, the department will investigate Newburgh's welfare practices. The probe will include "a 100 per cent review of all cases denied assistance during the month of January," the spokesman said.

In January, he said, 31 cases of relief were denied. Of these, 21 were either questionable or borderline and 13 were "probably justified," he said.

Newburgh's plan to put into effect a 13-point program it said was designed to reduce its welfare costs was challenged last year by the State Welfare Department, which won a permanent court injunction.

The plan included proposals to limit the time and duration of welfare payments, and sought to bar relief to unwed mothers who bore additional children while receiving aid.

City Manager Joseph Mitchell of Newburgh, chief sponsor of the plan, has said that, despite the court ban, the city has cut relief rolls.

The State Welfare Department has challenged Mitchell's claim.

World of Tickets

OKLAHOMA CITY — A traffic violator explained in traffic court he was issued more tickets than he could handle.

The first was a traffic ticket, which he mailed with the fine to the traffic court clerk with instructions he be mailed a receipt.

Somehow his money wound up at Municipal Auditorium and he was mailed a ticket to the stage production of "The World of Suzie Wong."

Her Turn

Then Sartain forgot all about it. When he woke up next morning he not only had a dead battery but an empty gas tank.

Heavy Seas End Friendship Trip

PANAMA (AP)—Two of eight young men en route to South America in an amphibious boat are trying to have the craft towed or shipped from an uninhabited spot on Panama's Caribbean coast.

The 34-foot El Pato Valiente, ran into heavy seas last week and had to be beached. After three days of being pounded by 15-foot waves, the craft was towed to a cove by a fishing boat.

Bob Hinds, 21, of Gloversville, N.Y., and Edward Naylor, 20, of Mayfield, N.Y., left their companions with the duck and went to Panama City to seek help. They hoped to arrange for a tow or transportation of the craft to Colombia.

Remaining with the boat were Thomas and Dan Twomey, 20-year-old twins from Worcester, N.Y.; Walter Kutrieb, 21, of Tarrytown, N.Y.; Frasher Shaw, 19, of Bethpage, N.Y.; George Burril, 18, of Ticonderoga, N.Y., and Colin Red, 23, of New Zealand.

Tubby Assigned To Geneva Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is relieving Roger Tubby as assistant secretary for public affairs, appointing him U.S. representative to the U.N. office in Geneva.

The announcement came Saturday after a week of reports that a change was in the making. Among the reported reasons for the switch was that Tubby and Secretary of State Dean Rusk had been unable to establish a close working relationship.

As chief of public affairs in the State Department, Tubby, 51, was known to newsmen as a persistent advocate of maximum disclosure of information about international relations and diplomatic developments.

This, said sources, has brought him into conflict with the traditional preference of diplomats for secrecy, especially on matters under negotiation.

Officials said Tubby's successor had not been designated but that high on the list of possibilities was Robert J. Manning, 42, who resigned last December as Sunday editor of the New York Herald Tribune and formerly headed the London bureau of Time-Life-Fortune.

The State Department said Tubby will remain in the position of assistant secretary for several weeks before taking on his Geneva assignment with the rank of ambassador.

Katrine Home Suffers Smoke Damage Today

The five-room home of George A. Shufeldt of Mt. Marion-Kingston Road, Lake Katrine, suffered heavy smoke damage and a gutted bedroom this morning from a blaze of undetermined origin which started in the bedroom.

According to Chief Robert E. Dachenhausen of Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Company, Mrs. Shufeldt and two children escaped to safety. Four pieces of apparatus battled the blaze before placing it under control. Flames, he added, were confined to the bedroom which was a complete wreck but the entire one-story frame brick veneer home was hard hit by smoke damage.

The New York State Thruway's mile-long bridge at Castleton-on-Hudson has a fog horn to warn river vessels during bad weather.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery by discount store shares and steadiness in aerospace issues were features of a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 252.50 with industrials down .20, rails up .10 and utilities unchanged.

While gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional, a few moves went to 1 or 2 points.

Discount stores were subjected to heavy selling Friday on a false rumor that an unfavorable article would appear about them today in a leading financial magazine. The stocks rebounded smartly as trading began, then trimmed their best gains.

Most of the aerospace issues held small gains despite disappointment over American space age projects this past weekend. Big Three motors and chemicals showed a higher trend. Oils, utilities, nonferrous metals, airlines and rubbers were irregular.

Korvette which was the most ative stock Friday when it plummeted 4⅞, recovered 1⅛ of the loss on an opening block of 7,000 shares. Later it trimmed the rebound to a fraction. Interstate Department Stores, which fell 3¾ on Friday, snapped back 2½ on an opener of 2,400 shares, then cut back a point of the advance.

Another feature was General Outdoor Advertising which advanced more than a point.

Sears Roebuck had a sinking spell as it lost about 3. Woolworth (ex dividend) was down more than a point.

U.S. Steel, which reports on finances and operations Tuesday, was easy. Other major steels were about unchanged.

County Laborer Dies of Wounds

A 45 year old farm laborer died early Sunday in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, of a shotgun wound in the head, suffered during a quarrel on Sunday, Jan. 21, with another laborer in a shack which they shared as living quarters on the Marlboro farm of Nick Affuso..

His alleged assailant, Alvin Williams, 42, is in Ulster County Jail on a charge of assault, first degree, awaiting grand jury action. According to troopers from the Highland state police barracks, Williams admitted shooting Herring with a charge from a 20 guage shotgun during a heated argument. He fired the shot through a hole in a temporary partition dividing their quarters in the shack, state police said.

Herring's body was released by Newburgh authorities to Ulster County Coroner Francis J. McCardle for a post-mortem and further police inquiry by BCI of Highland.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca of Marlboro, said the case will be brought before the grand jury, when the charge may be changed to one of more serious nature. Williams was bound over to the grand jury by Justice of Peace Philip W. Schunk of Lloyd after waiving examination.

JFK to Send

lege bill would provide $300 million a year for five years to help build classrooms, laboratories and libraries. Sixty per cent would be in matching grants, the rest in low-interest loans.

The Senate bill contains $1.5 billion to aid in construction for classrooms and other facilities, all in the form of loans; $924 million for student scholarships, and $250 million in matching grants to aid in construction of community junior colleges.

There may be a flurry in the Senate today over whether to send an administration civil rights bill to the Judiciary Committee, the graveyard of such legislation in the past.

The bill, introduced last Thursday by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, provides that a sixth-grade education be the only literacy test for voters in federal elections.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he felt the bill should be referred to the Rules Committee, which handles elections legislation, and that he might seek to force this today by a vote. Mansfield said he expected it to go to Judiciary.

Chimney Blaze

Port Ewen and St. Remy fire apparatus extinguished a chimney fire Sunday afternoon in the home of Louis Terpenning on Union Center Road, St. Remy. According to Chief Bert Stokes of St. Remy, the fire started in the living room chimney and charred timbers and walls in the room. He said damage was not extensive. One piece of apparatus from Port Ewen and two from St. Remy were called. The fire alarm sounded about 1 p. m. and recall was at 3 p. m.

Health Education Course Declared Good for Teachers

A course in health education for teachers was highly recommended by Miss Hazel Steed, executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, in a talk to employes of the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, lunch program Friday at Lake Katrine School.

Miss Steed, principal speaker at the meeting for full time workers in the program, emphasized the need of a health program as part of a teacher's requirement and commented: "Good health will bring a more peaceful world."

The program opened with a coffee hour in charge of Florence Anderson, cook at the Lake Katrine School. John W. Johnson, director of the school lunch program welcomed the assemblage. Following Miss Steed's talk, Helen Tompkins, cook manager at Kingston High School spoke on "School Lunch Program Quality Food Service" and explained how each school lunch program employe should be aware of the handling of food, its appearance and the factors which influence serving of quality food. She highlighted her talk with a demonstration of how to prepare a new item to the school menus — butterscotch biscuits.

Betty Metrick, cook manager of the Port Ewen School, closed the morning session with a discussion of the "Production Yield Sheet," developed by Kingston Schools personnel. She termed it a valuable tool which should be used by everyone preparing meals.

She also was the speaker at the afternoon session explaining "Weekly and Monthly Ordering Procedures," telling of the use of weekly inventories, perpetual inventories and monthly inventories.

Castro Declares:

Cuba Revolution Succeeds Due to Help From Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)—In an interview published today in the Communist party paper Pravda and government paper Izvestia, Prime Minister Fidel Castro said his revolution in Cuba never could have survived without Soviet help.

"We know that without the Soviet Union, without the Socialist camp's assistance, a revolution in such a small country as Cuba would have been impossible because of imperialist aggression," Castro said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the interview was granted in Havana Jan. 23 to Pavel Satyukov, chief editor of Pravda; and Alexei Adzhubei, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, who is chief editor of Izvestia.

Adzhubei interviewed President Kennedy last November and is stopping off at the White House Tuesday to see the President en route home.

Castro lashed out at the meeting of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States, assembled at Punta del Este, Uruguay, to consider measures to be taken against Cuba.

The prime minister asserted Cuba's policy with regard to Latin America is one of peace "and it is no fault of ours that imperialism seeks to isolate Cuba from the other countries of Latin America."

"The blame for the bad relations between Cuba and the United States lies with the government of the United States," he declared.

Democrats—Assembly Minority Leader Anthony J. Travia announced the creation of an 11-member research unit to advise Democratic assemblymen. Travia reportedly acted in response to complaints of some of his fellow minority members that too much of the party's appropriation for his staff was being used for patronage.

Discrimination — Rockefeller said yesterday he would ask the Legislature to change the name of the Commission Against Discrimination to the State Commission For Human Rights to emphasize the positive aspects of the agency's work.

HIGHWAY FATALITY—A Rondout Valley School ninth grade English teacher was killed Saturday morning when his vehicle rammed into the rear of a Babcock Dairy truck on Route 28 near Wiedy's Furniture Store. The victim was William Avery Thurston, 48, of West Shokan. Wreckage of the vehicle is inspected by (l-r) Deputy Sheriff Peter Peterson, Gilbert Gray and Donald Jankowski of Fatum's Ambulance Service. Nonagenarian Should Hold Mutual Fund Shares

Q) "Should I sell 1311 shares of Massachusetts Investors Trust and buy 500 shares of Bethlehem Steel to bring in more income? What do you think of American Motors? I'm 94 years old and want to leave my wife financially secure."—A. K.

A) It's a wonderful thing to approach the century mark with a mind as keen as yours—and a handwriting considerably better than my own.

It is quite true that you would increase your income considerably by switching M.I.T. into Bethlehem. By so doing, however, you would be leaving a well-diversified situation and putting the bulk of your assets into a single issue.

This seems particularly risky when the latter has been showing a general downdrift in share earnings since 1957. The present dividend was earned by a narrow margin in 1959 and 1960 and was barely covered in 1961. Bethlehem is a strong company —and the dividend may be continued — but the price and yield on the shares indicate that the market has some doubts about it.

American Motors is now meeting terrific competition from Ford and General Motors in the compact car field. I consider the shares far too speculative for you to own.

In your position I would stay with what I have — or if more income is absolutely necessary, I would consider a group of such issues as General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Union Pacific.

Q) "What do you think of Cudahy Packing as a growth speculation?" — C. P.

A) I don't believe I'd use the word growth in connection with the packing industry.

Livestock prices are subject to wide seasonal fluctuations, and most packers report cyclical rather than steadily progressing earnings. However, I do think Cudahy is a good speculation. An expected larger supply of hogs should reduce the company's costs this year, and management has done much to improve plant efficiency.

I rate the shares a buy for high-risk accounts.

Intended Mate Shot in Scuffle With Future Bride

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A neighbor, fearing for the safety of a young bride-to-be, shot and killed a man he saw smashing the girl's bathroom door Sunday, police reported.

Lynn Ann Donatoni, 19, had returned from a day of wedding-gift shopping and an evening bridal shower. She was preparing for bed, police said, when Amelio V. Castorena III, 25, appeared at the door.

"He was terribly mad about something," the girl told police later. She said she ran to the bathroom and locked herself in. She said Castorena began battering the bathroom door.

Lynn Ann said she opened a window and screamed for help. A neighbor, Gerald Scott, 63, awakened. He grabbed a 22-caliber pistol and ran to a driveway between the two houses.

He said he saw Castorena scuffle with the screaming girl.

Scott fired once. The bullet struck Castorena in the chest, killing him instantly. The girl told police she had no idea why Castorena would attack her. Police questioned Scott, then released him.

But Lynn Ann will have no use for the gifts she bought earlier in the day.

Castorena was her fiance and they were to marry Feb. 14.

Duplantier Favored

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Youthful Adrian Duplantier, the political heir of deLesseps Morrison, and veteran Victor Schiro, who succeeded Morrison last year in the mayor's chair, squared off today in a runoff for the Democratic nomination for mayor of New Orleans.

Duplantier, 33-year-old first-term state senator, ruled the favorite off his surprisingly strong first primary showing Saturday. He topped a nine-man field with 56,958 votes to 52,429 for the 58-year-old Schiro.

Another vigorous campaign looms before the March 3 runoff that will, in effect, decide who will be mayor for the next four years.

New Area Agents

Two area men are among those who have passed the examination for insurance agents, it was announced Sunday by the State Insurance Department at Albany. George F. Moxham of Ulster Park passed the tests for both accident and health and life insurance. Raphael Lucente Jr. of Saugerties passed the test for life insurance.

Hercules Dividend

WILMINGTON, Del. — The board of directors of Hercules Powder Company has declared a dividend of 30 cents a share on common stock, payable March 23, to stockholders of record at the close of business February 16. This is a 20 per cent increase over the dividend of 25 cents a share paid during the first quarter of 1961. Hercules' directors have recommended that stockholders approve at the annual meeting on March 20 a two-for-one split of Hercules common stock. The dividend, at a rate of 30 cents a share on the present stock, would be equal to 15 cents a share after giving effect to the proposed split. A dividend of 50 cents a share on $2 Cumulative Convertible Class A Stock was also declared, payable March 23, to stockholders of record at the close of business February 16.

Kennedy Shifts His Headquarters To Washington

Mrs. Kennedy and their children, Caroline and John Jr., were expected to accompany the President.

Sunday, for the third straight afternoon, Kennedy and the First Lady took his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, with them for a cruise on the presidential yacht Honey Fitz. The 73-year-old former ambassador to Britain is described as making satisfactory progress from the stroke he suffered Dec. 19.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy attended morning services at St. Edward's Roman Catholic church. A large crowd applauded their arrival and departure.

C of C Committee Formed to Study Water Situation

At the recent meeting of New Paltz Chamber of Commerce, the members voted to form a water committee in cooperation with the Chambers in Rosendale, Wallkill and Esopus.

It is planned to work together in an attempt to solve the water problems of this area.. One of the main items under discussion was the problem of attracting industry to the area because of an insufficient supply of water, and the members feel that an extensive water study should be conducted.

This decision was made after Andy Barone, secretary, reported on a meeting he had attended recently which was called by the Temporary Commission on Water Resources and Development. The members also decided to write to the proper authorities for more information about federal assistance in the solving of water problems.

Other matters discussed included the conference of honorary membership in the Chamber to Jack Dietrich, James Ashton and George Bogert. Ashton and Dietrich received this honor in recognition for their yearly assistance with the Chamber Christmas lighting program, and Bogart for his donation of room space in his Main Street house for Chamber headquarters during the past several years.

The Chamber also extended their thanks to Robert DuBois and Fred Kimlin for playing the role of Santa Claus during the Chamber's Trade Show in November.

There was much discussion among the members concerning a recent Dun and Bradstreet report that the Village of Highland has a larger number of business places than New Paltz as listed in their 1962 Reference Book.

Grant Hague, Chamber member, and local Real Estate Broker, reports that he recently made a survey of both the Town of New Paltz and Lloyd. He stated that the Village of Highland shows a 1960 population of 2,931, a loss of three per cent since 1950. The Village of New Paltz shows a 1960 population of 3,041 which represents a gain of 33 per cent since 1950, and that the last census shows the Town of New Paltz as the fastest growing Township in Ulster County.

He reported that his list of classifications of business enterprise including service and professional type business. Although it did not include dairy farms or fruit growers.

He says that the Dun and Bradstreet report is limited in its coverage thus correct as far as it goes, but conveys the impression that Lloyd is a larger, more progressive, faster growing community than New Paltz, and with reference to both places the article stated Highland with 111 commercial enterprises was higher in 1961 and New Paltz with 99 commercial enterprises was about the same as 1960," which placed Highland in fourth place county-wise and New Paltz in fifth place, behind Kingston.

Democratic Club Slates Banquet

New Paltz Democratic Club held its first regular meeting of the year recently in the Municipal Building when many matters of business left over from last year were settled.

The dinner committee, consisting of chairman, Michael Landis, John Shand, and Howard Rust, reported the completion of plans for the first social event of the year. This will be a dinner to be held at the new Pantony's Restaurant, Route 299 just east of New Paltz.

An orchestra and floor space will be provided for dancing. An effort is being made to obtain Schenectady Representative Samuel Stratton as the speaker. Other entertainment is also scheduled.

The dinner is to be held on Friday evening, March 2 at 7 p. m. and tickets are now available from any of the following people:

Michhael Landis, Howard Rusk, John Schreiber, Harriet Kerr, Dorrie White, and Louis LeFevre.

A Democratic Club bake sale is also being planned to take place on February 14 at the Empire Market on upper Main Street. Mrs. Gerda Gruner, chairman of the sale, is now seeking members who will help with contributions of baked foods or to help at the sale. Anyone interested in helping may contact Mrs. Gruner.

New Paltz Unit of the Home Demonstration Bureau will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry Sutton at 44 South Manheim Boulevard February 1. Members are to bring their own lunch.

Mrs. Emma Shelly's report, "How to Prepare for Retirement" will be read and discussed.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Fred DuBois will give information concerning proper selection of materials for slipcovers and will include a demonstration of cutting and sewing the same.

International Club Elects New Officers

The subject of the evening was Korea on which John Morris presented an interesting talk and showed slides of Korea taken when he was there. A discussion period and refreshments followed.

The next meeting of the International Club will be held on Thursday, Feb. 1 at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Linda Blue. The guest speaker will be Jim Yung, a Korean student at the State University College, here.

Reformed Notes

A new Communicants Class is now being formed at New Paltz Church. In February, this class will begin meeting with the Rev. Gerret Wullschleger each Saturday 10 a. m. in the consistory room of the church.

Letters have been sent to parents of young people in the eighth Grade Church School class. Parents of other children of this age group or older, who may have been missed, are invited to contact the church office on any weekday morning.

There will be three two-month terms of religious instruction before the young people are given the opportunity of uniting with the Church, at Easter, in 1963.

Girl Scout Notes

Doris Bartow of Girl Scout Troop 70 has announced that the troop held a sleigh riding party at Mohonk recently. The arrangements were made by Kathy Hamilton. On January 20, the troop also held an ice skating party at the Moriello Park. These plans were made by Beatrice Capone and Linda Schulte. Their leader is Mrs. Laurin Abrams Jr.

On January 22, three girls from Troop 70, Judy Abrams Beatrice Capone and Kathy Hamilton attended the meeting of Mrs. Hazel Bartz's Troop 85 and taught the group the art of knot craft. On the same day Leslie Coulton, Susan Davidson and Patricia Ronk taught knot craft to Mrs. Kenneth DePuy's Troop 110.

Arrangements are being made for each girl to attend other troop meetings of the New Paltz Neighborhood Girl Scouts and Brownies to teach various phases of scouting, such as first aid, proper use of the flag, care and use of knives, games, songs, and dances.

At the January 25 meeting of Troop 70, Alfred Douglas spoke to the members on Indian Lore.

Aboard Carrier

Lionel D. Everett, aviation ordnanceman airman apprentice, USN, son of Christopher T. Everett of Route 2, Kingston, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, operating out of Mayport, Fla. The fast carrier is scheduled to enter the New York Naval Shipyard, Feb. 8, for an eight-week overhaul period.

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Capt. Ewart Kempson, the veteran English player and writer, has produced a new book, entitled "First Pocket Book of Bridge Problems." It consists of 70 hands taken from actual play which show one distinctly correct line of action for declarer or the defense.

Today you are South. The game is rubber bridge and you find yourself in a nice comfortable six no-trump contract. West opens the ten of hearts and when you count your tricks your first thought is, "Maybe I will make seven."

You see eight tricks outside the diamond suit, plus four or five there, for a total of 12 or 13. So, you win the first heart in dummy and promptly lead the jack of diamonds. East shows out and all of a sudden you find yourself with only three diamond tricks and no way to make your slam.

Bad luck, but also bad play. Captain Kempson points out that since the game is rubber bridge you should play absolutely safe for your contract and that the way to do this is to win the first heart in your hand and lead toward dummy's jack of diamonds. West can duck or rise with the queen, but you will have four diamond tricks and you would also have them if East should show up with five diamonds.

Highway Program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State is at the halfway point in work on its long-range arterial highway program, which will cost an estimated $465 million, the state public works superintendent says.

J. Burch McMorran reported Saturday that, at the end of 1961, a total of $437.2 million in state and federal funds had been obligated since the first arterial projects were begun in 1947.

Driver Training Slated

Raphael Klein, director of Adult Education, has announced that registration and the first session for Adult Driver Training course will be held at 7 p. m., on Tuesday, January 30, in room V-110, in the Vocational Building of Kingston High School.

The New York State Thruway spends about $5,900,000 annually for maintenance—about half of it to control snow and ice.

Rocky, Wagner Entangled Over Medicare for Aged

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, potential opponents in this year's gubernatorial election, were entangled today in a pre-campaign battle over medical care for the aged.

Wagner said Saturday that the state program, enacted at Rockefeller's request, was inadequate and "humiliating," because of a test by which applicants must show financial need.

Rockefeller snapped back that the program had saved New York City $20 million last year and Wagner could have used that money to provide additional care "rather than buying Cadillacs and raising his own salary."

The medical program provides hospital, physician and other services for persons over 65 who are unable to pay medical bills, although otherwise capable of supporting themselves.

In other activities in state politics:

1. Wagner announced he would issue a call for a meeting of the Democratic State Committee to oust Chairman Michael H. Prendergast, who opposed Wagner's re-election. No date was set but indications were it would be within the next month.

2. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, the only declared Democratic candidate for governor, asked Rockefeller to take a public stand on the John Birch Society. Stratton, a Democrat, described the organization as an extreme right-wing faction within the Republican party. Rockefeller declined comment, but the governor's office pointed out that Rockefeller had said Jan. 11 he would not support for public office a member of the John Birch Society if that organization's domestic policies were what he understood them to be.

3. Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney predicted that Rockefeller would be re-elected governor this year by at least the 573-000-vote margin by which he won in 1958.

3 Children Die In Upstate Fire

BRUSTON, N.Y. (AP)—A flash fire that destroyed a farmhouse near this Northern New York village killed three children and injured three adults, including the pregnant mother of the youngsters.

Mrs. Lloyd Jock, 23, was in Malone Hospital where a nurse said she was expected to give birth soon. Mrs. Jock suffered first-degree burns before her husband, also 23, threw her from a second-floor window.

In addition to the Jocks, their uncle and another man fled in nightclothing into 8-below zero temperature early Sunday.

The Jock family, Francis White, an uncle of Jock, and Nelson Merrick, 42, had been staying in the house owned by Mrs. Beatrice Holcomb, Mrs. Jock's mother. Mrs. Holcomb is in a hospital with a fractured leg.

The children who died were: Lloyd Jr., 5; Larry, 3, and Candy, 2. They were sleeping on the second floor at the rear of the house, where the fire apparently started.

Trooper R. E. Benjamin of the State Police said it was believed the fire had started from an overheated, wood-burning stove.

Why We Say--

YANKEE 1-29

SILENT: The nickname Yankee is derived from a joke by the Indians. It comes from "yonokie," an Indian word which meant "silent." The name was applied by the Indians in reverse of what they really thought. The white men seemed so talkative to them in contrast to their own people, that they named him "yonokie" as a jest.

Wagner Opposes Seating Change For Congressmen

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican plan to redistribute the number of congressional seats in New York State was under Democratic fire on two fronts today.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City said he had instructed his municipal legal department to prepare court action challenging the validity of the reappointment plan on the ground it was inequitable.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, the only declared candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, charged that the Assembly vote of approval for the plan was void. One of the legislators who provided the bare constitutional majority had been elected illegally, said Stratton, whose district will be eliminated if the plan takes effect next Dec. 31.

The congressmen alleged that Stanley L. Van Rensselaer of Saratoga Springs, a city court judge when elected last Nov. 7, had been illegally declared the winner of the contest.

The state constitution, Stratton said in a political speech at nearby Chatham, declares void any votes given a judge except for a judicial office or as a delegate to a constitutional convention.

Van Rensselaer said he had found nothing in the law to bar him from office. He said he had resigned as a city judge Nov. 8 and had taken office Nov. 9, when the special session of the Legislature convened to act on the reapportionment bill.

Milk Truckers Register

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Agriculture Department says that, beginning April 1, independent truckers who haul milk from farms to receiving plants must register as milk dealers.

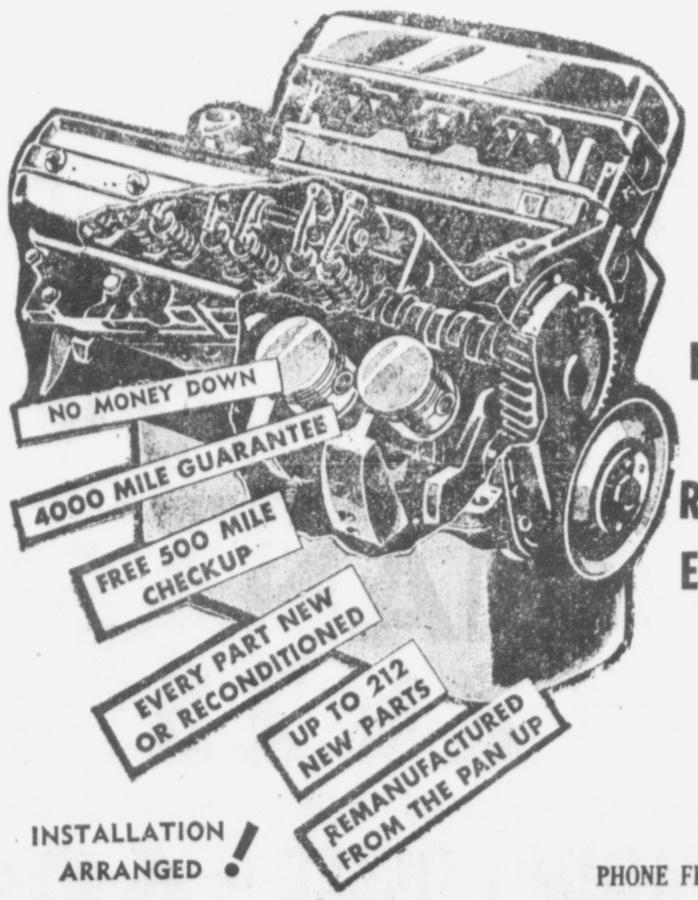

The department wants to make certain that state and federal proper reports on the origin and milk-marketing agencies receive proper reports on the origin and destination of milk, Herbert R. Kling, director of the milk-control division, said Sunday night.

Trucks operated by licensed milk dealers, including major dairies, will not be affected. Those dealers now are licensed by the state.

Democrat Winner Takes Seat, Has Praise for JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Democrat Graham B. Purcell Jr. takes his seat in Congress today with praise for the Kennedy administration and some reservations about two of its programs.

Purcell's overwhelming victory Saturday over Joe Meissner, a conservative Republican businessman, clearly was a sweet one for the Democrats.

However, in a post-election press conference at Wichita Falls, the 42-year-old state district judge listed two reservations involving administration policy.

"I am not in favor of federal aid to education and I am not in favor of medical aid under Social Security," he said.

Tall, trim Purcell is taking the seat held by Frank Ikard, a Democrat who resigned as 13th District congressman to become executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute.

Adoula Protests Council Parley

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Cyrille Adoula says the Soviet call for a U.N. Security Council meeting on the Congo "looks like a maneuver unfriendly to our government."

Adoula charged in a sharp protest to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant that the council debate "can only bring further confusion" just when he is making headway to reunite his infant African republic.

The Security Council meets Tuesday in New York to hear Soviet complaints that the U.N. Command in the Congo has been slow in driving white mercenaries out of secessionist Katanga Province.

ALBERT A. TANGREDI

Albert A. Tangredi of Six Woodward Road, West Nyack, N. Y., has been promoted to the position of manager-shipping department of New York Trap Rock Corporation. The new shipping department head, since 1958, held the office of vice president of Cornell Steamboat Company, a subsidiary which provides towing service for Trap Rock's vast fleet of barges.

Tangredi joined Trap Rock in February, 1957, as assistant marine superintendent, coming to the firm with over twenty years of maritime experience. Prior employment included two decades of heading the marine department of the Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Company. His new duties will see Mr. Tangredi directing a department whose prime function will be the providing of water-borne delivery of the company's products to customers' docks.

Tangredi, a native of the Bronx, is a graduate of Stuyvesant High School. He and his wife Palma are parents of six children—five daughters and a son. They are Barbara, Dorothy, Evelyn, Elizabeth, Alice and George.

17 Persons Slain In Algiers Riots

ALGIERS (AP) — Two Europeans were killed and two others seriously wounded in the daily outbreaks of terrorism in Algiers today. In Oran a Moslem terrorist killed a European. Another terrorist, presumably a European, killed a Moslem.

Seventeen persons, 12 Moslems and five Europeans, were killed by terrorists over the weekend.

In France, Premier Michel Debre said terrorism and the anti-independence Secret Army Organization have caused grave concern but when the Algerian cease-fire is signed, the agitation will cease.

Differ in Politics

It worked well, they said Sunday, as 150 friends and relatives honored them on their 67th wedding anniversary.

It worked except on one difference: McCarter was a Republican, his wife a Democrat.

McCarter worked that one out himself. "I became a Democrat three years ago," he confided.

2 Bodies Recovered

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Bodies of Larry Husted, 10, and Wesley Lowe, 13, were recovered Sunday under a rock fall in the old mine workings at nearby Morgan Run. The discovery came after two weeks of almost continuous searching.

Several hundred workers tried to find the youths after they entered the mine on Jan. 14.

Human Rights Is Preferred Name For State Body

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he will ask the Legislature to change the name of the State Commission Against Discrimination to the State Commission for Human Rights.

He says the step reflects "the affirmative determination of my administration to see to it that all New Yorkers fully enjoy their rights as individuals and as Americans."

Rockefeller made the announcement Sunday as he participated in ceremonies opening SCAD's first Harlem office.

The governor also said he will seek an amendment of the law "to make explicit the ban on discrimination by labor unions, employers, employment agencies or their representatives" on admission to apprentice training programs.

The mission was founded recently by the Abyssinian Baptist Church, of which Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., Negro Democrati, is pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Oberia D. Dempsey presented the Republican governor an award for working toward equal opportunity.

The associate pastor praised the governor's address and hailed him as a fellow Baptist and as one who "has brought the state government a lot closer to us than city hall today."

Wagner Says Call Is Going Out to Oust Prendergast

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner says a call will be issued this week for a meeting of the Democratic state committee to oust Michael H. Prendergast as chairman.

Wagner declined sole responsibility for the move, saying it "comes spontaneously from Upstate," and that "quite a few persons" would send out notices.

Prendergast declared, however, that New York City employes had been "traveling and calling upon state committee members and county leaders in Upstate New York to tell them that Mr. Wagner wants this or wants that done."

Refuses to Resign

Wagner split with the state chairman prior to his successful campaign for election to a third successive term as mayor last year. Prendergast has refused to resign.

Although he declined to say so specifically, Wagner indicated the state committee meeting would be held prior to a $100-a-plate dinner announced by Prendergast for March 3 in New York City.

"We're not scheduling any timing because of any dinner," Wagner said. "The (Democratic) convention takes place in March and I think this must move ahead rapidly because people all over the state want some action in the Democratic party."

Says Check Made

Asked about the legality of calling a meeting to vote in a new state chairman, he replied:

"I have checked the law and a lot of others have checked the law. It is felt that the state committee meeting can be called on the demand of the 25 per cent (of the state committeemen), and that the rules of the state committee can be changed by a majority of the state committeemen."

Wagner said he had no one to suggest as a replacement for Prendergast, but that he might "have something to say together with some others. . .when we get a consensus."

Boys Burn Plant

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Two boys, 9 and 12, set a printing shop afire Saturday after breaking in to steal soft drinks, State Police said. The blaze caused $100,000 damage and injured three firemen.

Troopers said the boys told them they started a fire in a paper storage area, put it out, then started a second fire there because the first one looked so good.

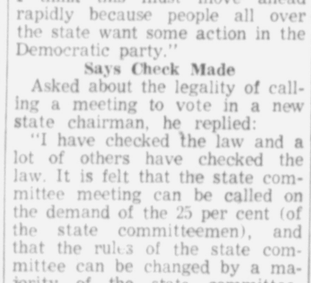

Most of the equipment was damaged in the one-story, cinderblock building of the Painted Post Press Inc., at nearby Riverside.

Counterattack Near

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek told a group of visiting American newsmen today that the opportunity for a counterattack on the Communist-held China mainland by his Chinese Nationalist forces is fast approaching.

"Our preparations for a counterattack are in full swing," he declared.

The Chinese Nationalist leader was interviewed by the 49-member group of the American newspaper study mission to India and around the world.

Payroll Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — An authority on automation reports that the public works payroll may have to be swollen as machines replace men.

If automation and the use of computers continue to increase, said Donald N. Michael, "the government will probably be faced for the indefinite future with the need to support part of the population through public works."

Michael's analysis was prepared for the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, an activity of the Fund for the Republic, Inc.

Brooklyn Man To Face Charge

One man was hospitalized and another is under arrest as the result of a Saturday night argument at Ulster Heights Bar and Grill in the Town of Wawarsing.

Arrested for assault, third degree was Leonard Carollo, 31, of 1488 DeKalb Avenue, Brooklyn, who is scheduled to appear Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Wawarsing.

Hospitalized with head injuries at Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville was Chester Ennis, 50, who lives at the bar and grill.

Chamber Dinner Slated Tonight

Over two hundred persons will attend the annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce at the Governor Clinton Hotel tonight. The principal speaker will be Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton of Albany, president of the State University of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald DeWitt will be guests of honor. DeWitt will be awarded a special citation for his interest and support of education. Chamber of Commerce officers for 1962 will also be presented and Joseph E. O'Connor, president in 1961 will report briefly on activities during the past year.

DOES YOUR CHILD HAVE LORDOSIS?

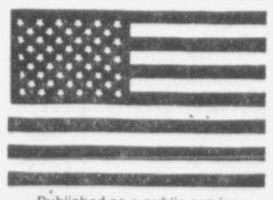

If your child has "round" shoulders, jutting "wings," or other signs of poor posture, he or she may be suffering from lordosis—or simple curvature of the spine.

Many thousands of American school children suffer from lordosis—and their parents don't even know it.

Guarantee your child proper exercise, every day, in his own school, by getting your school board to put into effect an adequate program for youth physical fitness.

Fleming Hopes That Woman Will Get County Court Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sen. Robert Fleming R-Allegheny, said today he will seek support in the Republican caucus for confirmation of Anne X. Alpern as a member of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court.

"I am personally for her and I have excellent hopes that she will be confirmed at the earliest possible date," he added.

Fleming handles appointments for Senate Republicans, and when his party was in power he was chairman of the powerful Executive Nominations Committee.

Fleming was less hopeful for the reappointment of Abraham D. Cohn as chairman of the State Liquor Control Board.

"There is very definite opposition to Cohn from the Republican organization in York County," he said. "Efforts are being made to clear the situation, but our caucus is reluctant to fly in the face of the York organization."

Miss Alpern was appointed to the county court seat last week by Gov. Lawrence, who five years ago took her off the same bench to make her the first woman attorney general in state history.

Both chambers will hold sessions of the regular 1962 general assembly later in the day.

House Minority Leader Albert W. Johnson promised in a statement Sunday that Republicans will make a floor fight to provide public schools an extra $8 million in the next fiscal year.

Johnson said the effort would be made in the form of an amendment to appropriations bills on the calendar, rather than in a separate bill which could be pigeonholed by the Democratic majority.

In other developments, Chairman J. Dean Polen of the House Appropriations Committee called a meeting of his group for Tuesday morning to discuss the 65 bills making up the general fund package.

Icy Sidewalks Take Heavy Toll of Mailmen

Since Christmas, 65 letter-carriers have slipped and fallen, suffering a total of 43 bruises, 13 sprains, 8 strains, and 1 broken ankle.

Local post office officials cited the figures Saturday in asking property owners to please clean their walks.

Police Seek Relatives

State police are checking into the death of George Boyette at Homowack Lodge in Wawarsing on Sunday in an effort to determine his true address. The man who was found dead in bed Sunday at 4 p. m., by James Raycroft, assistant general manager of the lodge, gave the lodge his address as 413 Ann Street, Monroe, but a check in that community revealed no such address and uncovered no one who knew Boyette. Investigator Charles Teelon of Ellenville, who said Boyette's death was due to natural causes, is investigating.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—You are in college or planning to enter one and your life's ambition is to become a business executive.

Should you specialize in courses narrowed to the field of your choice? Or should you seek a rounded education, but with due attention to economics and business administration, and get the specific training on the job?

Business administration schools, like universities in general, are adding more special courses for technical training.

But some educators think the trend may be overdone. They hold this training and the absence of the wider view could confine you to that field. It could prevent you from developing characteristics top management seeks when tapping juniors for advancement to executive posts.

One such dissenter is Howard T. Lewis, professor in the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University. And he takes on not only the college curriculum itself but also the trend of companies endowing training for their particular fields.

"Too many colleges and universities," he charges, "seem willing to give courses on anything from 'laundry management' to 'pie making' provided only someone will subsidize it or it can be made to pay for itself financially."

"There is actually very little correlation between the business courses majored in at college and the actual occupation of alumni," the Harvard educator holds in an article in the current issue of Purchasing Magazine, trade publication for industrial buyers.

"Business firms seeking to augment their personnel from a graduating class," Lewis says, "ask for 'your best men', not for 'your list of majors in accounting' (or finance, or marketing)."

In defense of his thesis Lewis quotes Dean E. T. Weiler of Purdue University as saying, "I don't believe many special skills are necessary to get a toehold in American industry."

And Lewis cites two surveys, one by the Ford Foundation, the other by the Carnegie Foundation, as reaching the same conclusion that vocationalism, or overemphasis on specialization and training for specific jobs, is poor policy for colleges and should be left either to industry itself or to vocational schools.

Doctor — Did you manage to retain that pill on your stomach?

Farmer — Well, the pill was all right as long as I kept awake, but every time I fell asleep it rolled off.

Christmas: 1837

One of the fiercest engagements of the Seminole Wars was fought near Fort Pierce, Florida, on December 25, 1837. Billy Bowlegs led the Seminoles and Colonel Zachary Taylor was in command of the U. S. forces. Years later, when the Indian leader was visiting Washington, D. C., he spied a portrait of Zachary Taylor in the Capitol. He grinned and exclaimed: "Me whip!"

A farmer on his way home from market one day suddenly remembered that he had forgotten something, but what he could not recall. As he neared home the conviction increased and three times he stopped his horses and went carefully through his notebook in the vain endeavor to discover what he had missed. In due course he reached home and was met by his daughter who looked at him in surprise and said,

Daughter — Why, father, what have you done with mother?

Allot $99,600 in Aid Toward County Welfare

Ulster County will receive $99,600 for February as its share of federal and state aid for welfare, it was announced today by the State Department of Audit and Control.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said the distribution of $25,601,000 will go to 65 public welfare districts in the state.

These monies represent the federal and state share, 80 per cent, of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities. The federal share of these advances amounts to $13,921,000.

Health for All

How to Make Yourself a Cripple

Want to make sure that twinge of pain you have turns into a stiff and useless knee, hip, or waist? Stay away from the doctor and baby it!

The old idea that a rheumatic or arthritic patient should favor his painful joints is one more example of little knowledge that is a dangerous thing. Actually, going easy on a joint may increase its stiffness rather than making it better. Your doctor can tell which is best in your case.

People over 50 (or even younger) often have one or two painful or stiff joints. This happens when the oiling fluid between the joints disappears and the padding wears away. It is called osteoarthritis, one of the two main forms of arthritis.

The other main form is rheumatoid arthritis, which attacks the tissues that hold organs, bones, and muscles together. You may have it if you've noticed pain, swelling, stiffness of the joints, fever, and loss of weight. If you have any of these things, see you doctor as soon as possible, so that he can help you.

Doctors can do a great deal to relieve the extremely painful symptoms of arthritis, even though its cause is still unknown. But the quack remedies, folk medicines, devices, and treatment centers advertised as "cures" are worthless; and the $250,000,000 sufferers spend on them each year are just thrown down the drain. Make sure to see your physician to learn the sound way to keep your joints in working order.

MONEY REFUGE

The stock market has become a money refuge with thousands of investors. As a result, scores of high-grade common stocks have reached fantastically high levels and income returns have diminished.

Here, for example, is an investor who owns 2,000 shares of a blue-chip stock. They are worth $220,000 and the dividend return is less than 2 per cent. The owner is having a difficult time maintaining proper living standards. Yet, if half the shares were sold and the money reinvested in prime bonds, income could be doubled immediately.

Common stocks should not be "sacred cows." They should be slaughtered occasionally when financial needs are pressing. It is psychologically wrong for countless investors to use their equites as a refuge for money.

The United States Government has recently sold a billion dollars worth of 4 per cent bonds somewhat under face value. Their maturity is medium-term, thus indicating that basic rates will be firm in the immediate years ahead.

This should be the signal to stockholders needing more income to sell some of their low-yield, high-grade common stocks which, by every degree of measurement, are commanding too high price levels.

Such enterprises as American Telephone, Atchison Railroad, Consolidated Edison, General Motors, Illinois Bell Telephone, Pacific Gas and Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, Standard Oil of California, and United States Steel offer investors seasoned bonds, all selling under face value to yield around 4-4½ per cent.

The American Telephone 2¾ per cent dollar obligations are selling for 77 cents on the dollar. The General Motors Acceptance Corporation 4's can be bought for about 93. The Illinois Bell Telephone 3 per cent obligations are bringing 83 and the United States Steel Corporation 4's can be bought for around 95.

Investors in retirement who have bought common stocks over a period of years and now have large profits should not hesitate to take some capital gains and invest the capital in such dollar obligations as mentioned above.

Sentimental attachment to blue-chip equities is ill-advised in every circle where income return on invested capital is so necessary.

International Business Machines and Eastman Kodak represent a class of highest-grade equities that are selling too high when one considers earnings and dividends.

Both stocks are money shelters for hundreds of investors in their 60's ,70's and 80's. In many cases their holders need higher income.

A common stock should be the servant and not the master of an investor. Quite frequently high-grade equities outlive their usefulness to retired and elderly persons.

State Arterial Projects Hit Peak During 1959-61 Period

ALBANY — New York State did more to ease the flow of motor traffic through its cities and urban areas between 1959 and 1961 than in any corresponding period in its history, State Superintendent of Public Works J. Burch McMorran said Sunday.

McMorran said state and federal funds obligated for construction of arterial routes in the past three years — as part of Governor Rockefeller's stepped-up road-building program — totaled $119,803,585, an increase of 26 per cent over the 1956-8 total of $95,086,620. He said the 1959-61 figure exceeded by more than 15 per cent the total for the entire four-year period from 1955 through 1958 —$103,685,722.

Total state-federal obligations for construction on the arterial system since 1947, when the first projects were launched, rose to $437,268,442 at the close of 1961.

Funds obligated over the past three years represented a 38 per cent increase over the 11-year total of $317,464,857 committed up to Jan. 1, 1959.

McMorran said gains of the past three years had brought the state to the half-way mark in arterial development. The estimated cost to complete the program is $465,000,000.

"This exceptional progress," McMorran said, "is creating many new facilities which promote the safe and efficient movement of our heaviest traffic — that in the urban regions where 85.4 per cent of the state's 17 million citizens reside."

Eliminates Signal Stops

New arterials, he added, enabled motorists to not only pass through cities with greater ease, but to reach many residential or commercial neighborhoods of urban areas with a minimum of stops for traffic signals and intersections.

Arterial projects were placed under contract between 1959 and 1961 in 23 of the state's 57 upstate cities, and in the City of New York, according to the superintendent. The total of cities participating in the construction program since 1947 rose by three to 44.

Total projects executed by the Department of Public Works increased by 80, to 395, and the number of projects completed went up by 77, to 335. Cities with completed projects increased from 36 to 41.

Mileage of new arterial routes completed or started increased from 142.24 to 177.85 between Jan. 1, 1959 and Dec. 31, 1961. Of this increase, 30.87 miles were in upstate cities and 4.74 miles in the City of New York.

Gotham Has Most

Due to additional construction problems encountered in building new routes or modernizing existing ones in New York City, obligations for work in the state's largest metropolitan area comprised $73,572,970 of the 1959-61 total. In upstate cities the volume of arterial contracts was $46,230,615.

The superintendent also noted that the state's contribution to arterial route construction increased in relationship to the federal share between 1959 and 1961.

The state's portion of total obligations during that period was $59,072,395 as against federal-aid amounting to $60,731,190.

Between 1955 and 1958, he asserted, the Federal Government had put up $53,476,758 for arterial highways, approximately $12 million over the state contribution of $41,609,862.

Financed by State, Federal

Arterials generally are financed with state and federal funds on a 50-50 basis, although in the past federal funds met a slightly larger share of the cost of some projects.

The state and cities share equally the cost of right-of-way for arterials, with their combined outlay in the past three years rising by approximately $20 million to a 14-year total of $110,925,600.

McMorran pointed out that arterial development, while sizeable, did not account for all of the state's obligations for urban area routes. Under the Department of Public Works' regular urban highway and interstate highway programs, he said, many additional millions of state-federal road-building allocations — averaging some $350 million annually — were committed for highway improvements in and around densely-developed areas. Cities do not share in the costs of these programs.

Upstate cities in which new arterial program projects were started between 1959 and 1961 included the following:

Others Benefitted

These and others, McMorran said, also benefitted under other phases of the state's urban construction programs.

The superintendent declared still further increases in arterial development were anticipated in future years as a result of the 1961 Legislature's adoption of a law authorizing the state to make interest-free advances to cities of their share of right-of-way costs. Several cities already have applied for advances under the law.

Additional construction designs are being developed for many of the cities which already have arterials, as well as for others which have approved the route proposals presented by the Department of Public Works.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television, currently the subject of Federal Communications Commission hearings, can point with pride to its performance this past weekend.

Astronaut John H. Glenn's rocket flight was postponed because of weather, but during the long hours of the countdown on Saturday, all three networks carried on in smooth, well-planned fashion. During the seemingly endless wait, with Glenn in the space ship and not much visible activity, all three teams kept viewers informed, and briefed us thoroughly with their own knowledge and pre-taped interviews. Everyone seemed to know his job and was ready for any situation.

It was a good job—but it won't be as interesting next time they go through the countdown.

NBC's "White Paper" Sunday night put a blazing light on the Hudson River community of Newburgh, N.Y., in the headlines recently because of the determination primarily of its city manager, Joseph Mitchell, to rid its public welfare roles of "chiselers and loafers," freeloaders and the able-bodied—his description.

The cameras inspected Newburgh's slums. Reporters interviewed proponents and opponents of the plan as well as some of those affected—old, sick, blind despairing. It wound up with an interview with an agonized young father, sobbing because he could find no work, welfare doors were closed to him and his children were hungry.

All through the program, like a pointing finger, ran the brisk voice of Chet Huntley, stating that after the furor, only one able-bodied worker was found among 800 receiving benefits last summer; that aid to fatherless families amounted to about six per cent of the city welfare costs, that the widely publicized reform projects had led only to "a small tax saving."

It was a shocking, frightening program and there was no doubt about the way the producers of the program felt about the handling of the problem. The Newburgh welfare reformers won't like it at all

Judge Election Study Proposed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Correctional Association of New York wants the Legislature to study thoroughly the present system of electing judges to various courts in the state.

The elective system is not working in New York City, the Association said Sunday in its annual report to the Legislature.

The association also complained that grand juries meet too infrequently Upstate. As a result, the report said, persons charged with crimes often are detained too long, and to those later found innocent this means "loss of freedom and suffering by an innocent person without redress or compensation."

The report said the elective methods of selecting judges appeared to be working satisfactorily Upstate.

But in New York City, the report said, so many judges are elected that "The voters have nothing to go on except a blind and unconfident faith in the party label," and the system "fails to obtain any real verdict from the voters."

A golfer spends most of an afternoon playing 18 holes. Yet only during a fraction of that time does he "play golf." Stop-watch tests show that for 18 holes a golfer spends an average of 12 minutes addressing and hitting the ball. The rest of the time he walks. Golf,[s] it appears, is a long hike with some interruptions.

3 Persons Hurt In Car Mishaps

Three persons were injured, one critically, in weekend traffic accidents investigated by Highland State Police.

Edward Robinson, 27, of Underhill Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, suffered rib fractures at 1:30 a. m. today when his car crashed into guard rails on Route 9W at the Highland Traffic Circle. Robinson was taken to Vassar hospital. He was driving south along the highway in his 1954 sedan at the time of the crash.

Harvey Henderson, 32, of Route 32, New Paltz, suffered a skull fracture and other injuries at 3:05 a. m. Sunday when his car failed to negotiate a curve on Schreiber's Lane, east of Route 32, New Paltz.

Troopers said Henderson's car skidded clockwise, struck a bridge rail on the left side of the road and crashed into a tree. Henderson was taken to Kingston Hospital in the New Paltz Fire Department ambulance.

A passenger in the car, Thomas Jenkins, 26, of Route 32, New Paltz, was taken to the hospital suffering chest and possible abdominal injuries, according to troopers. He was admitted to Kingston Hospital.

One of Key Questions:

How Many Military Officers Write Speeches for Selves?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the key questions—not emphasized so far in the Senate inquiry into censorship of military officers' speeches—is how many of them actually write their own speeches.

It can be reliably stated that few do although the Senate subcommittee got top-brass complaint about the kind of censoring they got and the fact that low-ranking subordinates used the red pencil.

It is doubtful that many of the military speech-makers even see the speeches written for them before they are submitted to the Pentagon censors: the Defense Department's Security Review Office.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara not long ago ordered officers to initial their speeches, as evidence that they at least looked at them, before sending them to the Security Review Office.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, retired chief of naval operations, complained to the subcommittee against review by Pentagon subordinates of what the top officers are going to say.

So did Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, chief of Army research. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent the subcommittee a statement saying: "Let our informed military speak."

But Gen. Thomas D. White, retired Air Force chief, said he didn't mind being reviewed by Pentagon underlings because "most speeches are written by junior officers and reviewed by junior officers of similar rank."

"I rarely personally wrote a speech myself," he said. "There were relatively low-level persons who wrote the speeches in the first place."

This is the usual procedure: A speech to be delivered by, say, an Army officer goes first to the Army security review to be sure it reveals no secrets and is in keeping with presidential policy.

From there it is sent to the Defense Department's Security Review Office.

If along the line there is any conflict, the speech can be submitted to Arthur Sylvester, McNamara's assistant secretary in charge of public affairs or if there is still conflict to McNamara himself.

President Kennedy backs the present policy, which was also Eisenhower's policy although now Eisenhower seems to be having second thoughts about it.

Backing it also are Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Robert der President Harry S. Truman. A. Lovett, defense secretary un-

This inquiry is the result of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that the military was being muzzled when it wanted to make anti-Communist talks.

One thing upon which everyone is agreed—including Thurmond—is that the military must be subordinate to civilian control.

The French have been cited as the prime example of the danger that can be created for a republic where the generals go from open opposition to the government to conspiracy against it.

So what the Senate subcommittee hearings boil down to after a week of testimony is not whether top government civilians have a right to censor military men's speeches but only how it should be done.

This then becomes a matter of judgment. That leaves the door wide open for a lot of wrangling but hardly for explosions.

9 Persons Killed In Sunday Blaze

That panicky cry, sobbed by a pajama-clad 11-year-old boy pounding on a neighbor's door, was the first alarm of a fire that took nine lives early Sunday morning in this western Massachusetts village.

Six children and three adults perished in the flames that swept through a two-story farmhouse two hours before dawn.

The sole survivor was Robert Deome Jr., mentally retarded, who escaped the flames by plunging through the glass of a rear door.

Those who died included his mother, Mrs. Robert Deome, 32; a brother, Charles, 6; the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Crandall 66 and 63, respectively, and five first cousins ranging in age from 2 to 10.

The cause of the fire was not known. State Police detective Lt. Timothy Keane, assigned to the Massachusetts fire marshal's office, said a probable cause was a basement heating plant explosion.

Given 1 to 100 Chance To Live, Girl Makes It

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Nora Gunning, 19, of nearby Blacklick came home Sunday. Doctors last October said she had only one chance in 100 of doing so.

Nora, who was en route to Mexico, suffered 30 broken bones, a collapsed lung and was in a coma for 3½ weeks after an automobile collision near Nashville, Tenn., last October. Doctors gave her a 1-in-100 chance to live.

For four months she has been in Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville staging one of the most surprising recuperations in that hospital's history. Sunday she was released and flew home.

"Oh, she's home and its wonderful," exclaimed her mother, Mrs. Robert Gunning.

"She doesn't have any definite plans yet," Mrs. Gunning said, "except that she plans to work in a hospital here this summer."

20 Pigs Perish In Barn Fire at Marist College

Fire destroyed a large barn and 20 pigs on the Marist College campus, North Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, Saturday night.

Fairview and Roosevelt Fire District companies battled the flames and prevented fire from spreading to a larger barn a short distance away.

Firemen said the barn, which was heated by a pot stove, was enveloped in flames when they arrived. Fire officials theorized sparks from the stove might have ignited straw on the floor.

The barn, 20 by 40 feet, was completely destroyed, authorities said.

Developing Programs For Caring for Aged

HARRISBURG (AP) — Five counties are to receive a total of $53,400 in state grants for developing their programs for caring for the aged.

The State Public Welfare Department, in making the weekend announcement, said the grants would be supplemented by $51,200 in local funds.

The funds will be used in programs designed to keep older people out of institutions, the department said.

The counties to receive the grants, and the size of the grants, are: Allegheny, $21,250; Luzerne, $19,000; Lancaster, $6,375; Wayne County, $5,275, and Lehigh, $1,500.

Salinger-Soviet Press Chief Talk Communications

PARIS (AP) — White House press secretary Pierre Salinger and his Soviet counterpart met today and there was speculation they discussed an exchange of television appearances by President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Salinger said earlier they would discuss ways to improve communications between the two countries. More specific information on their discussion was not immediately available, and there was no confirmation that they discussed an appearance by Kennedy on Soviet television and an exchange appearance by Khrushchev on U.S. networks.

Salinger told newsmen the question of a face-to-face meeting between the two leaders definitely would not b brought up in his talk with Kharlamov.

Salinger flew in Sunday for a two-day visit and Kharlamov arrived about the same time for what appeared a prearranged meeting.

Adzhubei, who is Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the Soviet government paper Izvestia, interviewed Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., in November.

Mailmen to Stage Mass Rally for More Money

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—About 2,000 mailmen will stage a mass rally in Washington March 5-7 to urge Congress to increase their pay, a spokesman for the National Association of Letter Carriers says.

Rademacher, in a speech here Saturday, said the security postal workers sought when they entered government service has turned out to be "guaranteed poverty."

"The postal employe begins with less than $70 a week after deductions," Rademacher told a local chapter gathering. "You cannot attract career-minded people with that kind of pay."

A NEW RECEPTIONIST

Q: I have taken a job as receptionist in a large company and would like to know how to greet those who come into the office on business. Do I rise and go forward to greet them or do I remain seated? Would the same answer follow if the visitor is a man or woman? I would appreciate any further help you can give me on this subject.

A: If you are seated at a switchboard or behind a desk working, you remain seated. You look up and say good morning, or good afternoon, and ask, "Can I help you?" The visitor then tells you whom he has come to see and if he doesn't give you his name, you ask for it and then call the office of the person he has come to see and say, "Mr. Jones to see Mr. Robertson." If he can be received, you direct the visitor to his office or say that Mr. Robertson is in conference but will see him shortly.

Q: I have just received my wedding invitations from the engravers and, to my great surprise, the year is left off. He says that the year is never put on a wedding invitation. It seems to me every wedding invitation I ever received had the year on it. Will you please tell me what is correct?

A: The year is omitted because unnecessary, and couldn't possibly be mistaken. The year, however, is always included on a wedding announcement.

Q: One of the men in our office is going to retire next month and we are giving him a farewell dinner in a very nice restaurant. A question has come up as to whether or not his wife should be invited. What is your opinion?

A: Unless other outsiders are to be present, it will not be necessary to invite her to this office farewell dinner.

Should the tissue papers be removed before mailing wedding invitations? The answer to this question as well as correct wedding forms will be found in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

FASHION FORECAST FOR SPRING, 1962

Spring opens with a new feminine fashion image: Soft, pretty, beguiling. The understated "little nothing" dress is gone. In its place is the "something dress," the dress that makes a statement. Clothes are more elaborate— in basic construction, in detail, in shape. And the shape is no longer based on the straight lines of the rectangle. It moves, it flows, it sways. It clings to the body through bias inserts. It is unmistakingly feminine.

These fashion trends for spring, 1962, have been summarized by Women's Wear Daily fashion editors after reviewing manufacturers' spring collections.

Some components of the new shape: Little jackets that float, ripple, flutter, some shaped like a capelet with the sleeves worked in, some true capes, some panels that form capes in the back alone. In the same feeling are backs that blouse or backs that are draped.

Ruffles are a strong softening ingredient, setting up a storm at the hemline (balancing the explosion at the shoulders), climbing up a skirt from hem to waistline or even shoulders. Others trail around in horizontal tiers or extend vertically bordering a jacket or a bodice. And along with the ruffles are godets, low flares, deep flounces.

The majority of skirts flare gently, sometimes echoing the flare at the top. Many feature fulness under the control of a wide, soft front panel, many have the fulness set low, reinforced by the ruffles and frills. Skirts are often worked on the bias so the figure is not concealed by a tent of fabric, but the fabric clings, no matter what its width.

Costuming takes many forms, planned to constitute a related whole or to stand on any of its parts, each part with a specific purpose. There are full-length coats that not only complement a dress but can serve as a dress itself. There are overblouses, tunics, the new little fly-aways that provide a dress with its own wrappings frequently a change of pace.

Fabrics have never been so thin, so drenched with color, so supple. Crepe stars, made for the softness of the hour and lending itself to the gentle flow of fabric, not only in black but in pale colors as well. It is balanced by night with chiffon, in inumerable prints that mingle pale watercolor pastels or deep tones in patterns of the utmost delicacy or boldest strength. Also featured are the lacy, open wools, often in colors of equal lightness. . .the knits appearing even for evening.

SPRING COAT AND SUIT FORM

It is the shape up front that counts in spring coats and suits. We find that front shaping moving toward the bustline is the identifying feature.

Suit shapes are the prettiest in years, short-jacketed with popular demi-fit now noticeably closer to the figure, with the suggestion of lifted bustline. A narrow set-in sleeve is making the news along with the small, notched collar standing away from the neckline.

To vary the spring pace, jackets turn to lowered banded necklines, scalloped hemlines, nude necklines, high single-or double breasted closings and a few asymmetric types.

Most significant news of spring is the diversity and softness in skirts. Shirred waistlines, trouser pockets, flared hemlines, wide wraps, front panel pleats take skirts away from the straight and narrow.

Newest coat is the narrow coat. Redingote is the magic word. Also favoring high front shaping are the cape back, princess silhoutte and tapered back coat. Again the set-in narrow sleeve and the trim, notched standway collar get the spring bid. Femininity appears by the way of embroidered lace collars and cuffs.

In fabrics the word is lacy. Sheer, lightweight fabrics, airy textured weaves tell the coating and suiting story. An excellent choice of cottons, cotton blends, silks, silk blends plus yards of woolens make the same featherweight point.

SOFTER LOOK IN SPORTSWEAR

Softer, more feminine sportswear is due in 1962. The movement is toward closer to the body shaping, more fitted but still not plastered. Waistlines are definitely marked but not cinched. Obvious expressions of the feminine look, such as ruffles, flounces, frills and fringe, will appear, but form rather than folderol will play a hand in utterly pure and simple clothes given over to new femininty.

Two- and three-piece suit ensembles gain importance. Jackets stress more fit, fitted front loose-back shaped waistlength as well as belted types. Skirts will be in motion via pleats or gentle flares. Overblouses will continue strong, but some undercurrents suggest a return to tuck-ins. Sleeves are slated for a comeback.

Stretch fabrics are to enter a new era, used for purposees other than "nailed-to-the-floor" pants. In jackets, pullovers, skirts and tops, stretch fabrics will no longer have to be anchored.

MILLINERY COMPLEMENTS FASHION IMAGE

The little girl look of young and carefree shapes, straw in the raw and crisp, windblown brims, little hats that perch on the back of the head or tilt tam-like to the side. . . all of these new spring hats are very much in keeping with new full skirts and nipped-in waists.

Scoops and more scoops, brims cupped to all degrees are among the trend setters. Cloches trace curves beyond eye level, contour steeped upon contour of the roughest and the smoothest straw, of all sorts of materials, including sheers.

Flip-ups, just about every kind imaginable, sweep hats in every direction, flashing the latest news in profile, even rollers keeling over to one side. Turned edges roll merrily along on brims as big as cartwheels.

Barets bounce all over the place in every shape and size—the biggest blown up to picture-hat proportions, the smallest pint-size and sleek as caps, some with visored base, some backposed, some profile, some youthful as sailor boys, some dramatic as Renaissance princes.

Hadassah Study Group Has Paper On Poet, Scholar

The Kingston Chapter of Hadassah's study group held its January meeting Thursday evening, Jan. 25, in the home of Mrs. Robert S. Yallum, Richmond Park.

Subjects for the evening were two great Jewish personalities of the middle ages, Judah Halevi and Moses Maimonides. Mrs. Herbert Lange presented an interesting and informative report on the two.

Halevi, born in Spain in the 11th century, was the first Jewish national poet. Fluent in the Hebrew language, he composed poetry which revealed his great love for Zion. Mrs. Lange read selections from his work, some of which is included in present-day prayerbooks.

Maimonides, a generation later, was a scholar and philosopher who systematized Jewish law and through his monumental work, "Guide for the Perplexed" justified religion and faith by means of philosophical logic.

A brief review of current events and personalities in the news was given.

The group will hold its next meeting Thursday, Feb. 22, in the home of Mrs. David Kline, 10 Len Court. Mrs. Arthur Kaufman will report on Rashi, the great French Talmudist. The group is open to all; anyone interested is invited to attend any study group session.

Bridal Shower Is Given Locally for Miss Ida Peller

A surprise bridal shower was given Thursday, Jan. 25 by Mrs. Frank Peller and Mrs. Edward Peller at the later's home. The guest of honor was Miss Ida Peller who will wed John Ringe of Blairstown, N. J., in February.

The following atended the shower: Mrs. William Hornbeck, Mrs. Raymond Winnie, Mrs. John Wolfersteig, Mrs. Wilson Wright, Mrs. William Lifer, Mrs. William Marks, Mrs. Theodore Kuehn, Mrs. William Thiel, Mrs. Peter Hoagland, Miss Diane Lifer and Miss Dorothy Schoenfeld. Gifts were also received from Miss Linda Hornbeck, Mrs. Sherman Adin and Mrs. C. Bennett.

Society Will Meet

The Ladies' Society of Santa Maria will hold a monthly meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m., at 200 North Street. A plastic demonstration will be a feature and all members are urged to attend.

Visiting committee: Mrs. A. W. Mollott, chairman, Miss Jane Austen, Mrs. Edward DeWitt, Mrs. Clifford Henze, Mrs. John Gill and Mrs. Maynard Mizel.

After the meeting, tea was served, honoring the six board members whose terms expire, and welcoming the six new board members, Mrs. John Gill, Mrs. John Hollenbeck, Mrs. Henry Millonig, Mrs. Howard C. St. John, Mrs. Maynard Mizel and Mrs. J. Frederick Scott.

Celuch Is Fair

The condition of Paul Celuch, 21, of East Kingston, hurt in a skidding accident Sunday on Route 32 just north of the Kingston City line, is reported as fair today at Kingston Hospital. According to Trooper Richard Ryan of Lake Katrine Barracks, Celuch's automobile skidded on an icy patch as he headed north on Route 32, went off the highway and rammed a telephone pole. He was taken to the Kingston Hospital in Fatum's Ambulance, suffering lacerations of the face and forehead.

Safe, Not Sorry

LE BAL MUSETTE—On Saturday, Feb. 3 members of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary will give their annual dance, proceeds of which will benefit the hospital and allow the volunteers to carry on their many worthwhile projects. Pictured making decorations for the dance, which has been named, "Le Bal Musette," are (l-r) Mrs. James Hanstein, Mrs. Edward Elbert, Mrs. William Keith, chairman, Mrs. Ward Ingalsbe Jr., and Mrs. Richard Rand. The gala event will be given at the Governor Clinton Hotel. (Freeman photo)

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

We're Equal — But We're Not Identical

Several days ago I tested my ability to teach English to a group of Spanish-speaking, uneducated parents who live in a slum area of my city. Returning home I found a visitor — a young, intensely "liberal" friend of ours. To his question I replied, "I don't know yet how I did. The problem is that these parents like their children, have different abilities. I'm probably going to have to separate them into classes of fast, medium and slow thinkers."

"That's a Fascist point of view!" cried my progressive young friend. And launched himself into a passionate speech on the Equality of Man.

Which was interesting. For only the week before an ultra conservative friend of mine had said to me, "Any child can learn as fast as another if he isn't a lazy good-for-nothing."

They can't suggest that children need different school treatment for different abilities lest the "liberals" in their communities accuse them of denying the Equality of Man. Nor can they suggest it to the conservatives lest any difference in schooling for their underprivileged children be called "coddling" — an outrageous indulgence of the underprivileged ones' moral weakness.

Both groups for their separate reasons must have all children's abilities equal.

Sometimes I wish that the Founding Fathers had written "All men are created equal, by which we do not mean identical."

It might have prevented many confusions. American women would not strive to be identical with men in the name of sexual equality.

If Mrs. White's boy makes an Ivy League college, Mrs. Black wouldn't feel abused because hers has to satisfy himself with a less prominent university. And children whose unstimulated brains work more slowly than the stimulated ones of others would not have to be schooled as though they didn't.

Equal does not mean identical—and even the Founding Fathers can't make it so. But the national fantasy is rough on children. For if you are a slow-thinking child in a class with faster ones, you start viewing yourself with shame.

So you play truant from school. Then your family cracks down on you. Soon both home and school have become places to avoid — and you wander the streets until you get into trouble — and another machine takes you over.

The distortion of our American creed of human equality is adding up to a lot of human unhappiness.

B'nai B'rith Women Hear Talk on Civil Defense, Fall-out

The Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women met Wednesday Jan. 24 at the Ahavath Israel Vestry Hall. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert Ronder. Mrs. Gerald Cohen was introduced as a guest.

Mrs. Herbert Powell announced the organization, in addition to giving patients at the Ulster County Infirmary birthday gifts, is donating birthday cakes for patients born in February. All those who wish to bake should contact Mrs. Powell.

Grateful appreciation was expressed to Kingston Knitting Mills for the donation of sweaters for children at the B'nai B'rith supported Levi Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Arnold Pinsly announced an increase in commercial subscriptions to the B'nai B'rith Calendar, the organization's greatest fund-raising drive.

The program for the evening featured Charles Arnold, Deputy Director of Civil Defense in Ulster County, and Morris Nussbaum, Chief of Radiological Service of the Ulster County Civil Defense. Mr. Arnold spoke about the Civil Defense organization which was created by the Civil Defense Act of 1950. Target areas including cities with important military installations and localities with more than a million population have been designated.

New York City is such an area, making Ulster County a target-support area, Mr. Arnold said. This means in case of a direct hit on New York, we are expected to aid them in every way and give our resources and personnel as a support to them.

A film "The Invisible Enemy," explaining the meaning and dangers of radioactive fallout was shown. The importance of adequate protection in the form of a fallout shelter was stressed and plans for building and stocking it with necessary items were given. A very stimulating question and answer period followed. The program was arranged by Mrs. Howard Geller and Mrs. Harvey Kronick.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ross Ellis and Norman Serinsky.

Guardsman Held

Air police from Stewart Air Force Base picked up Garry Lee Pelton, 18, Sunday night in Ellenville on a charge of being AWOL from the Coast Guard. According to state police from Ellenville who made the arrest, Pelton, who had been absent without leave from the Coast Guard since Jan. 5, had been working at an Ellenville plant under the name of Jerry Bolton. He was picked up in a small apartment on Route 209, south of Ellenville and also gave another address as 125 Dwyer Avenue, Liberty. He has been assigned to the cutter Fire Bush.

Western Indians believed the grizzly bear had supernatural powers because of its unusual ability to recover from wounds.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT J. HENRY of Port Ewen were guests of honor at a surprise dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perry at LeHerb's on Sunday, Jan. 21. The couple were observing their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. Henry is a postmaster. The couple were married on January 21, 1937 in Presentation Church, Port Ewen by the Rev. Martin Leddy, CSsR. Mrs. Charles Perry had served as honor attendant for her sister and Benjamin Henry had been best man for his brother. Among those attending were the Henry's son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Henry, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Henry, Mrs. Benjamin Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beattie, Mrs. James Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. B. Coniglio, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Griggs, Mrs. Josephine Marabell, Miss Jennie Rienzo and Miss Rose Divino.

COMMUNION BREAKFAST IS PLANNED—The Altar-Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Parish in Kingston will sponsor a communion breakfast on Sunday, Feb. 18. Breakfast plans are being made by (l-r) Mrs. Walter Dougherty, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Rydak, co-chairman and Mrs. Donald Quick, president of the Society. The breakfast will be served at the Kingston Hotel. Tickets are now available from members of the group and should be purchased early. (Freeman photo)

Trailways Routs Hub, 93-56; Adolph's Defeats Bait Box

EXPERT INSTRUCTION—Tom Hennessey, St. Louis bowling ace, points out fundamentals to Bob Murphy, son of Police Chief and Mrs. Robert Murphy, during Sunday afternoon clinic at Sangi's Bowlero. (Freeman Photo).

Joe Uhl and Marty Kaye combined for 53 points to lead Trailways Cafeteria to a 93-56 win over the Hub Delicatessen in the second game of a Rec Cage league doubleheader last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In the opener, Adolph's of Red Hook squeaked by Carroll's Bait Box, 56-50.

Uhl scored 30 points to pace the Trailways and Kaye followed with 23. They were joined by Bill Fitzgerald with 14 and Gary Barnes with 13 markers. The winners jumped to an early lead and were never threatened. Al Short rimmed 20 points for the Hub five.

The Bait Box rallied in the final period but couldn't overcome a 10 point deficit. Red Hook was paced by Don Conn with 20 points and big Ron Miller with 13. Dick Terlingen had 12 for the losers.

Uhl Fails to Pass English, Biology, Is Out of College

Joe Uhl, who went into Boston University with a hatful of basketball scoring records set at Kingston High during a sensational three-year career, couldn't make it, at least schoolwise.

Uhl confirmed this morning that he had failed English and Biology last week during mid-year examinations and had been dropped by school officials.

Until the time of his dismissal, he was leading the Terrier frosh team in scoring and had been labeled as a good prospect by cage coaches at the school.

The basketball ace hasn't decided on future plans but stated he may enroll at another college in September. If so, he will not be able to play basketball for one year.

St. Mary's Clubs Score Cage Wins

Key baskets by Dann Heppner and Jim Williams in the final seconds of play gave St. Mary's of Kingston a 44-41 triumph over St. Mary's of Hudson in a varsity CYO tilt yesterday at the Greene County city.

In the other contest, the local jayvee five pulled way ahead in the final stages to trounce the home team, 46-25.

Ohio State Back in Action, Hosts Purdue Cagers Tonight

Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball, in midterm doldrums the last two weeks, swings back into high gear this week with all members of the top 10 in action and second-ranked Kentucky and third-rated Cincinnati busiest of them all.

While undefeated and No. 1-ranked Ohio State (14-0), idle since thumping Purdue 91-65 a week ago, plays a return engagement with the Boilermakers tonight at home before taking on Northwestern Saturday, Kentucky (13-1) and Cincinnati (14-2) swing into a three-game schedule.

Kentucky, pacing the Southwestern Conference with a 4-0 mark, takes on three of the league's lower echelon—Georgia Tech tonight, Georgia Wednesday and Florida Friday.

Battling for Title

Cincinnati, battling to stay in the Missouri Valley race with a 4-2 standing back of ninth-ranked Bradley's 5-1 and Wichita's 5-2, meets two conference foes—Drake Tuesday at home and North Texas away Saturday. In between the Bearcats take on independent Houston at Houston Thursday.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State, 13-2 after edging Iowa State 56-55, makes only one appearance this week. The Wildcats are at home Saturday to Nebraska and need the victory to keep on the heels of Colorado's Buffaloes, whose 4-0 mark is best in the Big Eight Conference. K State's league mark is 4-1.

Southern California, fifth-ranked at 12-3, also has only one game on the week's agenda, meeting UCLA away Friday. Sixth-ranked Duquesne faces two foes, one of them tough Villanova.

Two League Foes

The Dukes, 14-2 after stopping LaSalle 80-66 Saturday, take on Villanova (15-2) Wednesday in what could be the game of the week. Villanova polished off Memphis State 109-84 Saturday with Hubie White getting 30 points and four teammates scoring in double figures.

Duke (14-2), ranked seventh and tied with North Carolina for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead after downing Wake Forest 82-68, clashes with two league foes — South Carolina at home Tuesday and at North Carolina Saturday.

Bowling Green (14-1), No. 8, returns to action Saturday after a week's idleness, meeting Miami (Ohio) on Miami's court Saturday. Bradley (12-3) playing without All-America Chet Walker, had a relatively easy time improving its Mo-Valley lead Saturday in downing North Texas State 84-70. The Braves face a couple of toughies this week in Tulsa tonight and St. Louis Saturday, both at home.

Mississippi State (14-1), trailing Kentucky in the Southeastern Conference with a 4-1 mark, shouldn't have any trouble holding its place in the top 10 unless Louisiana State causes trouble Saturday. The Rebels warm up for the league clash against non-conference Delta State tonight.

The Ohio State-Purdue game brings together two All-Americas —Ohio State's Jerry Lucas and Purdue's Terry Dischinger—in a return engagement. In their first clash a week ago, Lucas outscored the Boilermaker ace 32-19 and outrebounded him 21-1. Dischinger had a brilliant day against Wisconsin Saturday. He scored 50 points in a losing effort as the Badgers downed Purdue 89-86.

Dischinger's scoring rampage, however, was only second to Jimmy Rayl, who tossed in 56 points, including a game-winning 20-footer in Indiana's 105-104 victory over Minnesota.

Roush, McKechnie Added to Hall of Fame

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Edd Roush and Deacon Bill McKechnie, two sparkling names in National League history, have been named to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Roush, 68, and McKechnie, 74, were elected Sunday as the 89th and 90th members by the veterans' committee which considers only players inactive for at least 30 years. They will be inducted July 23 at Cooperstown, N. Y., along with Bobby Feller and Jackie Robinson, named last week by the baseball writers from men retired at least five years but not more than 30 years.

It was fitting that Roush and McKechnie should get the nod at the same time. They were teammates in the Federal League at Indianapolis and Newark in 1914-15 and with the New York Giants in 1916 before they were traded with Christy Mathewson to Cincinnati for Buck Herzog and Wade Killefer. In the winter they are neighbors in Bradenton, Fla.

"It's all right, but sometimes these things come too late," Roush said in Bradenton. "It takes them too long to vote on these players. Waiting for 30 years after a man becomes inactive, and five years to vote him in is too long. By that time a lot of men are not around any more."

Roush topped the writers' poll in 1960 but did not have the required three-fourths vote. This was the first time the veterans had considered him.

Is in Florida

It was ironic that Roush should get the news in Florida. When he was a player he shunned spring training until the last minute. One year, 1930, he held out all season and never did join the Giants.

Missing training camp didn't seem to hurt Roush. His lifetime average for 16 years was .325 and he won the batting title at Cincinnati with .341 in 1917 and .321 in 1919. He was a left-handed batter and thrower. He was an excellent center fielder who liked to play shallow, right behind second base. In his day he used the heaviest bat (48 ounces) of any player, even bigger than Babe Ruth's famous club.

McKechnie also was a big league player, active as an infielder from 1907 to 1920, most of the time with Pittsburgh, but he was elected as a manager.

Deacon Bill won a pennant at Pittsburgh in 1925, beating Washington in the World Series. He won at St. Louis in 1928, losing to the New York Yankees and at Cincinnati in 1939 and 1940. The Reds lost to the Yanks in four straight in '39 but beat Detroit in seven games in '40. After he stepped down at Cincinnati in 1946, he coached under Lou Boudreau at Cleveland from 1947-1949 and again in Boston, 1952-53. While he was managing at Cincinnati, Roush served under him as a coach in 1938.

Gail Purdy Winner In Speed Skating

Miss Purdy won the title Sunday.

Tom Hennessey Fails To Average 180 Here

Fresh from a 4th place finish in the Empire State Open at Albany, St. Louis bowling ace Tom Hennessey came to Kingston Sunday to find a lot of trouble waiting for him at the Sangi Bowlero.

With a jam packed house looking on Sunday night, the personable St. Louis Irishman hit just two 200 games out of seven and averaged a dismal 178.5 in six doubles exhibition and jackpot games.

Hennessey, former All America and ABC Masters champion, rolled unimpressive games of 183, 153, 183, 152, 158, 207 and 220. To compound matters, he and partners, dropped six of the seven double sets.

He linked his highest score (220) with Tom Barringer's 166 for a 386 total to beat Ken Joseph (181) and Jerry Kaplan (200) who had 381.

Kildy Corrado and Dick Howard rolled 244 and 236, respectively for a whopping 480 doubles to overwhelm Hennessey (207) and Jerry Kaplan (133) for 340. Corrado and Howard then rolled 410 against a 300 for Hennessey and Harold Broskie.

Kaplan and Ken Joseph rolled 335 to 341 by Hennessey and Ed Mills.

Jones Dairy Wins Pair Of Valley Loop Matches

Jones Dairy moved another game ahead of the field in the Hudson Valley league by scoring two wins over Three Brothers Egg Farms Saturday night at the Bowlero.

Vince Carpino anchored Charles Ramsey to its pair of victories with 221-225-191-637. Fred Visconti led the Newburgh club with 168-191-243-602. The Kingston team won the first two games with 953 and 900 but hit only 850 in the final effort.

Frisco, Pitt Are Leaders in ABL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crucial weekend series sweeps by San Francisco and Pittsburgh put new leaders in each division of the American Basketball League.

San Francisco, whose 7-0 second half record is the only perfect mark among league teams, took over the Western Division lead with a Friday-Sunday sweep of Kansas City. A 106-102 victory Sunday moved the Saints two games out in front after they won 106-104 Friday night and broke a first place deadlock.

Pittsburgh, showing only a 6-6 record, replaced Chicago as the Eastern Division leader following a sweep of a three-game series. The Rens knocked off the Majors 103-87 Sunday, breaking a tie for the lead. Chicago had been in first place.

Don Bowra Leads Archers With 474

Don Bowra shot 474 to win the 450 class in the weekly indoor archery shoot last week at the Teen Age center. Trailing the leader were Mel Farris, 463, Clinton Hawes, 422, and Will Stoutenberg, 420.

Winner in the 375 class was Don Planthaber with 403. Then came Ron Bruck, 378, Willis Eckert, 351, and Carl Stoutenberg, 306.

In the free style class, Art Pinkham had 531 while Bill Hornbeck had 427 and John Marsil 411. Charles Beechtle had 643 and Tom Bruck 609 in the handicap class.

Awards will be presented this week to all winners of past shoots.

Bill Skowron Signs Contract, Becomes 9th Yank in the Fold

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Moose is loose.

That's the word from big, heavily muscled Bill (Moose) Skowron, the New York Yankees robust hitting first baseman with a history of back trouble who became the ninth member of the world champions to sign his 1962 baseball contract.

Skowron, the team's regular first baseman since 1954, received a modest raise Saturday to $35,000 for the 1961 campaign in which he hit .267 with 28 homers and 89 runs batted in, then swung at a .353 clip against the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series.

The 31-year-old slugger, who has his own system of exercising designed to stretch and strengthen his back muscles, has been keeping loose during the off-season by going through his paces every morning right after hopping out of bed.

"They told me at a Mayo Clinic checkup a few years ago," said Skowron, "that my muscles didn't have much elasticity. Since that time, I've had these stretching exercises to do. No question about it, they've helped me.

Steady Patient

With the exception of 1956, a year in which he was free from injury and hit .308 with 23 homers and 90 RBI, Skowron has been a steady patient. But the last two years he has been relatively free from his aching back.

The Reds, meanwhile, signed five players, including second baseman Don Blasingame and former Yankee catcher Jesse Gonder, while the Chicago White Sox lured pitcher Ray Herbert and three rookies into the fold.

Blasingame, who hit .222 last year, came to the Reds in a trade with San Francisco that sent catcher Ed Bailey to the Giants.

The White Sox acquired Herbert in a trade with Kansas City and the veteran hurler compiled a 9-6 record for Chicago after a 3-6 start with the A's.

The Baltimore Orioles got third baseman Brooks Robinson to agree to terms and the Washington Senators came up with contracts from rookie pitchers Roy Heiser and Carl Middledorf. The Philadelphia Phillies signed outfielder Ted Savage and Pittsburgh inked third baseman Don Hoak.

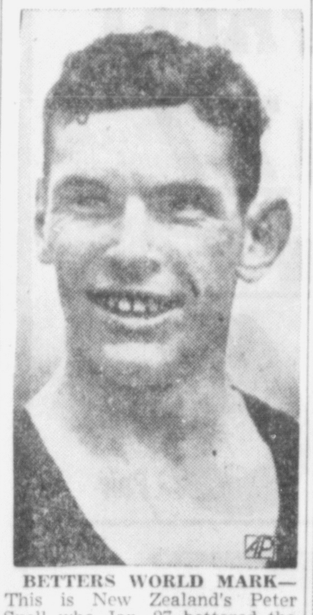

Trotters, Knicks Win Cadet Contests

Globetrotters rapped the Warriors, 38-4, and the Knicks defeated the Celtics, 18-5, in YMCA Cadet basketball games on Saturday.

The scores:

Globetrotters (38) — Schantz (6), Buddenhaggen (22), Bently (8), Hillis, Cahill, Korzendorfer (2). Warriors (4) — Kent (2), Clark (2), G. Grier, Mitchell, O'Donnell, Yaple, Emerick.

Knicks (18) — Bodie (6), Flowers (6), L. Flowers (6), Clum, Brown, Johnston, Newton. Celtics (5) — Esposito (2), Sharp (2), Lewis (1,) Josefski, Barten, Bodie.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

When Fred Lening of Yardley, Pa. was thrown into the breach as a last minute substitute for Lee Jouglard in a clinic-exhibition appearance at Woodstock Lanes, the unanimous reaction was: Who dat?

Lening had compiled an impressive "in trade" record prior to his exhibition in Woodstock, but his name had yet to achieve the stature of Don Carter, Ray Bluth, Dick Weber, Tony Lindemann.

But the portly, 40-year-old bowling lanes operator climaxed a string of brilliant performances on the Professional Bowlers Circuit with a victory in the 5th annual Empire State Open Saturday in Albany.

With a nationwide TV audience, which included Woodstock looking on, Lening turned back the challenge of the nation's No. 1 Negro bowler, J. Wilbert Sims of Chicago, 254-243 in a pulstating sudden death playoff for first place and a $5,000 prize.

Lening cracked the 16-man finals in both the National All Star and World Invitational, finishing seventh in the World. These achievments are not easily come by and his Albany victory was merely the culmination of a string of steady, top-flight performances.

It is safe to say that the next time Fred Lening shows up at Woodstock Lanes, the folks will know him.

• Well, What Happened:

Meanwhile, on another set of lanes—Sangi's Bowlero—one of the country's finest—Tom Hennessey of St. Louis—suffered through a dismal seven-game exhibition in which he failed to average 180, a mere 178.5 as a matter of fact.

The depth of Hennessey's miseries has to be measured against the background of his week's performance in the Empire State Open in Albany. He had advanced to the semi-final round where Lening, the eventual winner, eliminated him.

What happened to Hennessey at Sangi's is one of those inexplicable mysteries of bowling. It happens to the best of them, but seldom has a topflight star ever rolled that poorly in a local exhibition.

Hennessy was pleasantly moaning about "an all time low" for him. It also happened to be an all-time low for a local exhibition. The long parade of nationally famous bowlers who have paraded before Kingston audiences over the years is impressive—Jimmy Smith, Andy Varipapa, Joe Falcaro, Tony Sparando, Joe Wilman, George Young, Junie McMahon, Billy Golombiewski and a flock of lesser lights. Never did they have it quite as bad as Mr. Hennessey, who was probably quite happy to leave town as fast as he could.

• Carter and Weber, Too:

It is improbably that alleys 15 and 16 are such monsters at the Bowlero, but the superb St. Louis tenpin craftsmen simply couldn't hold the line except for one fleeting game.

Up at Albany, there were a couple of distinguished early casualties in the persons of Don Carter and Dick Weber, currently the world's finest bowlers. Carter and Weber, the current Moneybags of the PBA tour, never got untracked, Carter finishing a dismal 100th or thereabouts.

It was a weekend of contrasting fortunes. Fred Lening was introduced to area audiences after he paid his first visit here. Don't be too hard on Tom Hennessey. He was a dismal disappointment to the large crowd of local fans, to be sure. But There is also ample evidence that he really can bowl. 192 bowlers in Albany would attest to that any day.

Wallkill Wins, 68 - 42, Over New Paltz Cagers

With four players scoring in double figures, Wallkill kept in the thick of the UCAL pennant picture with a 68-42 win over visiting New Paltz Saturday night. The contest was postponed from Friday.

Larry Martinez, Dave Myers, Doug Edebohls and Eddie Mooney were the ringleaders for the defending champions, who are now 6-1 in league play. Ken Freer of New Paltz led all scorers with 19 points but he received little help from his mates.

The host school won a well-played jayvee contest, 53-49. Bob Crawford and Paul Nevin had 14 points each for Wallkill while Clayt Whitted rimmed 26 for the losers.

Uelses Predicts 16-Foot Vault

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Uelses, a German-born U.S. Marine, confidently predicted today he would scale one of track and field's last remaining unassaulted peaks after his record-breaking pole vault effort.

"I'll make that 16 feet pretty soon," the rugged leatherneck from Quantico, Va., said. He set an indoor record of 15 feet 10¼ inches in an invitational meet Saturday. Don Bragg held the old mark of 15-9½.

If he does it will wipe out the last of four magic figures that stood untouched until the last decade.

The first of the four to fall was the 4-minute mile barrier, broken by Dr. Roger Bannister in England in 1954. Then, in short order, Parry O'Brien bettered the 60-foot shot put and Charley Dumas soared over 7 feet in the high jump.

The 6-foot-1, 172-pound athlete refused to try the 16-foot mark Saturday because he said he didn't want to risk aggravation of a groin injury suffered several weeks ago.

His effort also exceeded the listed outdoor record of 15-9¾ by Bob Gutowski. It equalled an outdoor vault by George Davies of Oklahoma State last year, which is pending official recognition.

Indoor marks are not recognized as world records by the International Amateur Athletic Federation since indoor vaulting is not widespread outside North America.

Maple Leafs Lose Ground in NHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs picked up three of four possible points in weekend National Hockey League action but still lost ground in their struggle to overtake the first place Montreal Canadiens.

Montreal, feasting on the tail-enders, clipped Boston 5-1 Sunday night after taking New York by the same score the night before. Toronto meanwhile gained one victory and a tie.

The Leafs tied Detroit 2-2 Sunday night, while New York suffered its 10th straight defeat, a 3-0 shutout by the Chicago Black Hawks and goalie Glenn Hall.

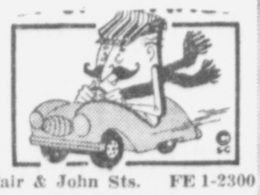

Montreal's victory extended its unbeaten string to 10 straight — eight victories and two ties. Don McKenney collected his 20th goal for Boston and now has six consecutive 20-goal seasons.

Chicago got a 29 save performance from Hall en route to the decision over the punchless Rangers. New York, which has suffered two straight shutout at home, has scored only two goals in the last 13 periods.

Detroit's tie with Toronto may have been costly to the already-injured Red Wings. Winger Vic Stasiuk suffered twisted ligaments in his right knee and will be out for 10 days. Wings Howie Glover and Leo Labine were injured earlier and did not play.

Celts Lose 4th Straight Contest Without Russell

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If anyone doubts the value of Bill Russell to the Boston Celtics, the performance of the three-time National Basketball Association champs in the last four games may change their mind.

Russell, considered the best defensive player in the game, has missed the last four games because of a foot injury and the Celtics have lost every one.

Their four-game losing streak matches their longest since March, 1957, and has cut their Eastern Division lead from 10 to six games.

"We're going to stay put, just go with what we have," sighed Boston coach Red Auerbach Sunday after his team lost to Philadelphia for the second straight time, 133-129, in overtime.

With Russell out, the tallest Celtic player is 6-foot-7 Tommy Heinsohn. Every other club in the league has a pair between 6-foot-9 and 7-foot-3.

The lack of height was obvious Sunday as two Celtics fouled out attempting to control Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain. It was Chamberlain's 50 points and the clutch free throws of Tom Meschery that won the game.

In other games, Cincinnati beat Syracuse 139-131, St. Louis continued its drive toward a playoff spot with a 110-97 triumph over Detroit and Los Angeles whipped Chicago 124-109.

HUNTING and FISHING

The first week of the 1962 special shotgun season for deer in Westchester County was marked by fairly decent deer hunting weather, Game Protectors and field biologists reported that most hunters saw some deer generally in limited numbers, says Warren H. McKeon, regional supervisor in Region 8.

A few cases of violations of the regulations were prosecuted, but generally the season progressed smoothly without serious incidents.

The take of deer tabulated by days follows: January 15 (94); Jan. 16 (44); Jan. 17 (16); Jan. 18 (7); Jan. 19 (14) for a total of 175.

A high percentage of the der taken were in the older age categories and several were checked in with unshed antlers. These included at least one 8 point and one 10 point buck. Although the total take will undoubtedly be about the same as last year, the Department feels that the season is accomplishing its purpose as most of the deer being removed are coming out of the problem areas.

COLLARFUL:

A note out of Chillicothe, Ohio says that now they're putting collors on deer, but they won't put the animals on a leash.

They'll be running wild in Pike and Tar Hollow State Forests. The collar will be of three different colors. Each will represent a different location where the deer are released. When the deer are sighted, Division of Wildlife experts will know how far the animal has roamed and how long it took it to get there.

Conservation Department Score Always Increasing

The scope of the State Conservation Department's responsibilities continued to grow during the past year, Commissioner Harold G. Wilm has reported.

Among other things, the Department made important purchases including: 15 public campsite areas totalling 6,000 acres; 19 miles of stream fishing rights; 4 boat launching sites; 149 multiple-use areas totalling 21,000 acres; 3 wetland areas totaling 1,700 acres and 78 areas totalling 31,000 acres for wilderness consolidation and access.

The first major reorganization of field services in the history of the Conservation Department was put into operation with 35 district offices being consolidated into 9 regions.

Legislation was enacted in 1961 to strengthen the administration of the state's marine fisheries. The position of Director of Marine Fishers was authorized.

Cooperative agreements under the Fish and Wildlife Management Act, designed to develop better landowner-sportsmen relations, opened up over 225,000 acres, most of which were formerly posted, to hunting and fishing.

At the four Conservation Camps for boys operated by the Department, 1,500 youths attended, a new record.

More than 50,000 new hunters were trained under a Hunter Safety Training Program in cooperation with 5,000 volunteer certified training instructors. All in all, a historic year.

Daniels, Chapman Set For Bout at St. Nick's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Daniels of New York, aims to run his undefeated streak to 16 tonight when he faces Claude Chapman, former New England heavyweight champion, at New York's St. Nicholas Arena.

Daniels (15-0) outpointed Chapman (25-7-1) in a six-rounder last September.

Ingemar Johansson's comeback has been delayed at least a week because the former heavyweight champion's back is bothering him again. Ingo had been scheduled to meet Joe Bygraves of Jamaica in Goteborg, Sweden, Friday night. Johansson beat Bygraves six years ago in the same city.

Middleweights Henry Hank of Detroit and Joey Giardello of Philadelphia collide in a 10-rounder Tuesday night at Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

Welterweights Ralph Dupas of New Orleans and Charley Scott of Philadelphia meet for the fourth time Saturday night. This one will be televised from New York's Madison Square Garden. Dupas, No. 2 welter contender, holds a 2-1 edge in the rivalry.

Emile Griffith former world welterweight champion, makes his first fighting appearance in his native Virgin Islands Saturday night. He meets Johnny Torres, a so-so newcomer from Paterson, N.J., in a 10-rounder at St. Thomas. Griffith, now living in [illegible] done all of his pro fighting since he left the is-

Luis Rodriguez may make his next fight in London, Feb. 20 against Tony Mancini.

Rodriguez won 9-1 margins in rounds from both referee Jimmy Devlin and judge Joe Agnello and a 7-3 edge from judge Jimmy Riccio. The AP card had it 9-1 for Rodriguez.

Rodriguez, a 3½-1 choice, scored his fourth straight victory. The No. 3 welterweight contender has a 41-2 record but no hope of a title shot for some time. First welterweight king Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba and Emile Griffith of New York have to meet in a rubber bout. Then the winner of that one probably will take on Argentina's Jorge Fernandez.

Upstate Hockey Teams Ready for Some Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clarkson and Rensselaer [illegible] idle since Jan. 13, return to action this week against [illegible] from Canada and Maine.

Clarkson, the top-rated collegiate team in the east, meets Sir George Williams of Montreal Friday at Potsdam, a night after the Canadians play RPI at Troy.

On Saturday, RPI will travel to Waterville, Maine, to oppose Colby, another of the east's better teams.

In weekend action, St. Lawrence downed McGill, 6-3, Saturday night at Canton for its 12th victory of the season, and Colgate scored an 8-4 triumph over American International at Hamilton.

The company is a wholly autonomous part of a large organization offering the opportunity of the small unit combined with the security and stability of a large group. The company has a strong record of growth and an ambitious plan for the future. It is completing a large new plant located near the Saugerties Exit of the New York Thruway into which operations will be moved in the Spring. The men who fill the following positions will have much to do with the company's future growth.

Product Manager, Computer Components

The man who fills this position will have principal responsibility for the program in this sizeable share of the firm's business. Present products include memory cores and core matrixes and stacks, ferrite recording heads, pulse transformer cores. Responsibility for relations with computer accounts, overall sales program to the market and maintenance and expansion of the product line are included. The man should have well rounded background including technical education and marketing experience. Familiarity with computers, particularly memories, is desirable.

Sales Correspondent

Good technical background with natural aptitude for sales contact together with growth potential is desired. Engineer would be preferred but not required. This man should develop within a year or two into a sales engineering capacity. In the meantime he will carry out written and telephone contact between customers and field representatives and the factory.

Applications Engineer, Computer Memories

Good technical background and direct experience in development or application of computer memories is required here. Man will carry out customer contact, assisting with design, recommending specifications, assembly and testing techniques.

Development Engineer, Computer Memories

Strong technical background and direct experience in development of computer memories or circuitry closely associated with memory techniques are required.

Assistant Plant Superintendent

To assume full production responsibility for ferrite memory core manufacture, memory core plane and stack assembly and ceramic glass bead production. Man should have solid production management experience and background in ceramic manufacture or electronic assembly.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Klainbard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandotte 2-1235.

Cornell Has Pair Of Loop Contests Slated This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cornell's basketball team will have two chances this week to prove whether it is one of the two hottest clubs in the Ivy League.

If the Big Red, one of Upstate New York's best this season, overcome Harvard Friday and Dartmouth Saturday, and Penn or Princeton can subdue Yale, it will have sole possession of the Ivy League lead. Yale and Cornell now share first place with league records of 4-0.

In addition to the Ivy games, Cornell entertains Springfield Wednesday. The Big Red's overall record is 12-2.

During the weekend, Canisius set a school scoring record in defeating Boston College, 108-80, Saturday night at Buffalo. The victory was Canisius' seventh, all at home, against six losses, all on the road.

Results of other Saturday night games for Upstate teams:

Holy Cross 83, Niagara 80; Stonehill, 54, Siena 41; LeMoyne 61, Iona 58; Buffalo State 76, Gannon 71; Baldwin Wallace 81, Rochester Tech 62; Grace 73, Roberts Wesleyan 71.

Saturday — Plattsburgh State at Buffalo State; St. Lawrence at Rochester; Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Clarkson; Cornell at Dartmouth; Oneonta State at Roberts Wesleyan; Albany State at Potsdam State; St. Bonaventure vs. Providence and Syracuse vs. Canisius in doubleheader at Buffalo; Seton Hall at Niagara; Ithaca at Oswego State; Manhattan at Siena; Bucknell at Colgate; Gannon at LeMoyne; Fairleigh Dickinson at Hartwick; Buffalo at Baldwin - Wallace; Wilkes at Harpur.

League Meeting Spearheads Drive Toward Youth Center

The first concrete steps toward the eventual establishment of a teenage youth center in Woodstock were taken at a meeting of local teenagers and adults last week at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church.

The meeting was sponsored by the League of Women Voters workshop on youth recreation and activities and was headed by Mrs. Sara Mulligan, chairman. The League which has the matter under study did not take any official stand, but merely sponsored the forum.

About 15 teenagers were present and their chief spokesmen were John Gordon, who was an assistant chairman of the meeting; Ed Varney, and Thomas DeWitt.

Three specific decisions emanated from the two and a half hour meeting: (1) Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux promised to locate a suitable building where the teenagers could meet; (2) Dr. George R. Sullivan, District Principal of the Onteora Central Schools District, volunteered to serve as adult advisor to the teenage group and (3) the teenagers agreed to form their own organization to operate the youth center with adult assistance.

Need Own Building

Consensus of opinion was that the teenagers would need a headquarters of their own. School buildings and other installations were rejected as unsatisfactory for use as an all-purpose youth center. Long range plans projected the possibility of building a new youth center.

It was agreed that the teenagers would have to form a representative organization with their own leaders as the first step toward coordinated teenage activity in Woodstock township. Teenage problems and aspirations were discussed at great length and the teenagers seemed to be impressed that so many prominent Woodstock citizens were interested in their problems.

A general meeting of all teenagers in the township, some 300, will be held as soon as a suitable headquarters is located. In the meantime, the young people will be giving thought to organizational plans.

Taxpayers Hear Board Members

Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association heard Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux and Councilman William West as guest speakers at its January meeting.

Councilman West, who was elected in November, was welcomed by association president John Melia as a former member. The appearance of Supervisor Molyneaux was unexpected by the committee and various items on the agenda were dropped to give him time to speak and answer questions from the floor. He discussed the eventual uses of the Reynolds House and possible tax increases due to new building on a county level.

West, in discussing the various aspects of local government, pointed up the continuing need for taxpayers groups and the work that such groups can do in all communities. He recognized the efforts in behalf of all township taxpayers. Councilman West also suggested the concentration of Association efforts on important problems so as not to become likened to a vintage car, numerous with unattended rattles.

In summation, he deplored the general lack of attendance by townspeople at the monthly board meetings (average number including the press is six) and urged, with sincerity, that all taxpayers take an active interest in town affairs. One way this can be accomplished is by being present at such meetings whenever possible. It was Councilmen West's opinion that this was the only way in which elected officials could know and respect the wishes of the people.

New Committee

Principal item of association business was the appointing of a legislative committee under the chairmanship of Fred Freitag. This committee will select from the numerous bills pending before the legislature those that have the most important bearing on public expenditures. Final reports of the committee findings will be presented to the membership for discussion and action.

"Because this is the organization's prime reason for existence and because of the tremendous increase in spending at all levels the time has come to voice the opinions of this group," said President John Melia.

Additional committee reports were given by Karl Seiger, the association observer at meetings of the Planning Board and a report on town board activities written by Charles J. Tiano and read by President Melia. Tiano's report indicated that the Town Board had made several illegal designations and appointments at its December meeting.

The Civil Defense and Shelter committee did not report as its chairman, Lawrence G. Casey, was absent because of illness. members were informed that a partial report will be covered in the next issue of the Eagle.

Snell Now Aiming For World's Mark In Half-Mile Race

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — While his coach jubilantly predicted he could cut the record to an unbelievable 3.48, Peter Snell, the new world mile recordholder, said today he would try to break the world half-mile standard Saturday.

Snell, who trimmed a tenth of a second off Herb Elliott's mile mark with a 3:54.4 clocking in a meet at Cooks Gardens in nearby Wanganui Saturday, said he thinks he can beat the half-mile record of 1:46.8 held by American Tom Courtney.

"I'm going to give it a whirl in a meet in Christchurch Saturday," the 22-year-old surveyor said. "They have a fast track there and I think I can do it."

Until he broke the record, Snell never had been able to get into the sub-4-minute-mile club. In fact until he beat Roger Moens of Belgium in the 800 meters in an Olympic record 1:46.3 at the 1960 Rome games, Snell had not made much of a mark in international competition.

Elliott, who set his record of 3:54.5 on Aug. 6, 1958 in Dublin, said at Cambridge University that he will head for Sweden in July to start serious training for the Empire Games in Perth Australia, later this year.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Bryan Foy has a rugged job—making a film that will please an important movie fan: President John F. Kennedy.

Foy, a veteran who made the first all-talking movie, is producing "PT 109," about the President's wartime heroics. If he seems confident in his chore, it may be because he's also a Democrat—and a Fitzgerald. That's the real name of his famed theatrical family.

No casting has been done yet, but everything else is getting ready. The script is being finished by Richard Breen "Pete Kelly's Blues," "Titanic."

San Diego will reproduce the PT training center at Melville, Conn. Ocean Reef on Key Largo, Fla., will portray the island of Rendova, Kennedy's South Pacific base.

The President was amused that anyone would want to re-create such a miserable place as Rendova, Foy reported.

Getting PT boats was a problem. Only a few still exist, most of them converted to pleasure craft. The Navy was no help—"everyone in the government is bending over backward to give this picture no more help than an ordinary war picture would get, and that's as it should be," said Foy.

Three aircraft rescue craft, which could double for PTs were finally located in Florida.

Shooting on the $2-million film is expected to start between March 1 and 15, pending choice of a star. The President has approval of who will portray him, and Foy said he'll send the White House a script, too.

Extended Forecast Through Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Eastern New York — Cold throughout most of the week, with temperatures averaging 5-10 degrees below normal. Some moderation about Thursday or Friday. No major storms indicated. Snow flurries almost daily, principally over the north and west, and chance of some light snow Thursday or Friday.

Western New York — Temperatures will average 6-10 degrees below normal. Continued cold until a little warmer about Thursday, but colder again during the latter part of the week. Precipitation will average ¼ to ½ inch, melted, as light snow or snow flurries most days of the week.

Temperature normals—Normal temperatures for Upstate New York range from daytime highs of 25-33 to nighttime lows of 5-10 north and 10-18 south.

Killed With Shoe

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Evelyn Sneed, 21, was arrested Sunday night by police in connection with the death of her husband, Eulis, 30, who died of a fractured skull suffered 21 days earlier.

Cold Hits Area

Ulster County experienced one of its coldest nights of the winter. The city engineer's office reported a low of 4 degrees this morning and an 11 degree reading at noon.

Dixie Coast Is Hit by Icy Rain And Foot of Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A winter storm has struck the Dixie coast from North Carolina to Maryland with icy rain and up to a foot of snow. It closed hundreds of schools and left many roads treacherous before swooping out to sea.

The storm, whipped by strong winds, lumbered into North Carolina early Sunday. It swept up the coast through southern Virginia and hopped over to the Maryland Eastern Shore.

Washington Spared

Washington, which trembles at a snow forecast, was spared.

South of the snow belt, rain poured down along the coast as far as Georgia. Flash flooding was reported to have struck the Rocky River at Norwood, N.C.

In Virginia, Richmond — the capital of the Old Dominion—got 8 inches. Blackstone 10 inches. The heaviest fall — 12 inches — was measured at Chatham. Norfolk had four inches and Fredericksburg and points north had no snow at all.

Schools Close

The storm buffetted Southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore with the Pocomoke City area bearing the brunt — six inches. Slight accumulations were reported as far north as Bridgeville, Del.

Thousands of youngsters got a holiday today as hundreds of schools in the snow area were ordered closed.

Says Paperwork Is Big Problem In Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff told a conference of state public aid officials today that efforts to help troubled people "is tangled too frequently in an administrative underbrush of forms and pieces of paper."

Elimination of unnecessary paperwork is first on a list of special problems his department plans to tackle this year, he said.

Ribicoff, in remarks prepared for the opening of the Social Security Administration conference with state administrators of public welfare, outlined the administration's proposed new welfare program and other points "needing special attention in the days ahead."

"There is too much paperwork in government," declared Ribicoff. "It stifles new ideas. It eats up time. It frightens away top-notch workers; it leaves their tasks to the pedantic and unimaginative."

The social welfare worker must deal with people, not percentages, he said. He cannot waste his time with "irrelevant pencil pushing and envelop stuffing."

Thus, said Ribicoff, he has directed the commissioner of Social Security to organize a work group to make a determined effort to simplify and improve all welfare forms and procedures.

Victim of Mishap Is Reported Fair

The condition of Thomas J. Turk, 39, of 39 Ponckhockie Street, injured in a two-car collision on Route 9W in Esopus early Sunday, is reported as fairly good today at Kingston City Hospital.

According to the sheriff's department, a car operated by Turk and heading north, was making a left turn when it was struck by a vehicle operated by Nazarene Manzi, 44, of Millbrook, who was headed south.

Turk was admitted to the hospital suffering back and chest injuries and cuts about the face and head. Deputy Sheriffs Richard H. Drew Jr., Peter Peterson and Cornelius Dumond investigated.

Cubs Welcome 2 New Bobcats

At the Friday night meeting of Cub Pack 32 in the Atonement Lutheran Church hall, two new Bobcats were welcomed into the pack and graduation ceremonies were held for one member who went to Boy Scout Troop 32.

Assistant Cubmaster Charles Hudson conducted the meeting, in the absence of Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello, with the assistance of committee chairman Harold Bauser. Welcomed into the pack were Scott Vanderbeck and Bertram Quick Jr. who were present with their mothers, Mrs. Earl Vanderbeck and Mrs. Bertram Quick. They received bobcat pins.

Arrow points were presented as follows:

Under Wolf, one silver, Warren Hornbeck; Under Bear, one gold and one silver, Kenneth Anders and Mark Ishkanian; one gold, Michael Staudacher; one silver, Mark Lavezzo.

Assistant Cubmaster Hudson received a four year service pin, Tim Hally a three year pin and Mark Roberts and Harry Anders one year pins.

Tim Hally was ceremoniously welcomed into Boy Socut Troop 32 by Scoutmaster Eugene Davis and the troop members with Charles Hudson Jr. presenting the scout neckerchief. Brian Legg and John Mullaney led the troop in the welcoming cheer.

Scoutmaster Davis also presented den chief cords to Dennis MacCallam, Kurt Stade and Russell Hardick who have volunteered their services to Cub Pack 32 den mothers.

The opening ceremonies were conducted by Mrs. Burt Hess' Den 3; the closing was given by Mrs. Gerald Rosenberger's Den 2; Mrs. Bauser's Den 4 had an achievement display and Mrs. Hudson's Den 1 presented a skit in keeping with the theme of the month.

An added feature of the evening was a solo by Russell Hardick, accompanied by Dennis MacCallam on the piano, There Is Nothing Like A Dame, sung to two and half year old Lee Ann Vanderbeck, who was a guest with her parents.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Mullaney, chairman, and the Mmes. Cecil Branson, Daniel Wynne and Hugo Holmquist

Local Resident Heads Masonic Association

The Masters and Wardens Association, Greene-Ulster District, has elected William J. Kiernan Jr., of 102 Elm Street, Saugerties, as president for the year.

Kiernan, Master of Ulster Lodge 193, Free and Accepted Masons of Saugerties, was elected at a regular meeting of the association held January 25 at Catskill Lodge 468.

Other officers elected in the association are David Lent of Highland, senior warden of Adonia Lodge 718, Highland, as vice president; Kenneth W. Haggins of Blue Mountain, Junior warden of Ulster Lodge, as secretary-treasurer.

The next regular meeting of the association will be on Feb. 22 at Ulster Lodge.

TB Testing in Schools Will Be Held Feb. 6-7

Feb. 6 and 7 the Ulster County TB and Health Association will be conducting the Heaf Testing in the Saugerties Public Schools and St. Mary of the Snow School.

The Heaf test is a reliable, painless method of tuberculosis detection and control, and does not involve the use of X-ray. Should a positive reaction to the Heaf test be indicated an X-ray examination will be necessary for the protection of the health of the child and the other children.

The grades being tested are first, second, third, sixth, ungranded and twelve. Public health officials feel students should be tested upon entering school in a grade midway and upon leaving school.

Demos Elect Blundell, Other 1962 Officers

County Democratic Chairman William A. Kelly of Kingston spoke to the group. The next meeting will be held Feb. 22.
